

WASHINGTON.

An Interesting Letter From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, Dec. 23, 1888.

EDITOR OREGON SCOUT:—

A quieter Christmas, Washington never saw. After the pushing and fighting to sell and to buy holiday goods, it came as a blessed relief alike to rich and poor. There were very few big dinner parties, or even family gatherings. In fact, the ideal Christmas dinner of Dickens is no more. The poor relation warms his heels before his own fire, and the bachelor head clerk seeks a restaurant. The great turkey has changed to a canvas back duck, and the fragrant plum pudding and mince pie are relegated to retirement. Even the "rounder's" opportunities to get drunk are comparatively few. The saloons no longer keep open all day Christmas to distribute egg-nog. Nearly all closed at noon, and thus additional quiet was secured.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland, walked to church through the bright sunshine, and heard the usual Christmas sermon. In the afternoon they drove to Oak View and back, and took dinner alone at the White House. The only member of the cabinet not in the city, was Secretary Endicott, who ate an old-fashioned New England dinner in his own state. The Whitney family spent the day at Grasslands. Luckily for the President, that the Executive Mansion was closed to visitors during the day, and only Secretary Bayard called. But the ghost of the New Year reception is in the Presidential vision.

Big, round faced Tom Reed and little Napoleon faced Wm McKinley, took advantage of the recess to go home, but the rest of the candidates for speakership did not stir, but remained to fight it out, with the congressmen who remain in the city as delighted spectators. These candidates are now concentrating forces against Mr. Reed as being the most dangerous man. They say that Mr. Reed's two complimentary nominations have nothing to do with the case. They allege that he has to many personal enemies in his own party, made by his imperious manner in debate, and that the complimentary nominations were given grudgingly. On the first ballot the chances of the leading five candidates will look well.

I say leading five candidates advisedly, for within the last two days not only is there "another Richmond in the field," but there are several of them. Now comes Henry Cabot Lodge, of Mass., who is cursed with youth, but who has made a good impression in congress. His candidacy is said to be really worked up by the western men, who know that a vigorous canvass by Mr. Lodge, would break Mr. Reed's solid New England vote. As a dark horse Mr. Farquhar, of Buffalo, has hopes that may not be misplaced. He will depend upon the New York influence. Then Thomas M. Bayne of Pennsylvania feels a burning desire to do honor to his state by occupying the Speaker's chair. And the returns are not yet in from the doubtful states. Senator Hale's senate census committee is deluged with letters of advice as to the next census. It is proposed to ascertain the length of service of all survivors of the late war, not only of the federal but of the confederate army. The census of 1880 gave forth 22 volumes. The present bill allows for seven volumes for the next census, and the sum to be appropriated, is 6,000,000, exclusive of expense of printing. The last census did not cost so much, but new subjects will be introduced, and the increased population will necessitate a greater expense. The population, it is estimated, will be found to be from sixty four to sixty-six millions. It is a pity that the bill cannot provide for a superior class of local enumerators and reasonable accuracy. But an accurate census is an impossibility.

The Johnson annex, to the Arlington, contains the rooms that will be occupied by Gen. Harrison during inauguration. Parlors have been engaged at Willard's from which his family and their party will witness the inaugural parade. It is customary for the retiring President to meet his successor at some point, and escort him to the Capitol. Mr. Cleveland will probably take Gen. Harrison into the carriage at Willard's. General Harrison is said not to have decided upon the date of his arrival here, but it is expected that he will not arrive until a couple of days before March 4th. The outcome of the Hayti affair, at least so far as the present is concerned, is received with little interest here, having been so much a foregone conclusion. Still it is productive of genuine pleasure to know that the honor of the United States abroad has been once vindicated. Admiral Luce might not have had so plain sailing, however, in the waters of a great power.

Day and Night

During an acute attack of Bronchitis, a ceaseless tickling in the throat, and an exhausting, hacking cough, afflict the sufferer. Sleep is banished, and great prostration follows. This disease is also attended with Hoarseness, and sometimes Loss of Voice. It is liable to become chronic, involve the lungs, and terminate fatally. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral affords speedy relief and cure in cases of Bronchitis. It controls the disposition to cough, and induces refreshing sleep.

I have been a practicing physician for twenty-four years, and for the past twelve, have suffered from annual attacks of Bronchitis. After exhausting all the usual remedies,

Without Relief,

I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It effected a speedy cure.—G. Stovell, M. D., Carron, Miss.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is decidedly the best remedy, within my knowledge, for chronic Bronchitis, and all lung diseases.—M. A. Rust, M. D., South Paris, Me.

I was attacked, last winter, with a severe Cold, which grew worse and settled on my lungs. By night I was reduced almost to a skeleton. My Cough was incessant, and I frequently spit blood. My physician told me to give up business, or I would not live a month. After taking various remedies without relief, I was finally two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I am now in perfect health, and able to resume business, after having been pronounced incurable with Consumption.—S. P. Henderson, Saultsburg, Penn.

For years I was in a decline. I had weak lungs, and suffered from Bronchitis and Catarrh. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral restored me to health, and I have been for a long time comparatively vigorous. In case of a sudden cold I always resort to the Pectoral, and find speedy relief.—Edward E. Curtis, Rutland, Vt.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Bronchitis. The physician attending me became fearful that the disease would terminate in Pneumonia. After trying various medicines, without benefit, he prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved me at once. I continued to take this medicine, and was cured.—Ernest Colton, Logansport, Ind.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.
