THE INTREPID REPORTER.

Charley Dielal's Wonderful Tact, Nerve and Presence of Mind.

ing of Riel at Regina, N. W. T., in 1885, in advance of the Canadian press is due to a cocktail. Charles Diehl, war correspondent of the Chicago Times until 1883, and then and since connected with the Associated Press the is now in San Francisco), was sent to Regina to do the hanging. The writer had posted him upon the military red-tapeism he would encounter in the land where the redcoated mounted police are as powerful as they are dictatorial. Charley is a thoroughly good fellow, and upon arrival at Regina at once set about maknot marked until one day he invited a daily. Believe me very thankfully yours, number of police officers to take a daily. Mrs. M MALLORY, number of police officers to take a drink. Sole agent for McCabe Santtive Corset and when the genial cocktails had been prepared Charley, before raising his glass to his lips, said: "How kola," Now this is the Sioux salutation, and one of the principal officers immediately

"Where did you hear that, Mr. Dichl? "When I accompanied General Terry In 1877, and we met the mounted police near Woody mountain."

"The dence you say," said the officer. "Why, I was there; and I'll never forget how nicely your people treated us

The cocktail was repeated amid friendly enthusiasm, and Charley could safely say: "The world (or all he wanted of it) is mine." He was not only given every facility to learn the time of Riel's execution and the manner thereof, but was allowed to bring his mounted courier within the stockade at the Regina prison, which is distant four miles from the telegraph office. He wrote up all the preliminaries to the time Riel donned the black cap and sent his man away on the gallop. The courier met Diehl en route to town, after he had filled his last batch of news, and was handed the finis of the account. No one else had taken any such precautions, and the special correspondents of the Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal dailles had to be contented with very short accounts, or, worse yet, had to wait until the next day.

Diehl was the Chicago Times man who joined the Ilges expedition against Sitting Bull, Gall and Crow King in the never-to-be-forgotten campaign of 1886-81. During that campaign many a night was spent in tents when the mercury was frozen in the bulb and spirit ther mometers registered 52 to 55 degs, below zero (Fahrenheit). Enroute to Buford Diehl's driver was prostrated by cold, and the plucky correspondent wranped him up as warm as he could, detached the rear bobs from his sled, and tying his nearly frozen companion to a stake on the front runners, drove the outfit twenty-five miles. He was nearly played out when he reached Buford. and the driver lost a limb, if I remember rightly, but after ten hours' rest Diehl started off for Poplar river, sixtyfive miles away, and got there in time to report the battle on the Redwater .-St. Paul Pioneer Press.

MANY MILLIONS IN IT.

The Colossal Sums Stored in the United States Sub-Treasury.

Sub-Treasury down in Wall street between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000. A Government officer who had just deposited a check for $25,000 accepted an invitation the other day totake a peep at the vaults. He presently found himself in a moderate sized room whose walls forward slowly, and then from side to are honeycombed with little closets. Each of these receptacles contains $500,000 in gold. They are duly sealed and marked, so that the amount can be removed quickly on short notice. While the visitor was present a subordinate came in with a modest demand for her, but not unless she is taught them $1,500,000, and it was promptly served out. "Here is something pretty," said the cicerone of the occasion, opening a vault on the opposite side of the room. He thrust in a hand and drew out a package having the base area of a 85 bill and a height of some inches. "How much does it contain, do you suppose?" inquired the treasury official: "You see it is made up of $10,-900 bills." The wondering spectator was staggered when told that the package contained $8,000,000. The increase in the amount of money deposited in these vaults during the past quarter of a century is something surprising. When John J. Cisco was the Assistant Treasurer at this city, $40,000,000 or $50,-000,000 was considered a great amount of money to have in the vaults at one time. Yet during the administration of C. J. Canda, President Cleveland's First Assistant Treasurer, the amount was increased to $212,000,000. So perfect was the system that Mr. Canda, in speaking of this, naively said: "Yes, I suppose I had under my charge more money than was ever confided to one man at one time. But then it didn't do me much good. I could not have drawn out or embezzled a single cent of it without somebody knowing it. I could not even enter the vaults without assistance from a clerk who carried some of the keys." But the responsibility is, nevertheless, very large, and weighs heavily upon the men who assume it. Very few men care to take it for any length of time, and Mr. Canda, after a few months' trial, resigned and returned to the banking bus-iness. Nearly all the meh who have held this office and remained in business have found their way into important banking establishments. This is true of Mr. Acton, who is now president of the Bank of New Amsterdam, and of Mr. Canda himself, who is cashier of the Western National Bank, of which the late Secretary Manning was president, and which is now presided over by Conrad N. Jordan, who was Treasurer of the United States at Washington while Mr. Canda was the Assistant Treasurer here.-From a New York Dispatch.

-The wife of a Brooklyn insurance agent visited his office during his ab sence, carried the contents of his wastebasket away with her, and after two weeks of hard work she patched several love letters together and made application for divorce.

The Ex-Queen of Spain. Several weeks ago we had the pleas ure of seeing ex-Queen Isabella of Spain in one of the shops here. She was ac companied by her daughter, who mar ried one of the sons of the Prince Regent. No one was allowed in the same aisle with them, but we happened to be standing in the next aisle, and had a very good opportunity of seeing her. She is a fat old lady, rather short, and not at all queenly in manner or appear ance. She was dressed very dowdilly and were a false "wave." They say sh is very poor, and has sold all her jewels She stopped only a short time in Munich visiting her daughter, and from here went on to Paris. CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD, Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

Masist of the Stamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in bis feelings. He felt tired to dead of vigorous; nervous instead of draing. His appetite became poor and his deep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then acticed pains and irritation in the water deannels, and that the fluids passed were deannels, and that the fluids passed were stemptly to the second on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incursible, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so ceriain of the great value of limit's Remedy, that I siway carry a supoly on shipboard for the uses of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are alling. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

but it will only take a minute in which to state a few facts, that, if heeded, will prove invaluable to many. It's well-known that the press teems with advertisements of sarsaparillas and other liver, blood and lung remedies, for which great claims are made. They are generally represented as sure cures. But there is one medicine, and only one, the claims for which as a cure for all But there is one medicine, and only one, the claims for which as a cure for all lingering diseases arising from Torpid Liver or Biliousness, or from impure blood, are backed up by a positive guarantee! If it don't do just as represented in every case, the money paid for it is promptly refunded.

This peculiar method of business, it will readily be seen, would bankrupt the manufacturers of the ordinary medicines in the market. Only a marvelously efficacious medicine, containing the most positive curative properties, could sustain itself under such trying conditions as these.
