

AMOS CUMMINGS' HISTORY.

The Early Struggles of a Famous Journalist and Congressman.

Told by himself at a dinner party recently given him by the New York Press Club.

"I came to New York when Rufus Hatch here was selling sugar and sand. I came in a pair of shoes that belonged to my father. I remember coming over the Jersey City ferry with my father and getting my first glimpse of New York at nine o'clock in the morning. I was about nine years old, and the gentleman made me carry a big violin-cello almost as big as myself. We went to the Tammany Hotel, which was of the site of the present Sun building. I had never seen a gas-light. I had never seen a steamboat before. I had never seen a marble floor, and I had never seen a theater bill. I can remember what a theater I observed the old-fashioned long theater bill with the announcement of Edwin Forrest and 'Metamora' and I did not know either Edwin Forrest or 'Metamora.' I slept in Tammany Hotel within ten feet of where subsequently occupied the desk of managing editor of the Sun. I saw an advertisement for a two-third's man a printer for Baker & Godwin, and I went there and distributed type for three days and was kicked out without pay. We then had a reform mayor in New York. His name was Fernando Wood, and I went over and registered my name in his complaint book, and he sent a policeman over with me and I got my pay, and that was the first reason I had to believe there was any humanity in New York. Then I set type for the Sabbath Recorder, and I boarded with my old friend, George Pearce, whom I see here, at No. 120 Orchard street. We went to work at seven o'clock in the morning. At noon I jumped down stairs and made a break for the park and filled up with bollivars.

"It was the height of my ambition then to get a place on the Tribune and set Horace Greeley's manuscript. When I got there I was sorry. At that time there were four Democrats setting type on the Tribune. Then I went off to the war, and when I came back to the Tribune office, after the experiences of Gettysburg and Fredericksburg, it seemed funny to see the Tribune office blockaded and fortified against the enemy that never came. When I saw them getting ready to send off a shell filled with slugs that would have torn the whole front of the building I left. They sent over for a frigate from the navy yard to defend the office, and they got Colonel Adams and some of the Fifth Wisconsin men from the barracks in the park. But the defenders seemed to me more dangerous than the enemy.

"Then I remember the great strike which sent me off looking after work clad in my army overcoat, that made me look like a chaplain, because I had the buttons covered. I went to work on the Yonker's Statesman at $12 a week. But, when Godkin, the editor, who was the original 'Divel,' left and I took his place and got $15 a week, the foreman got jealous and I was bounced. Then I went to work with Charles E. Willour, setting up the names of drafted men at $20 a week. Then I got a job on the Weekly Tribune, working for Sidney Howard Gay, and from that place I graduated to the Sun, under Charles A. Dana."

OIL ON THE WATER.

It Saved a Fishing Schooner in the Arctic Seas.

A competition, the result of which will prove of great interest to the shipping community at large, has been instituted this year by the Dunkirk Chamber of Commerce, who had in view a practical trial of the utility of oil in aiding a ship to weather a storm.

The competitors were the masters of the schooners engaged in the Iceland fisheries, of which Dunkirk equips about a hundred every year. The fishing season lasts six months, and, owing to the frequency of boisterous weather, affords ample opportunities for experimenting upon any means of lessening danger.

The first prize ($2) has been awarded to Captain Bruxelles, of the schooner Perle, who reports as follows: "On the 21st of April, while off Portland, we encountered an east-southeasterly gale, attended with snow. We endeavored to stand out to sea, with closely reefed sails, but were unable to clear the Westman islands. We then resolved to attempt to pass between these isles and the mainland. The tempest was at its height, the sea was making a clean breach over the ship fore and aft, and we were in great danger of foundering. I directed two bags containing tow saturated with oil to be placed astern on port and starboard quarters. Almost instantaneously the sea moderated, and, although the swell was still heavy, no waves broke over the ship. A pint and a half of oil per bag is sufficient to calm the sea for about two hours." Similar accounts are given by other masters who have handed in reports on the subject to the Chamber of Commerce.—Fall Mall Gazette.

Wonders of Our Coal Fields.

It takes a prodigious amount of vegetable matter to form a layer of coal; it being estimated that the present growth of the world would make a layer less than one-eighth of an inch in thickness, and that it would take a million years of vegetable growths to form a coal-bed 10 feet in thickness. The United States has an area of more than 440,000 square miles of coal fields, and more than 100,000,000 tons of coal were mined in this country last year, enough to run a ring around the earth at the center five and a half feet wide and five and a half feet thick. Competent scientists say that there is enough coal in the United States to supply the world for the next 2,000 years.—St. Louis Republic.

He Had No Enough.

"Will you have a cigar?" inquired the hotel clerk of a traveling man. "Is it one of your own private stock?" "Yes." "Like the one you gave me yesterday?" "Yes." "No, I believe I won't indulge. I had cabbage for dinner just now."—Merchant Traveler.

PAT AND THE EMPEROR.

Recollections of Dom Pedro's Visit to St. Louis in 1876.

The published accounts of the revolution in Brazil, resulting in the overthrow of the imperial government, the deposing of the Emperor, Dom Pedro II., and the establishing of a republic, are of particular interest in this country, owing to the fact that the central figure of the momentous movement, the deposed monarch, was a visitor to the United States in 1876, and has always been a close student and warm admirer of the American form of government, and also of the States in general. During his tour through this country Dom Pedro visited St. Louis, and the discussion of his overthrow brought up many reminiscences of that visit. The Emperor's democratic leanings were strongly shown by his studied avoidance of all formal ceremony during his travels, which were conducted strictly in a private and unassuming manner, and with as small an attendant suite as was possible. His dodging of the formidable committee appointed to welcome him to this city was recalled with a laugh by many, and followed by the story of how Mr. George Bain was organized by chance into an impromptu imperial reception committee of one to show the august visitor the sights of St. Louis. The story, as told by Mr. Bain himself to a reporter of the Republic, is an interesting one.

"Of course," said Mr. Bain, "it was known just when Dom Pedro would arrive, and a formidable and representative committee had been appointed to receive him. Unfortunately, however, the committee went to the Southern Hotel for that purpose, while the Emperor went to the Lindell, was registered, and immediately afterward the entire party took carriages and began the round of the city on their own hook. I chanced to be on Third street just when the first carriage, containing his Brazilian Majesty, whirled around from Oliver Street. The driver, Pat Shevlin, knew me, and, being evidently disposed to aid Dom Pedro as much as possible in seeing the sights of St. Louis, hailed me, with a wild brandish of his whip, shouting enthusiastically as he rattled around the corner: 'Hould up, Mister Bain! Wan minute, there, Mister Bain! I've the Emperor of Brazil in me carriage! Come over and I'll intrajuce you to 'em.' I crossed the street as Pat made a gallant stop, and sure enough he swung open the carriage door and said, in his best manner: 'Emperor, this is Mr. Bain. He'll tell ye any thing ye want to know.' I saw in a moment that Pat really did have the Brazilian monarch aboard, and, in spite of the unique introduction, the Emperor acknowledged it very pleasantly, saying in French: 'General Sherman told me in Washington, Mr. Bain, that I must be sure and see your St. Louis post-office, and I have accordingly driven down here for that purpose. I explained to him that he should have been driven to the new post-office, not the old one, and then invited him to visit the Merchants' Exchange, just on the next corner. He accepted the invitation, and the entire party, filling three carriages, alighted and accompanied him. I escorted them on the floor, explained the different features of the exchange, and with the exception of Secretary George Morgan, I don't think a soul on 'change knew that the fine-looking old gentleman by my side and the lady who held my arm as we went in were the Emperor and Empress of Brazil. They were both very plain and pleasant in manner and seemed delighted with the informality of their reception. I afterward accompanied them to the best points of interest to visit, and then made my adieux. The Emperor was kind enough to give me a most cordial invitation to visit him if I ever came to Brazil. The party left St. Louis that night.—St. Louis Republic.

AN UNWORTHY SUSPICION.

Mr. McSwat picked up a doughnut that lay on his plate, examined it critically, made a mental estimate of its weight, and laid it down. "Lobelia," he said, "did you make this?" "I did, Billiger," replied Mrs. McSwat, proudly. "I'll have a whole plateful of them on the table in a moment." Mr. McSwat made no reply. He was thinking of the $10,000 for which he had insured his life the day before, and as he looked at that doughnut and then at his unsuspecting and innocent young wife a look of cold, hard suspicion settled on his face.—Chicago Tribune.

AN OPEN LETTER

From Professor J. P. Looney, Principal Fulton Public School, in Favor of Dr. Darrin.

Dr. Darrin Has a Branch Office in Tacoma.

Editor Oregonian.—DEAR SIR: I am not in the habit of putting advertisements, but I cannot let this opportunity pass without mentioning, in justice to the afflicted as well as Dr. Darrin. The doctor has cured me of a troublesome catarrh and bronchitis of seven years' standing, by electricity and medicine. The cure is perfect and permanent. I cheerfully commend his treatment.

J. P. LOONEY, Fulton, Or., January 22, 1890.

There is something about the success Dr. Darrin is meeting with which is truly hard to credit, yet we have it from persons whose veracity we cannot doubt, that their cures are remarkable. The almost case is peculiarly striking. Professor Looney is a man of undoubted integrity and well known throughout the state and nation. The above card to Dr. Darrin is positive proof of the unexampled success which attends their treatment. It shows the high regard in which the doctor is held by a man of undoubted integrity and well known throughout the state and nation. Dr. Darrin's New Place of Business. Dr. Darrin can be consulted free at the Washington building, corner of Washington and Fourth streets, Portland, and Hotel Godolpho, Tacoma, Wash. Office hours, from 10 to 12 o'clock, a. m., and 2 to 8, Sundays, 10 to 12. All curable chronic diseases, loss of manhood, blood taints, syphilis, gleet, gonorrhoea, stricture, spermatorrhoea, seminal weakness, or loss of desire of sexual power, in man or woman, catarrh of the bladder, are cured promptly and successfully. Cures of private diseases guaranteed and never published in the papers. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit to the doctor's office. Inquiries answered and circulars sent free. (Articles writing will please mention paper.)

There is nothing purer than honesty, nothing sweeter than charity, nothing warmer than love, nothing richer than wisdom, nothing brighter than virtue, nothing more steadfast than faith.

CATARRH, HAY FEVER, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS, A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the living membrane of the nose and catarrhal tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby these distressing diseases are rapidly and permanently cured. The cure is effected by applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on application by A. H. Dixon & Son, 327 and 329 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Poor Humanity!

The common lot is one of sorrow—say at least the pessimists—they who look at the world from the inside. Certainly what would otherwise be a bright existence is often shadowed by some ailment that overhangs it like a pall, obscuring perpetually the radiance that else would light the path. Such an ailment, and a very common one, is nervousness, or in other words, weakness. It is nervousness that is the commonest of all ailments, and it is the most remediable where inefficient or improper means are taken to relieve it. The concentration of nervous energy, which is the essential element of health, is lost through the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it conquers entirely supersensitiveness of the nerves, as well as diseases so-called—Headache, Dizziness, and the like, and the chronic weakness. As the nerves gain stamina from the great tonic the trouble disappears, and the patient is free from rheumatism, biliousness and kidney troubles.

The above Picture Represents CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD, Master of the Steamship Kanawha. About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pain and irritation in the water channel, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and he continued until the Captain was in a wretched condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on my shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (who the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

THE SEA-SERPENT AGAIN.

A sea-serpent, 103 feet long, covered with silvery, shining scales, and having embryo wings on its shoulders, was seen to coil itself up in slippery folds on the coast of Florida last month. Three reliable persons saw this creature distinctly. After rolling and twisting its bulky form around on the beach for a few minutes, it slipped off into the water and disappeared in the east, followed by a path of foam which could be seen for an hour afterwards.

Reader, the above is a "yarn." If people would believe the following truthful statement as readily as they swallow sea-serpent stories, it would be the means of saving thousands of lives. The statement which we desire to make in the most emphatic manner, is that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, if taken in time and given a fair trial, will actually cure consumption of the lungs, which is really scrofulous disease of the lungs.
