In an interview with Dr. Drakconcerning our criticism of the Mill company in last week's issue, he in formed us that the company had but one price for flour, and that the Baker city merchants did not, and could not buy it for less than the Union merchants, and if they think proper to of D cember 3d. offer it for less than cost, as a bait to the farmers, he cannot help it. If this is true, and we think it is, the mill company is in no way to blame. Mr. Wright, a merchant here, says he has never asked more than $3.50 per barrel for flour when taken in five barrel lote, so we conclude that Mr. Miles was lightly mistaken when he gave us the information he did. We think pelled to raise money and must and ear Big creek friends will find that if they buy flour for less than it cost, in Baker, they will get most beautifully cinched on other things. It can't be Drake's. otherwise.
