THE FUNEREAL MONTH OF MARCH.

An observant metropolitan barber says that he can tell one's physical condition by the state of his hair!

The Bible tells us that with his bair gone Samson lost his strength. The Romans considered baldness a serious affliction and Julius Cæsar was never quite satisfied with himself because his poll was bare.

The face, however, is the open book expressions, lines, changes and complexion the state of the system.

The eye that is unusually bright and yet has a pallid brightness, the face upon whose cheeks nature paints a rose of singular beauty and flush, more marked in contrast with the alabaster appearance of the forehead and nose and lower part of the face, is one of those whom the skilled physician will tell you will some day dread the funereal month of March, because it is then that consumption reaps its richest harvest. Consumption they tell us is caused by this that and the other thing, by microbes in the air, by micro-organisms in the blood, by deficient nutrition, by a thousand and one things, but whatever the cause, decay begins with a cough and the remedy that will effectually stop the cause of that cough cures the disease of the

A LUCKY TRIAL.

The good Fortune which followed fair treatment.

San Francisco, February 29, 1888. DEAR SIR: It affords me great pleasure to send you this voluntary statement of my experience in testing the merits of Joy's Sarsaparilla. For the past five years I have been troubled with an exceedingly sluggish liver, and within the past two years it has brought within its trail a thoroughly disordered atomach, including loss of appetite and distress after eating, pains in the back and kidneys, and bot's around my neck and face. I have tried several remedies which are advertised as specially for the liver, and could never get more than temporary relief of about a week or two. I was recommended to try a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a test, and while taking the first bottle I became convinced of its merits for I could feel it was working a change in me. I have taken five bottles, and during that time my troubles have lett me. Everything is working full and regular, in fact it has cleaned, purified and braced me up generally. I feel like a new man. You are at perfect liberty to use this as you see fit, or you can refer whom you please to ceedingly sluggish liver, and within the past two low the Rough Woodsmen of the Northwest Spend Their Time. Of the hundreds of logging campcattered through the pine forests of Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the ordinary Eastern man has little idea. A camp is a little vilage of perhaps half a dozen log cabintuated in the woods, often from to o twenty miles from the nearest town and one can readily trace in its various or settlement. It has a population, or, nore properly speaking, a crew, of rom twenty to one hundred men, according to the size of the operations, and two or three women who do the cooking and washing. In general appearance the logging camp of to-day loubtless varies little from those of fifty years ago. Of the half-dozen buildings of which the camp is composed, one, the "men's shanty," serves is a dwelling-house for the whole crew, one for the boarding-house, or "cooks" shanty," in which the cooks live, another for an office and store, and the others for barns, blacksmith shop, etc.

IN A LOGGING CAMP.

The men's shanty is a large, square og cabin with no partitions inside, there being simply one room, with toors and windows at the ends, and bunks built along the sides, one above the other, after the fashion of berths in a steam-boat. Each bunk has a straw tick and heavy woolen blankets for bedding. In the center of the room is an open space, in the middle of which stove, with the furniture, consisting of s made up with men of many nationsingle men, and their annually, with unvarying degrees of success in mastering it. Their dress is ume consisting usually of a red knit J. W. Henshaw, of Greensboro, Pa., ap, red or blue Mackinaw shirt (worn on Jan. 15, I888, reported that "he had in place of a coat), gray pants, long derived more real benefit for the length red stockings drawn over the pants to of time, from Warner's Log Cabin the knee, heavy low rubbers on the Cough and Consumption remedy than feet, woolen mittens, and perhaps a red sash tied around the waist. Their wages range from eighteen to twenty-six dollars per month, and board. The after is plain but wholesome, consisting of sait meats, bread, potatoes and elenty of beans and like articles that e easy to transport and preserve. The food is usually well cooked, and no matter if it could be improved : others are offered, insist the more on pine air is apt to call it "good grub."

The men spend their leisure timevenings and Sundays in camp, and evening presents an interesting appearance. They scatter themselve around, resting after their day's work and amuse themselves in various ways Some are lying in their bunks reading some writing letters to distant friends or perhaps the girl they left behind them in Canada or far-away Norway o Sweden, while cards, checkers of singing takes up the attention of the emainder. Nearly all are smoking. and the conversation is carefully interlarded with profanity of the most fluen: variety. Swearing is one of the accomplishments of the regular woodsman, and he could teach a cow-boy new cuss words. All are in bed before nine o'clock, for they must be up a: half-past four in the morning, breakfast at five, and be out in the woods at six ready for work. The adage "early to bed and early to rise" is very strictly observed in a logging camp. - Harper's Weekly.

HUGO,

Is not a more tenacious monster than maiaria, whether it takes the form of chills and fever, bilions remitiant, ague cake or dumb ague. L ke the octopus of the story it clasps the vietim in its tentacule, and folds him closer and closer in a horrible embrace. Attacked with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, however, it gradually relaxes its tremendous grip, finally abandons it, and the quondam sufferer, liberated at last, rejoices in the sense of new born freedom, engendered by the restoration of complete health. Dyspepsis, too, and constipation, those old and remorseless enemies of the human family, give ground, and are Snally driven from the field by this Napoleon of remedies, the greatest, the purest in the family pharmacopoia. Rheumatism succumbs to it, so do kidney troubles. The nerves, when overstrained, regain quietude and vigor by its aid, and the ability to rest tranquily and eat with zest are increased by it. HAPPY HOMES.

Much has been written and said about how to make home happy. The moralist and the preacher have backneyed this theme until it would seem nothing more remained to be said. But the philosophers have gone far out of their way to account for the prevalence of ill assorted couples and unhappy homes, and have overlooked the chief cause. Most of the unhappiness of married life can be traced directly to those functional derangements to which women are subject. In nine cases out of ten the irritable, dissatisfied and unhappy wife is a sufferer from some "female complaint." A trial of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will produce more domestic happiness than a million sermions or philosophical treatises. It cures all those peculiar weaknesses and allments incident to women. It is the only medicine sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded.
