

SWALLOWED A SPIDER.

A Novel but a Marvelous Cure for Malaria.

"Malaria."

"Yes, malaria."

"No sir. I am no more afraid of malaria than I am of you," and as the speaker was at least ten inches taller than the reporter, and proportionately broader, his fear of that dread malady was probably not excessive. I've had malaria, and I've been cured."

"Yes, but a man can have malaria more than once."

"Not if he is cured the way I was. About ten years ago I was living in Indiana, in Vigo county, near Terra Haute. In those days a man was regarded as a stranger until he had drunk about a gallon of whiskey and quinine, and shaken down his headstead three or four times with the ague. I had a rather reticent nature, and I suppose it took the climate longer to get acquainted with me than it did the ordinary run of men. For I had to drink about a barrel of whiskey and take whole pounds of quinine before I could get strong enough to even shake myself, let alone a bed."

"How was I cured?"

"Well it was a novel cure. I boarded with a Mrs. Dennis, who told me she could cure me if I would take her medicine. Finally I agreed. She brought a towel and bound it around my head so I could not see; then she brought a glass of water and told me to take my dose and immediately swallow the water."

The dose tasted like a little ball of dust, and as it was going down I felt a sharp pain in my throat, as if it had been scratched.

"The next morning Mrs. Dennis brought a little box and showed me her medicine. It was a big, hairy, black spider, alive, and the mate to the one I had swallowed the day before."

The medicine this gentleman took for malaria, may have been effective, but few would care to try the remedy. Nor is there any necessity for it.

Malaria is a poisoned condition of the blood produced by bad air and water, which enter the blood-channels through the stomach and lungs and other ways, and produce injurious effects on the liver and kidneys. It is cured by putting the liver and kidneys in perfect, healthy working order. The drugs ordinarily used for such purposes frequently do quite as much harm as good, and leave the system in an enfeebled condition.

The certain and harmless remedy for malaria is Warner's safe cure which puts the liver and kidneys in healthy action, when the poison is carried out of the system, and the serious effects it engenders, pass away. J. M. Booth, Springfield, Mass., under date of March 28th, 1887, writes:—"One year ago I had the malaria—had had it more or less for ten years. I stopped all other medicines and took Warner's safe cure, and it cured me. This country is famous for malaria, and I know Warner's safe cure will cure it."

People who live in malarious localities will find in Warner's safe cure a specific against contracting this disease. The malarial poison can find no entrance to the system, if the liver and kidneys are kept in healthy action. The gentleman who swallowed the spider, concludes his narrative in the New York Mail and Express by saying: "I was effectually cured, but I wouldn't take another dose of that medicine to save my life."

ANGELO SOLIMAN'S HIDE.

Romantic History of the Head of an Aristocratic Austrian Family.

Few persons are aware that until a short time ago the natural history collection in the Imperial Palace at Vienna included among its most remarkable curiosities the stuffed hide of a human being. The recent discussion concerning the card-cases manufactured at Paris of the murderer Pranzini's skin has recalled attention to the fact, and to the romantic history of the man who has so long figured in the Austrian Emperor's private museum. The name of the original owner of the hide was Angelo Soliman, who, notwithstanding the fact that he was a coal-black negro from the Sudanese tribe of the Gallas, was nevertheless the ancestor and grandfather of several of the most noted members of the Viennese aristocracy. One of his grandsons is the Baron Ernst von Feuchtersleben, who held Cabinet office for several years as Imperial Minister of the Public Worship Department. Another of his grandsons, the Baron Egonard von Feuchtersleben, is a celebrated author and poet, while several of his great-grandsons hold rank in the Imperial diplomatic and military service. Two days a week until quite lately these members of the Austrian nobility had the extraordinary privilege of being able to visit their stuffed ancestor, who, seated on an arm-chair with his perfectly preserved features and staring glass eyes, presented a most lifelike and uncanny appearance.

The history of Angelo Soliman is as follows: In the year of 1740 Prince Lobkowitz, one of the principal Generals in the Imperial Austrian army, happened, while visiting the City of Messina, in Sicily, to have his attention drawn to a little seven-year-old negro boy who was acting as page to one of the noble ladies of the place. The child was asserted to be the offspring of a native King and was said to have been kidnapped from his home and sold as a slave at Cairo. By some means or other he had come into the hands of a sea captain trading between Alexandria and Sicily, who had brought him to Messina and presented him to the lady in question. The latter had caused him to be baptized by the name of Angelo Soliman. Prince Lobkowitz took a great fancy to the boy, persuaded the lady to let him have the child, and took him into his service. Angelo followed his new master everywhere, was present with him throughout all the campaigns, and received a most careful education. On the death of the General he entered the service of Prince Liechtenstein as tutor of the latter's children.

Angelo had become a remarkably learned man. He spoke perfectly several languages—French, Italian, German, Latin and Czech. Although of small stature, he was wonderfully well built, his features although as black as charcoal were of a Caucasian rather than of an Ethiopian cast, and his hair, beard and mustache were silky and curly. His manners were distinguished by the most exquisite courtesy, and dressed in his flowing Oriental robes and snow-white turban he was one of the most popular members of the best Viennese society of the day. A noble widow, the Baroness de Christiani, fell deeply in love with him, and in due time a marriage took place. For some reason or other Prince Liechtenstein viewed the union with disfavor and quarreled with Angelo, who thereupon left his service. He was, however, very comfortably off, for not only was his wife wealthy, but he himself had just a short time before won the principal prize of 20,000 florins in the Frankfurt State Lottery. He purchased a pretty house and garden in the suburbs of Vienna, and lived there most happily with his wife, devoting himself to the education of his daughter, Josephine, the only issue of the marriage. The young girl was one of the most fascinating and beautiful types of mulatto imaginable, and after refusing a large number of offers at length gave her hand in marriage to one of the Imperial Counselors of State, the Baron von Feuchtersleben, from whom the present bearers of the name and title are descended in direct line. Angelo, who before his death had become reconciled to the Liechtenstein family, went over to the great majority in 1796, being seventy-five years old at the time.

The Emperor, who had always shown a great fancy for Angelo, conceived the peculiar idea of preserving his old friend, stuffed and in a glass case, Strange to relate, Angelo's family, far from being offended, expressed themselves highly flattered by the imperial request, and immediately consented to surrender the remains to the court taxidermists. After having a cast made of his face and body by the famous sculptor, Franz Thaller, the skin was carefully removed from the body, subjected to a number of chemical preparations, and finally stuffed with great care. It is only quite recently that this somewhat uncanny object has disappeared from the imperial collection, owing, if I remember rightly, to its having been almost destroyed by the rats and mice.—Vienna Cor. N. Y. World.

Our minutes show that during our ecclesiastical year, that presbyter, composed of converted Sioux Indians, gave 4571 more to foreign missions than any presbytery in the synod, and during the last synodical year it gave to the nine boards of our church $234 more than any of the white presbyteries of the synod.—Interior.

CATARRH.

A New Home Treatment for the Cure of Catarrh, Catarrhal Leucorrhoea and My Fever.

The microscope has proved that these diseases are contagious, and that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the upper air passages and eustachian tubes. The eminent scientists, Tyndall, Huxley and Beale endorse this, and these authorities cannot be disputed. The regular method of treating these diseases has been to apply an irritant remedy, weekly and even daily, thus keeping the delicate membrane in a constant state of irritation, allowing it no chance to heal, and as a natural consequence of such treatment not one permanent cure has ever been recorded. It is an absolute fact that these diseases can not be cured by any application made oftener than once in two weeks, for the membrane must get a chance to heal before an application is repeated. It is now seven years since Mr. Dixon discovered the parasite in catarrh and formulated his new treatment, and since then his remedy has become a household word in every country where the English language is spoken. Cures effected by him seven years ago are cures still, there having been no return of the disease. So highly are these remedies valued that ignorant imitators have started up everywhere pretending to destroy a parasite of which they know nothing, by remedies, the result of the application of which they are equally ignorant. Mr. Dixon's remedy is applied only once in two weeks, and from one to three applications effect a permanent cure in the most aggravated cases.

Mr. Dixon sends a pamphlet describing his new treatment on the receipt of stamp to pay postage. The address is A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 King street west, Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

PEACE ON EARTH

Awaits that countless army of martyrs, whose ranks are constantly recruited from the victims of nervousness and nervous diseases. The price of the boon is a systematic course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest and most genial of tonic nervines, pursued with reasonable persistence. Easier, pleasant and safer than any other remedy, it is a department with pseudo-tonics, alcoholic or the reverse, sweet extracts, nerve foods, narcotics, sedatives and poisons in disguise. "Tired Nature's sweetest restorant, balmy sleep," is the providential recuperant for weak nerves, and this glorious franchise being usually the consequence of sound digestion and increased vigor, the great stomachic which insures both is productive also of repose at the required time. Not unfrequently the individual who uses it, but vigorous, clear headed and tranquil. Use the Bitters also in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney troubles, constipation and biliousness.

Thin soup, according to an Irish mendicant, is "a quart of water boiled down to a pint to make it strong."

SOMEBODY'S CHILD.

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face, and somebody's mother thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden where no ray of hope can brighten it—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor, take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable; that men are living to-day whom the physicians pronounced incurable, because a lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured hundreds; surpasses cod liver oil, hypophosphites and other medicines in curing this disease. Sold by druggists.

One and one-third pints of powdered sugar weigh one pound.

NOT ONLY THE NATIONAL DISEASE BUT MANY OTHERS.

It is said that dyspepsia is our national malady. Well, BRANDRETH'S PILLS will cure the national malady. It is said that constipation is the curse of our sedentary life. Well, BRANDRETH'S PILLS certainly cure constipation. It is generally conceded that rheumatism comes from acid stomach and sudden changes of temperature. BRANDRETH'S PILLS have corrected all this and will do it again. Chronic diseases are cured by taking two to four of BRANDRETH'S PILLS every night for a month.

ST. JACOBS OIL

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN. Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Frostitis, Sprains, Bruises, Cuts, Burns, and Scalds.

1st. It is in one word a cure; it is not merely a relief and in no sense a cure-all; it is the product of scientific research.

2d. It strengthens while it soothes and subdues, dures, heals and cures; it literally conquers pain.

3d. Its effects are curative and permanent to the whole group of muscular miseries and nervous agonies.

4th. It does not merely irritate the outer surface, face, nor does it merely soften or relax a contracted muscle. To its specific action a superior curative virtue is superadded.

5th. It penetrates deeply but gently; searchingly and surely, seeking the pain spot in an effort to conquer.

6th. Each constituent of the formula has a recognized intrinsic virtue to serve most surely the cure of pain.
