

SUMMERVILLE.

Hurrah for the subsidy! Hurrah for Hunt, Rinchart, Crawford—In fact for all of the friends of the subsidy.

Did you see Hunt coming over the mountains? Yes, my friends, you and I both will see him, and don't doubt it for a moment.

Every farmer and business man looks happy since the subsidy has been raised, in fact we see the enemy trying to play friendship. Did you notice it? I did.

Improvements springing up in every direction. The answer to inquiry why, is: "Well, the subsidy is raised and Hunt will build the railroad, then all will be happy and the country prosperous."

Now is when everybody and his friends go huckleberrying. Berries are reported plentiful in the mountains. Farmers are haying in all directions. Hay is very good and all feel that they will realize a good price this fall and winter.

The prospects are still very good for heavy crops of grain in this locality and Indian valley, but rain is wanted very badly.

G. H. Taylor has the longest auger in the county. He will soon be able to go down into mother earth 400 feet, his machinery having arrived and will be at work soon.

Hon. J. L. Roe is again home with his family. He looks as if the people among whom he had associated had treated him well.

A lively man who would keep teams and vehicles about the premises, to let to people, endangering their lives, should be reduced to the rear ranks on half rations, and such will be the case unless a certain livery business changes its programme.

The first copy of the Summerville Annotator came to the front last Friday, and all were well pleased to see the new born babe. It looks young, but will grow, as there are men at the post of duty. Give the boys time, they will get there.

The Yates Bros. have burned a small kiln of brick, and they look like very fine building material. In the near future they will try another class of clay near by.

The health of this locality is very good. If it continues the doctors will starve out, but I presume the loss would be light. Let the good health continue.

John McDonald is building a fine residence on his home ranch. When finished it will be one of the finest houses in the valley. John knows what he wants and knows it well. S. E. Johnson, the best workman in the valley, is the architect. He turns out nothing but first-class work.

Oh yes, had you noticed how some people who never said a good word for the Hunt subsidy, and never subscribed a cent until the last moment, now come up and in their goulish way undertake to tell you what they have done to raise the desired amount. God bless their two-faced souls, they were only waiting for an opportunity to say: "I told you so. I knew all the time you could not raise the subsidy, and for this reason I kept my tongue still." That was what they wanted to say, but alas, they did for once in their life get fooled. Too many good men were in favor of the work and would not let it go back, and when the amount is raised in spite of the cold water thrown by these pigmies, they then come up and undertake to dupe the people by saying: "I did this and I did that," but no one ever heard of those great things that were done, and the people will not forget it. The idea of coming up at the last hour and putting in a pitiful subscription so that it might be said that they did stand in doesn't go, gentlemen. We know the true inwardness of your feelings, and if you could have accomplished a defeat by standing out you would have been out yet, but that was more than you could do, and you found that some things could be done even without your assistance. You insulted those who attempted to say a word in favor of the subsidy. Now it is our time to float and you will not find us wanting. Most of the good people have given all they were able, and should have the respect of all, but some have given just enough to say that they gave and that is all, when at the same time they expect to come in and reap the benefits as though they had given what they should, but they will find that we have a black-board in our minds and it will always appear fresh when we see one of those fellows asking for favors of the road, or its managers, when it is built. There are a great many who deserve praise for what they have done and the people will not forget them in the future. More anon.

CUT-MOUTH JOHN.

EAGLE VALLEY.

The Coming Fleece—Bee Culture—Crop Outlook—Personal Mention.

The grand picnic on Aug 1st will take place in Swisher's grove. Great preparations are being made for the event and much pleasure is anticipated. The Eagle valley band will furnish music, and a big dance and supper will be given at night. We cordially invite everybody to attend.

Farmers are cutting oats and wheat and will soon commence on the second crop of alfalfa.

Everything looks fine here. There is plenty of water for all to irrigate, and we don't need rain in the valley, but would like to have some on the foothills.

Our bee men are having good luck with their bees. I think there is at least three hundred bee hives in the valley, which will no doubt be increased to four hundred before cold weather sets in. We have plenty of honey which sells at 12 1/2 cents per pound.

We have the best place in the state for a creamery. Plenty of alfalfa and hay, and cows enough to furnish barrels of milk daily. Where is the man to start such an enterprise?

There is any amount of fat cattle, horses and sheep for sale here. Where are the buyers?

We thank the writer for Cornucopia for the nice description he gave of Eagle valley. I know not his name, but would say that he is cordially invited to attend our picnic on the first of August.

W. W. Kirby still wants to sell 200 tons of hay, and has a splendid fall and winter pasture. Will sell part or all of that amount.

Mr. Jos. Bolles left yesterday for Arkansas.

Mrs. A. C. Cox left yesterday for the Willamette valley. She goes to visit her parents.

We cordially invite the editors of THE OREGON SCOUT to attend our picnic on August 1st, in Eagle valley. We also extend a special invitation to our county officials.

Eagle is the warmest valley to winter stock in, in Eastern Oregon. Mr. Ayers from Burnt river, fed here last winter, and out of a large band of sheep did not lose a single one. Chandler Bros. fed 500 cattle and lost but one calf. Who can beat that? K.
