Nervous Exhaustion. A Few Useful Hints For

Nervous People.

"I am so nervous" is a very common expression, used by both old and young; and very few can now be found who are free from nervous troubles. We regret to see that the inplady is rapidly increasing. And from what cause? There are various reasons. It may be because of a low condition the gentler sex; and their distressing affects and lasting and enervating results are a thousand fold more series, as they extend to posterity and are productive of a weakened and enfeebled race. Nervous and physical debility, caused by

is a frequent and distressing disease, its depressing influence being felt alike on both sexes and all ages. Among the first symprons of this affection are usually a derangement of the digestive organs. A feelof languor will be experienced, and a gradual failing of strength, with general weakness and pain in the back. More or less exhaustation is experienced on waking in the the morning. There is often a bad taste in the mouth; the vision becomes dim, the memory is impaired, and the patient is troubled with frequent dizziness. Persons thus affected are often despondant, and ruffer from gloom and depression of the mind. The nerves become so weakened that the least excitement or shock brings on a tremor or trembling, often attended by palpatation of the heart.

Are particularly susceptible to nervous disorders, owing partly to their more delicate nervous organization and partly to their sedentary life and consequent confinement in-doors. Such affections are attended by restlessness and nervous excitement, anxiety or depression of the mind, oss of interest in society and the daily affairs of life. There is also loss of sleep; the patient on rising in the morning, feeling tired, languid and unrefreshed. From light nervous attacks to hysteria, from simple "nervousness" to utter prostration, there are many and varied forms of diseases of the nervous system none of which should exist, and of all of which can be cured by

Which first stimulates the liver and kidney to healthy action, regulates the digestive of gans, and from the first dose begins its work of purifying and building up the wornout system It produces sweet and healthy sleep, enriches the blood, and imparts to the pale and sallow cheeks' the glow of health, brings brightness to the eye and elasticity to the step. More real benifit can be derived from one half dozen bottles of Dr Pardee's Remedy, than from a hundred dollars invested in any other way. Ask your druggist for it, and take no
