Dynamite for Pile-Driving. A German engineer appears to have been the pioneer in the use of dynamite. for driving piles. According to this method a circular east-iron plate tifteen inches in diameter and three and threefourths inches thick is fixed on the pile to be driven in a perfectly horizontal position. This being done, a dynamite eartridge notide in the form of a disk, six inches in diameter and three-fourths of an inch thick, and containing seventeen and one-half ounces of dynamite. is placed upon the cast-iron plate and exploded by electricity. It is stated that the depth to which the pile is driven by each explosion is equal to five blows of an ordinary pile engine weighing fourteen and three-fourths Vienna hundred-weight, falling nine feet ten inches. As it is found that a east-iron plate is equal, on an average to resisting some twenty-five explosions, the practical reality may be readily indged. - N. Y. Sun.

Wearing Live Ornaments.

No little beetles or serpents have as wet appeared this season on the evening toilets of those of the earth who can afford to be eccentric. Twenty years ago French women had a caprice for snakes. The Princess de la Tour d'Auvergne always kept a little one in her pocket, alive of course. Her husband objected. and her friends did not all quite like it, but no entreaties availed to separate her from the little reptile that she loved. Mme. Musard wore a small viper on her neck, amid her incomparable diamonds. When she appeared in her box at the opera every glass in the house was levelled at her, as she sat scintillating with the diamonds and with the death coil of the serpent's body, showing off the whiteness of her neck. Later on, the Countess Villeneuve wore for several months on her neek a beautiful scarabæus beetle, tethered to a ring by a slender gold chain, so that it could run about her shoulders .- Bes-

7574 -Sir George Strahan, having served out his term as Governor of Tasmania, has been appointed Governor of Hong Kong. His entry into the Colonial service was after this fashion: At a certain dinner Mr. Gladstone made an error in a Greek quotation, and Strahan, then a young and unknown officer in the Royal Artillery, corrected him. Mr. Gladstone took the correction kindly, inquired who the young man was, and made him his private secretary when he was High Commissioner of the Ionian Islands. Thereafter the career of the young artilleryman was steadily upward.

-"I don't think a girl should have more than one sweetheart," she said, modestly. "Ah," he replied, "you don't believe then in the adage, the more the marry her." "- Waddington Critic.

-- That was a very long story that Colonel Sozzle told after dinner," said the club man to another. "Yes," was the reply, "and I am sorry to say it was as broad as it was long."-Boston Commercial Bulletin.

-Landlady-The coffee, I am sorry to say, is exhausted, Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith-Ah, yes, poor thing. I was expecting that. I've noticed that for some time it hasn't been strong .-Christian at Work.

CANCER CAN BE CURED.

Operations Serving in Every Case to Pro-The question whether or not cancer the Bellevue Hospital, New York, to be used as a training school for male nurses, is curable by operation is one of vitaimportance to those who may have the disease. It is popularly supposed to left to itself. Paget, in 139 cases, gives the duration of life in seventy-five not operated upon is twelve years: in those operated upon, eighteen years. While these statistics go to prove that operation prolongs life, they do not prove an ultimate cure. Dr. Oldekop shows in his report that out of 229 cases where operations had been performed twenty- it is, alas! often dimmed or quenched by three recovered. Dr. Willard Parker believed in operations for the disease. In a paper read before the Medical Journal Association in September, 1873, he reports fourteen cases of cure by excision, the patients being in good health at the ends of periods varying from three to twenty-seven years.

A mass of statistics might be brought to show that in many instances cancer has been radically cured, and in other cases life has been indefinitely prospecial cases will serve to show this. Sold only in boxes. Dr. Weir reports a case in which the right breast was amputated by Dr. James R. Wood in 1856. In 1867 Dr. Post amputated the left breast. In 1878 Dr. Weir removed a recurrent growth from the right side, and again in 1877 and 1880, the patient finally dying of the disease twenty-five years after its first appearance. Dr. Frank H. Hamilton operated upon a patient years, and another patient of his whose breast was entirely removed, survived the operation for ten years. Cases of this description might be multiplied. Br. Shrady: General Grant's physician, claims that the disease is organic and in no way hereditary. He believes that its origin is local, and is therefore removable, and that the constitution becomes affected only secondarily by a more or less widespread dissemination of original cancer germs. The failure of one excision to effect a cure in no wise disconcerts him. The disease is insidious, and a careful microscopic examination is necessary to follow its various ramifications. Where the growth is not in close proximity to the vital organs, operation after operation may be tried with impunity. In the case of General Grant, the entire throat was affected and an operation meant cer- $17,000. tain death, otherwise an operation would have been tried. It is an exception for more than one member of a family to become the victim of cancer. In fact it may be considently said that no human being can be sure of escaping the disease until he has passed the ge of its occurrence, which is when his vital machinery is entirely worn out. In other words he can never be considered fortunate in respect to cancer until he is dead.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

At what age does an alligator begin to eat, and what does he eat, anyhow? I am not versed in the killing ways of this species of the Saurian tribe, and, though alligators are by no means uncommon pets in the North, I never happened to be the proud possessor of one until recently. This little creature traveled in a box all the way from Florida, and when he arrived, after his four days' journey, had apparently given up the ghost. There he lay on his back, eyes shut, his hands clenched, his feet in the air-in fact, dead as a door nail. A Good Samaritan suggested, as he was not stiff, a warm bath might revive him, and so into water he was tenderly dropped, with the reflection that the taxidermist would see him later. But not so! An hour after a bark no bigger than the sound emitted by a toy dog warned me that Master Gator was no more dead than the family eat who sat beside the bowl containing the unaccountable object and looking unutterable things. Since then this infant has been as lively as ten crickets. It is impossible to keep track of him and the cat at the same time, so when one is taking its airing the other is shut in the closet. In the meanwhile the native of Florida refuses to partake of food. Indeed I have not been able to see if that historic jaw has any hinge to work it, for though he seems to enjoy the petting he receives, especially being rubbed on that particularly ugly place, he won't open his mouth. I begin to think he hasn't any; that he is a subject for the dime museum, or will have to have an operation performed at the Massachusetts General Hospital to enable him by

FOR GOOD PURPOSES.

Mrs. M. A. Dauphin, of Philadelphia, is well known to the ladies of that city from the great good she has done by means of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She writes Mrs. Pinkham of a recent interesting case. "A young married lady came to me suffering with a severe case of Prolapsus and Ulceration. She com-H. Hamilton operated upon a patient menced taking the Compound, and in two who survived the excision twenty months was fully restored. In proof of this she soon found herself in an interesting condition. Influenced by foolish friends she attempted to evade the responsibilities of maturity. After ten or twelve days she came to me again and she was indeed in a most alarming state and suf-fered terribly. I gave her a table spoonful of the compound every hour for eight hours until she fell asleep, she awoke much relieved and evidently better. She continued taking the Compound, and in due season she became the mother of a fine healthy boy. But for the timely use of the medicine, she believes her life would have been lost.
