Hunt asks a subsidy of $180,000 to bring the road into Grande Ronde valley. $148,000 of the amount is already secured and subscribed by its citizens and vicinity. The remainder, $32,000, is yet to be obtained. In their efforts to raise this subsidy they have and are encountering an opposition from a certain source which is of a malignant and abusive character. This opposition comes from correspondence in the Oregonian and editorials in the same paper. It is a well known fact and a laudable one, that the citizens of Portland, and the Oregonian in particular, use every effort in their power to bring into Portland any and all means of transportation, be it by water or railroad communication. That every effort is made to make Portland one grand railroad center, thereby securing to the business as cheap and low rates of transportation as possibly can be had; thus making their city the grand enterport and distributing metropolis of the Pacific Northwest. But when one little city of 1500 wishes to secure to themselves the building into their section of the county and their city an opposition railroad which in their belief will lessen ther rates on freight, build up their town and secure to them all the advantages they now enjoy and the rivalry of two roads, the bull dogs of war must be let loose and hurled upon them in the shape of vituperative correspondence and editorials in that great and only newspaper of the Northwest which scorns to do a mean act, the great Oregonian. But the road is bound to come sooner or later. With all this opposition the full amount of the subsidy will be raised. Mr. Hunt will build the road against all opposition of the Oregonian and the gnashing of its teeth. One reason of the opposition of certain parties to the incoming of the Hunt road is, that if the road is built the county seat will not be removed and Union will retain its prestige, grow and become the city of Grande Ronde valley.

The farming country around Union is equal to that of any in the county. The soil is rich and productive. Besides wheat, oats and barley, which grow and yield abundantly, herd or timothy grass grows to perfection and clover is fairly luxuriant in its growth.

The population of Union is about 1500. It has a fine school property worth $10,000, the school building of brick being two stories. A graded school is maintained with four teachers. The average daily attendance is 200 pupils. The number of scholars drawing public money in the district is 275. The wages paid the teachers amounts to $230 per month in the aggregate. The value of taxable property in the district is $290,725. The standard qualification of the teachers, their efficiency in teaching, enables the pupil to obtain a thorough common school education. A number of retired farmers make Union their residence for the express purpose of giving to their children the advantage of a thorough common school education previous to sending them to higher schools.

CHURCH PRIVILEGES.

Union is blessed with an abundance of church privileges, as the following denominations have each a good and comfortable house of worship: Episcopals, Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian, and occasional preaching by other denominations.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

The following secret societies are in a flourishing condition: A. F. & A. M., Royal Arch Masons, K. of P., I. O. O. F., Encampment I. O. O. F., G. A. R., and a society of W. C. T. U.

THE CLIMATE

Is excellent and the city is sheltered from the high and rude blasts of wind by the surrounding foothills which break the force of any fury which they may possess; yet high winds are of rare occurrence.

The business of the city is as follows:

Banks	1
Lawyers	8
Physicians	3
General Merchandise Stores	3
Notion and Book Stores	3
Boot and Shoe Stores	2
Millinery Stores	3
Money Loaning Institutions	1

Union can boast of two live newspapers: The Oregon Scout, with a circulation of about 1400, ably edited by A. K. Jones, and The Republican, with a circulation of about 800, edited by Frank C. Middleton, formerly with the Oregonian, and is a spicy and well edited paper. The Republican has only been in existence about one year.

The mines of Cornucopia, Sanger and Sparta being in Union county, Union supplies them with the greater part of their supplies. There is also a line of stages which run to the mines from this place, carrying the mail and passengers and a large amount of travel is daily passing over this route which is claimed to be the most feasible and nearest route to these mines.

The water power of Catherine creek is sufficient to supply almost an unlimited amount of machinery if only utilized and it is only a matter of time when this power will be used in large and extensive manufactories of different kinds.

The citizens of Union are a live and spirited class of people. This is shown by their exertions to secure the Hunt railroad, and the opposition of the Oregonian to Union and their project has only stimulated them to greater exertions and zeal. Success and victory will surely crown their efforts; for win they will in spite of all opposition and they are worthy of it. They are also of a genial and social nature, treating strangers with kindness and courtesy which is foreign to some other places. May they succeed.

After viewing the route of the O. R. & N. railroad from North Powder into Grande Ronde valley by way of Pyles canyon, it is a wonder and surprise that the east side of the canyon was not chosen instead of the west, thence direct down to Union city and across straight to La Grande, thereby saving the company thousands of dollars in the construction and gain an easier grade, and avoid the mighty drifts of snow that some winters obstruct the trains in their course down the canyon, and if the Oregonian, which wishes to do all it can for the O. R. & N. Co., would take this matter up and advocate a change of track to the east side of the canyon instead of abusing the citizens of Union, they might accomplish some good and engender less ill will towards Portland and the O. R. & N. road, for it is a matter of fact that Union has just cause to find fault with the course the great paper of the Northwest has pursued toward them.

In conclusion Union is one of the finest little cities in Eastern Oregon. A desirable place of residence, with fine scenery, plenty of fruit of all kinds in their season, healthy, and plenty of cold water, and no end of piscatorial enjoyment as the streams abound in the finest of trout and is the resort of many who enjoy piscatorial sport.

JIMMIE CREEK.

Local Happenings--Farm News and Notes --Personal Mention.

June 8, 1889.

A water spout in Pyle canyon recently. Not much damage done.

Mr. S. F. Cusick, for two or three days past, has been suffering with erysipelas in the face, but at present is greatly improved.

Mr. Wm. C. Cusick has a patch of oats and potatoes on which he is working for a premium.

More potatoes have been planted here this year than ever before.

Two or three bands of sheep have been driven through here this season. One band contained about seventy-five hundred sheep. They were being driven to the east.

Mr. Smith has put up a sawmill in the neighborhood of Hog valley mountains and is sawing lumber. The mill is situated on the northwest side of Hog valley timber.

W. H. Bradford has grafted some potatoes this year. Potato grafting is not very well known, and it is reported that they will not grow as large the first year as they will after that. In grafting proceed as follows: Take two potatoes from which you desire a cross, dig all of the eyes out of each and change eyes. Suppose you take a red potato and a white one. Dig the eyes out of each and put the red eyes in the white potato and the white eyes in the red patato and plant them before they wilt. Be careful to make the eyes fit the potatoes. Another way to get new kinds is to take the seed that grows on the top of the vines.

Frank Stickney, one of the militia men, has been sick for a week or more. Captain, where is the hospital?

The Shaw Bro's. have purchased a shingle saw which they have been using to good advantage. The boys make good shingles.

About 300 acres of land is being fenced in, with wire, in the vicinity of Jimmie creek, which will make the range a little scarcer.

Joe and Dave Bradford started for the Wallowa valley on the 31st of last month to improve their ranches. They expect to return about the Fourth of July next.

A recent occurrence, not far from here, reminds us of the old preacher who told some boys of the Bible lesson he intended to read in the morning, and the boys, finding the place, glued together the connecting pages. Next morning the old gentleman read on the bottom of one page—"When Noah was one hundred and twenty years old he took unto himself a wife who was (here he turned the leaf) one hundred and forty cubits wide, built of gopher wood, covered with pitch inside and out." He was naturally puzzled. He read it again and verified it. Then he said: "My friends this is the first time I ever met with this in the Bible, but I accept it as evidence that we are wonderfully and fearfully made."

COYOTE.

MEDICAL SPRINGS.

Interesting Happenings of the Week Told in Spicy Paragraps.

Pretty girls a specialty on Big creek.

Local swains have no use for the festive drummer on Big creek.

Uncle "Crook" keeps his dog, Snyder, chained up now.

The latest song—gooseberry pie.

Miss Gracie Wright and a little friend caught sixty-six fine trout yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, of the Sand Ridge, are visiting the springs for health and recreation.

James Lowell and Mr. Reeves made a professional visit to the springs this week and found out that the escaped prisoners were not out rusticating for their health. Medical Springs has many attractions but the prisoners have not found it out yet.

Mr. H. D. Drake is doing the springs and neighborhood, and all are pleased with the pretty landscapes and pretty faces he so beautifully portrays on paper. His Sanger views are very fine and a selection of them may be had from him at any time.

Mr. E. R. Parker, P. Barche's traveling agent, is visiting the springs and Antelope valley this week, and Mr. Turner thinks from the "float" or "croppings" he is finding that Mr. Parker is nearing the precipice containing the ledge of "matrimony."

Found.—Near the springs, a little blue horse roaming over the hills with harness on, very much resembling the horse driven to a popular turnout in the neighborhood. The owner can have the same by proving property and paying for this notice.

Land is increasing in value in the vicinity where the supposed line of Hunt's railroad is expected to pass, and Union agents should hasten to present subsidy subscriptions to the large land owners in Powder river valley.

Mrs. Rodgers has gone to Baker City and will make Cove and Union a visit shortly. She expects to make some pretty dresses for her select customers during her visit.

JOHN SMITH.

SEATTLE, the "queen city," is not composed of men who will sit down amid the ashes and desolation and bewail their loss. No spirit of this kind has ever pervaded Seattle, and it will not now prevail. Fortunately, from a sympathetic point of view, most of those who have lost by the fire are able to rebuild, and the money paid out by the insurance companies will in the aggregate be immense, and the work of rebuilding will commence so soon and progress so rapidly as men and money can push it—and Seattle will be a finer, better and more substantially built city than before the fire.

A FEW determined men can make a thriving town of any place just as a few mossbacks can keep back even so advantageouly located a town as Union. A mossback is a man who has made his money in a place and will not give or risk any of it in the improvement of the town. And the way to become a mossback is to always hold back to see what some one else is going to do. Everybody knows in advance what the mossback will do so don't wait on him but go down in your pocket and push ahead regardless of his croaking.
