

IN THE DARK.

When I kissed her that night in the hallway... I was so dark that nothing was plain; and not being sure but I'd missed her...

GISELE'S CAPRICE.

The salon was lighted by a single lamp which shed a soft radiance throughout the room. It was simply furnished, but was adorned with a profusion of flowers and plants. Three persons were in the salon—Mme. de Balny, Gisele, her daughter, and the latter's betrothed, Robert de Gillis...

"Certainly he refuses, for the conditions are not the same for him as for Bidel, who has been long accustomed to being among wild animals and has made a careful study of their character."

All About Pneumonia. Netter has written quite an exhaustive article on the subject of pneumonia, in which he reviews the epidemics of that disease which have been recorded. He draws the following conclusions: Pneumonia is a contagious disease, and the essential germ can be communicated, not only directly from an infected person to others brought in contact with him...

A NEW MRS. PARTINGTON. Thilaber's Famous Character in Real Life in a Massachusetts Town. Mrs. Thrifty, an excellent and prosperous "widow woman," who keeps a store in a famous and favorite Massachusetts town, has a genius in language which would set a new Mrs. Partington up in business...

LIGHT ON PHRENOLOGY. Some of Its Teachings Found to Have a Firm Scientific Basis. It is a curious fact that modern research appears about to establish a firm scientific basis for some of the teachings of phrenology just at a time when that doctrine has passed almost entirely out of vogue. At the Anthropological Institute in London some time since Mr. Bernard Hollander read a paper on centers of ideation, bringing together the results of many experiments in applying the galvanic currents to different parts of the brain...

MRS. CONKLING'S JEWELS. A Unique Ornament That the Wife of the Dead Statesman Possesses. Mrs. Conkling, widow of the late Rescoe Conkling, has one of the most unique ornaments in the country. It is a locket of exquisite design and rare workmanship, the delicate enameling nearly as lustrous as the brilliant that encrusts its surface. Aside from its intrinsic value it has an authentic historical one, and is invested with a sacred sentiment to its gracious owner as the last "souvenir" bestowed upon her by her gifted husband...

Expensive Fun.

A physician of St. Paul related the following little incident in the career of a fellow student. The appearance of the latter was not such as to impress the casual observer with the idea that he was an Aesculapius in the science of medicine...

Treachorous Memories.

When a man can say, "I was there, and I saw it," he ought to be believed, one would think, provided he has a reputation for speaking the truth. What shall we be sure of, if not of the things we have seen with our own eyes?

The Real Martha Washington.

Martha Washington, as we read of her, was a good deal of a nonentity—or, perhaps, we should say, merely an addenda to the immortal George. Man and wife are one set forth in the learning and wisdom of law made by men for their own advantage, and the man is the one. This was plainly true as regards the Father of His Country. He stands in history alone; she adds nothing to his name or fame.

Proposals in Boston.

Mr. Beacon Street (Boston)—I presume, Miss Tremont, you are cognizant of the continuation of the symposium on the interrogatory, "Is Marriage a Failure?" and I beg the privilege of testing the question with you.

Why Mashers Are Shortsighted.

Yet another cause for shortsightedness has been discovered. A German professor declares that it is often due to the wearing of tight collars, which prevent a normal and regular flow of blood to the head. Now we know why the combination of eye-glass and "masher" collar is so common among our gilded youth.

Perfectly Awful.

Mrs. Amelie Rives Chanler is not the author of the following lines, which are being extensively credited to her:

The naked hills lie wanton to the breeze; The fields are nude, the groves unshaded; Bare are the shivering limbs of shagbark trees; What wonder is it that the corn is shocked!

—New York Tribune.
