FREAKS OF FORTUNE.

"I wonder how I should feel if I won $15,000 in the lottery!" is a remark one | Some of the Wonderful Products Obtain-frequently hears. David Stern, pawnbroker, 614 Clay street, is one man at least who has experienced the sensation of winning a fortune for a dollar. On Thursday he drew $15 .-000 from Wells, Fargo & Co's bank, his coupon, representing one-tenth of the capital prize of $150,000 in the January drawsought the fortunate pawnbroker at his place of business, and found him in the act of emptying a huge sack of shining twenty

"Yes, I have won," said he, in a voice that was quite husky for the moment. "There is the money. I have just come from the bank with it."

He added that he had not counted it, but the information was scarcely necessary, for he was in no frame of mind to count of glistening gold, that c inked and glit-tered cheerfully as the Stern family ran their fingers through it. They seemed, as yet, to have scarcely reali ed their good it, as if they expected to see it vanish like the fabric of a dream. But there was nothing intangible about the heap of yel-low twenty-dollar pieces. Some of the money slipped from the table a d rolled merrity along the floor, jingling as if delighted to have been freed from the re-straint of the bank vaults. The toddling youngster on the floor filled his little hands with the valuable playthings, and seemed as much pleased with their touch as his older relatives, whose eyes were fixed on the table. Mrs Stern was spee bless, and could only clasp her hands and smile at her lucky spouse. The latter was still too excited to think or act with habitual coorness. He walked from the gold-laden table to the front door and back a dozen times in a minute without apparent pur-Customers came in and looked around, but he eemed to see nothing but the glittering fortune that had come so suddenly. The news had spread outside. and relative, and friends d opped in till the gathering became so much a family one that the r porter concluded to with-draw for a while. In an hour he returned. Mr. Stern had cooled down slightly and could talk coherently. He had put the money in the bank after paying a few friends who were interested with him in

The year has begun well for me, thank God," said he. "On Sunday last my boy, being 13 years old, was confirmed in .ur religion. On Monday we had a banquet, and he got many valuable presents, in cluding bank-books showing money de-posited for him by friends. On Tuesday, coming home from school he stopped at the Chronicle builetin-board and copied off the list of winning numbers in the Louisiana State Loctery, and rished down to say, 'rapa, you've won the $15,000.' 1 couldn't ere it it at first, but as soon as I looked over my list of numbers I saw the boy was right. Then I was afraid the ticket might not be genuine, but I soon learned that it was, and I had it cashed this morning."

Another inundation of fri nds and relatives flooded the store, and the reporter

Oscar Nathan, an industrious barber on Hardy place, between l'ost and Sutter streets, held a tenth of ticket 85,14, which drew $5,00). He got his money an hour after Mr. Stern nlied his sack at the bank, The frequenters of the bar, northeast a ferment by reason of the fact that some old-timer has drawn another tenth of the capital prize and refuses to disclose his identity. Boniface Robinson, the presid-ing genius of the establishment, has been requested by an indignation meeting of his patrons to reveal the secret, but has refused. The place is frequented by lynxeved politicians and special policemen and they are all watching one another for any eruption of diamand rings or indul-gence in new clothes that would indicate the lucky prize-winner. Colonel J. L. Wehr, a new arrival from Kansas City, is perhaps the most disgusted visitor on the Pacific coast at present. Colonel Wehr, although an educator and apparently a n-ost intelligent gentleman, is somewhat influenced by superstition, Before the January drawing of the Louisiand lottery he invested $1 in a one-tenth E mepoan metal. Several territories coupon of ticket 73.18). Directly after getting the coupon the gallant Colonel ran full trit on Kearney street against a crosseyed woman. On the next block he met a funeral, and as the superstitious code of ill omens marks these as sure signs of bad luck, the Colonel concluded that his ticket was mere useless paper. Down the street he met his friend R. S. McCann, also of Kansas, and alluded laughingly to the ill

"I'll put up half a dollar against it and shake you for it," said Mr. McCann. McLann won the shake and pocketed the ticket, and a few days after the Colonel read on the Chronicle bulletin-board that the despised coupon nad won the second prize, and McCann, who has gone to Hum-boldt to look at some land, is expected

Pete," the Bulgarian sportsman, and proprietor of the United States Restaurant, and fell into a d-ep ditch. His lottery-ti ket having got thoroughly soaked through he put it on the cover of his large coffee pot to dry. The young Bulgarian apprentice, who has a free and easy Slavonian way of tossing things around, whip-ped off the cover of the coffee-pot, and not knowing anything about the lostery-ticket, managed to drop it into the seething Mocha without seeing it. When Big Pete got back from the front of the retaurant to examine his precious lotteryticket, there was a wild scene. He was nearly beside himself till the cook in emptying out the coffee-kettle found the ticket, but it was in such a condition that a microscope could scarcely decipher the number. It has been given to a competent chemist, who has undertaken t make it presentable for bank purposes. Mean-time "Big Pete" sits on the top of one of the high stools in his coffee-house, unde-cided whether to take off his coat and go to work or make arrangements for a trip to Europe. The apprentice who has been the cause of so much misery is hiding for his tife in the hills back of Temescal.

-According to Professor S. P. Langley, the well-known American astronomer, the temperature of the sunlit surface of the moon has been commonly over-estimated, and probably does not exceed fifty degrees centigrade. Mr. Richard A. Proctor, in his elaborate work on the moon, says that, during the lunar day, the surface of the moon burns, one may almost declare, with a heat of some five hundred degrees Fahrenheit, if the inferences of our most skillful physicists and the evidence obtained from our most powerful means of experiments can be trusted.

BITUMINOUS COAL.

able in a Gas Factory.

Few persons have any idea of the wonderful products from a lump of coal-a lump of coal that is placed in the retort of a gas manufactory. Ordinarily burned, the combustion of a lump of coal results in carbonic acid. smoke (which is merely soot, or rather ing of the Lou siana State Lo ers, having been immediately honored. A Chronicle reporter, who heard of Mr. Stern's luck, alumina, exide of iron phorobasis. alumina, oxide of iron, phosphoric acid, sulphuric acid, potash, sodium, combined sulphur, sometimes traces of dollar pieces on a table in the rear of his establishment Mr. Stern was, to say the least, somewhat excited. His usually swarthy countenance was white, and his dark eyes blazed with strong emotion. is carried through the hydraulic main to the purifying rooms, takes with it tar and ammonia, the latter evolved from the nitrogen. The ammonia has to be washed out with water in an arrangement by which the am nonia is anything. The $15,000 made a great heap gathered and saved. Tons and tons of sulphate of ammonia are thus made, and become an article of commerce. The sulphur is removed by caustic fortune. They looke tat the gold, and felt lime of oxide of iron. The carbonic acid is also removed by lime, but the sulphurous acid can not be removed, and, with several others, remains in the gas after all efforts to remove it. The others give the gas its smell.

B: distillation, naphtha and asphaltum are obtained. Asphaltum is a dead oil, very useful to preserve wood. From this, too, carbolic acid is obtained, very important in surgical operations as being the most valuable antiseptic known. From naphtha, benzole, eumol, tuluol and symol are obtained. Naphtha, as is well known, is used as a burning fluid. Benzole is a solvent for grease and oils, very useful in cleaning kid gloves and things of that kind.

Benzole treated with nitric acid produces nitrobenzole. This, singularly enough, is used as a flavoring extract by confectioners and for perfuming soap. When used for this purpose, it is known in commerce as the essence of myrrhbane, which it is not, although it smells and tastes something ike essence of myrrhbane or oil of bitter almonds. Nitrobenzole is terribly poisonous, but not more so than other adulterants used by confection-

From nitrobenzole aniline is obtained. This, when first obtained, is a perfectly colorless liquid, but darkens as it grows older. From aniline are obtained the coal tar colors, which are so very brilliant. The colors are of all hues. The one known as "Torkey red" is exactly similar to the red that used to be made from the madder root. Since the discovery of this aniliae, it has almost completely broken up the raising of madder in Holland. There thousands of acres were devoted to the raising of madder root to get corner of clay and Kearney streets are in the Turkey red dye. It can be made much cheaper from the product of a gas factory .- Coal Trade Journal.

OUR COUNTRY'S WEALTH.

The Inexhaustible Mineral Resources of The wonderful developments in iron-ore mining around Lak Superior have recently been the subject of much comment. But it is found on examination that no State or Territory west of the Mississippi is without iron. California has superior ores. The iron of Oregon is equal to the very best have enormous supplies, and iron ores are to-day mined in twenty-one of our United States. Every county in Mis--ouri has iron ore, and Iron Mountain and P.lot Knob have, it is estimated, over 500,000,000 tons of excellent ore. Texas has great masses, and the Alabama supply is being developed at Birmingham-excellent iron for some uses, especially for castings. The iron ores of Wisconsin and Michigan (Gogebic range) and of Minnesota (Vermillion range) are of not only if such quantity to surprise one, but back in a few days.

T. N. Milcovich, better known as "Big Last year over 3,000,000 tons were of the best quality for steel making. mined and shipped to points on Lake Erie, an enormous proon Broadway, Cakland, held a one-tenth coupon of the capital prize. Nick was out exercising his greyhounds near Alameda, 1887 show an increase, and a ready 1887 show an increase, and a ready 2,500,000 tons have been shipped. But what a State is Michigan with her salt, copper and iron! And what a country we have altogether! One section of it that was untouched in 1880 is now producing 4,000,000 tons of iron annually, and another section, Montana, scarcely known in 1880, is producing 80,000,000 pounds of copper now in a year. Another (Idaho) has a mountain of sulphur, and another (Wyoming) has vast areas of peroleum within its borders. California has sent over $1,000,000,000 of gold to the United States mint, and is also a veritable garden spot America finds ron tonic. In her iron ores she can furnish food, clothing, shelter and resources for any possible millions of population. And with the rapid extension of science (America, by the way, took away the five gold medals way, took away the five gold medals at the last Paris electrical exposition—took the whole five) beyond the present limits of imaginable experience, who can but feel the great responsibility for developing these material resources, but also these moral and political virtues that alone make a blessing of wealth to the common well-paing?—Boston Transcript.

PEACE ON EARTH

Awaits that countless army of martyrs, whose ranks are constantly recruited from the victims of nervousness and nervous diseases. The price of the boon is a systematic course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest and most genial of tonic nervines, pursued with reasonable persistence. "Tired Nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep," is the providential recuperant for weak nerves, and this glorious franchise being usually the consequences of sound digestion and increased vigor, the great stomachic which insures both is productive also of repose at the required time. Not unretreshed awakens the ingivid. Not unrefreshed awakens the individ ual who uses it, but vigorous, clear headed and tranquil.
