We have drifted away from our former locality, winding up on Mr. Nodine's ranche, where, on 160 acres of land we threshed 12,358 bushels of oats and barley in ten days, making twenty-one settings. Other parties offer al to thresh this crop for one and three-quarter cents per bushel, but Mr. Nodine preferred Minnick's Massilon at three cents, and is satisfied with the result.

We see over two thousand acres of land of the same quality ready to be plowed. This land six years ago was a tule swamp, but by a thorough system of ditching and drainage the land has been brought to a state of cultivation, and now no better land is found anywhere, being made by years of overflow. Only a very few years ago this land was considered almost worthless, except for pasture. Mr. Nodine has 4,400 acres here in one body, and no better hay, grain and stock ranch can easily be found.

The management of his threshing was by rather a novel method. It was by placing two large bells on the two men who were first at the table and the last one at the machine. "Mr. Sam Swith got the bell for the table and George Blacker for the latter. This was done to let the cook know when the men were coming to dinner and Minnick could tell when the men were all at the machine.

The grain is yielding a little below the general estimation of all, but is of a tolerably fair quality for a dry season. HOMO.

A Sham Skirmish.

The East Oregonian says: Parties living in the upper end of town witnessed a very pretty and inspiring spectacle to-day, near the Walla Walla bridge. Four troops of cavalry, bound for Cayuse, came down into the valley from the north side of the river, using precautionary measures against surprise by an imaginary enemy, and marching in a manner that would make the heart of a tactician swell with joy. It became necessary to water the horses on reaching the river and the leading troop was deployed as skirmishers. They dismounted, and every fourth man was left to hold the animals, while the remainder advanced across the river and up on the opposite hill, firing as they went at a supposed foe who were disputing the passage. While they were thus protecting the crossing, the three other companies watered their horses, and the skirmishers, after repelling and defeating the enemy in a sharp encounter, in which some 300 shots were fired, were relieved by their comrades and in turn watered their horses. This done, the entire body of cavalry with skirmishers on front, flank and rear, proceeded on their journey During these maneuvers the officers were stationed on a knoll overlooking the scene while orderlies galloped over the field delivering orders. Altogether it was a bit of sham warfare thoroughly enjoyed by the fortunate few who witnessed it.

The Prize Crop.

Mr. Sam'l Miller, of Union, has been appointed to represent the American Agriculturist at the harvesting of the potato crop grown on one measured acre by Mr. Wm. C. Cusick for the American Agriculturist prize of $500. That paper has, the past season, announced a first prize of $500 in gold for the best acre of potatoes, and a similar prize for the best acre each of prizes were offered, the whole amounting to nearly $10,000 in value. A large number of farmers throughout the country have engaged in the contest. Each competitor has to report in great detail about the precise way in which his crop was raised. The State Agricultural Experiment Stations will analyze some of the crops, especially corn. These valuable practical reports from the most successful farmers in the country will be a feature | Oregon, on October 26, 1880, viz of the American Agriculturist during the coming year.

.... Is Consumption Incurabe?

Real the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says. "Was down with Abcess of Lunga, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middiewater, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Brown's drug store.

The attention of farmers and grain dealers is called to the superior facilities and advantages offered by Frank Bro's. Implement Co. for the purchase and hauling of all kinds of grain at their large warehouse and elevator at La Grande. They will furnish farmers sacks for the hauling of grain free, and having unlimited facilities for storing and making advances on wheat, can offer superior inducements to those who may desire to hold their wheat for better prices, or they will pay the highest market price to eash.
