

STUDIES IN HYSTERIA.

A Professor Who Makes the Nerves of People His Playthings.

Prof. Charcot, the renowned specialist of diseases of the nervous system, performed some striking experiments on hysterical subjects in the course of a lecture delivered at the Salpêtrière Asylum. The lethargic girl is one of Prof. Charcot's pet subjects. She remains constantly in the hospital, and on special occasions the servant demonstrates the wonderful power he has over her.

He first stated that this young woman was in a stage of hysteria radically different from that of her companion. She was like an inert mass; her muscles were all relaxed and it was impossible for any member of her body to retain a fixed position without support.

There was also a marked difference in the condition of the nervous system of the two women. The one was keenly sensitive, the other apparently dead. In each case the professor pressed a pencil upon the facial nerve which lies directly in front of the ear.

It was the same with other nerves. The lethargic girl would raise her hand when the operator pressed upon the radial nerve above the elbow joint.

An experiment with the gong, which had been vainly beaten above the first patient, produced a startling effect in this case. The Chef de Clinique had struck but a single blow on the sounding brass when the young girl started up as by an electric shock.

Prof. Charcot proceeded to show that pressure upon the nerves no longer produced muscular contraction. We were in the presence of a new set of phenomena. The professor lifted the girl's right hand to her lips, as if she were throwing a kiss.

He demonstrated to the satisfaction of all that such was really the case. The right eye was closed, while the left remained staring open.

The final experiment consisted in waking the lethargic girl. This was easily done by breathing sharply in her face. She started up, glanced about her in a dazed way, and then, realizing that she was only half dressed before a crowd of jovial medical students, she seized her scattered garments and disappeared from the scene with astonishing rapidity.

Truly Admirable Grace.

It is one thing to be right one's self; it is another thing to win others to the right. One person who holds firmly to essential truth may make that truth offensive to others by his bigotry in its defense.

Mind reading is not such a queer thing, after all. The average wife can read her husband's thoughts when she asks him for the money to settle that last honest bill.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

The latest information about Patti's habits is that she begins the day by drinking a cup of hot water with lemon juice in it.

Mr. Gladstone in a recent letter says that only the kindest feeling ever prevailed between John Bright and himself.

Miss Julia Rhineland is the candidate for the honor of being the richest spinster in America. She possesses $50,000,000 in New York real estate.

P. T. Barnum, the great showman, practically endowed the city of Bridgeport, Conn., with water works and a public park. He has given handsomely to Tufts College, where the Barnum museum of natural history has been named in his honor.

An aged woman in New Hampshire, the widow of one of the men who in 1840 voted for William Henry Harrison, recently wrote a letter to General Harrison, using paper made in 1840 for campaign purposes and stamped with the log-cabin device.

Rev. Newman Hall, the distinguished English divine, writes to a friend in Toronto: "I suppose at seventy-two I ought to be old, but I feel young as ever, and preach about five times a week. I can walk ten miles without fatigue. My voice is as good as ever and preaching an increased delight."

President-elect Harrison, in reply to a correspondent in New-Castle-Under-Lyme, England, wrote recently that "it has been accepted by some of my relatives who have given study to the subject, that our family has descended from General Thomas Harrison, an officer in Cromwell's army."

The Chief of Police of Anniston, Ga., made a queer arrest the other day. It was that of a yellow negro man, about six feet tall, masquerading as a woman.

Mrs. Selby—"Doctah, de chile dun gone swaller 'a pint o' ink." Doctor—"Hab yo' dun ennyding fo' de relief o' 'im?" Mrs. Selby—"I's dun made 'im eat free sheets of blotting-paper, dectah. Was dat rite?"—Life.

New boarder—"Where is the knife with this pie?" Mrs. Husheroff (loftily)—"We never furnish a knife with pie here, Mr. Billings." New boarder (unabashed)—"Well, gimme the axe, then."—Terra Haute Express.
