Nervous Exhaustion.

A Few Useful Hints For Nervous People.

"I am so nervous" is a very common expression, used by both old and young: and very few can now be found who are free from nervous troubles. We regret to see that the malady is rapidly increasing. And from what cause? There are various reasons. It may be because of a low condition of the general health; the vitility of the nervous system is depressed; or from a want of perfect digestion and assimiliation of food, and the vitilizing power of pure, rich blood, the nerves are not properly strenthened and nourshed, and consequently become weak and diseased and that class of disease known as nervous affections, were apparently confined to ladies; but at the present day it is an undoubted fact that as large a portion of nen vous diseases exist among men as among the gentler sex; and their distressing affects and lasting and enervating results are a thousand fold more series, as they extend to posterity and are productive of a weakened and enfeebled race. Nervous and physical deblity, caused by

is a frequent and distressing disease, its depressing influence being felt alike on both exes and all ages. Among the lirst symptons of this affection are usually a derangement of the digestive organs. A feelof languar will be experienced, and a gradnal failing of strength, with general weakness and pain in the back. More or less exhaustation is experienced on waking in the the morning.
