City. In 58 miles we rise 2,314 feet. At Evanston we leave one engine and go at a flying rate, passing Hilliard and get a final view of the once busy place. We started with eleven coaches drawn by three fine large engines all of the same size, making quite a fine appearance. At Pocahontas the passengers divided, quite a number taking the Utah Northern for Montana. It snowed and rained from there to Old's Ferry, then it was all snow till we reached Huntington. A night's run from there to Union, with evidences on every hand of the storm king holding his carnival here as well as elsewhere.

At home we found bright, happy faces of little ones and others to make us rejoice over our safe return. To the readers of THE SCOUT who have been interested somewhat in my five thousand mile journey, I say, for the present, adieu.

J. W. MINNICK.

THE PARK.

The health of the community generally good, but some of the effects of the gripe still visible.

There is considerable snow here now, but that is what pleases the ranchers. The more snow the more grain we will have next season.

Feed for stock is going pretty fast and some are getting in a hurry for spring to come.

Mr. Sam'l Vanorder went to Union a few days ago to get chop to feed his cows. It is a good idea to feed chop to cows in the spring to give them strength. Mr. Vanorder lost about ten calves this winter.

Mr. Vandevanter has been getting several of his colts broken this winter. He has some good horses that he wants to sell.

Mr. W. T. Martin brought his fine horse home a few days ago.

Grandpa Smith finds it is rather hard on him to get around in the snow. He has got to be a boy again and stopped smoking. He doesn't think the pipe makes the man. W. T. Martin is also going to quit using tobacco, for one year from his birthday.

Friends in the Park will meet at Mr. Sam'l Vanorder's on the evening of the 15th to celebrate uncle John and Arehes anniversary, and on the 19th they met at Mr. Martin's to celebrate his anniversary. All were as happy as larks.

Mrs. Jos. Truesdale of La Grande was here recently to visit a sister. Master Dan gathered in the young folks for a little dance and all enjoyed themselves till the wee sma hours.

Our literary society died in January for want of vitality, after living seven years. The cause of its death was carelessness. We are now without a literary, debates or church. Mr. Dolby, even, does not come up with his meetings, so we are, evidently, goners.

Mose Van was up from Powder river and says the snow there is about all gone.

Our SCOUT last week went up to see the miners at Cornucopia and got back here Saturday evening late.

Once upon a time there was a man who went to church and heard the preacher exhort his flock to trust all to the Lord. So he went home and it being a very cold night he thought of his hen house door being open, but, thought he, I will trust them to the Lord, and went to bed. But behold! in the morning his chickens were gone! Now, who took them? The Lord or the coyotes?

Sleighriding is very good now.

The boys have a good time driving colts around, breaking them, but the fun got a little serious with Sammy Vanorder. A colt kicked him on the back of his hand and broke a bone of his little finger.

A good time is to be had about the middle of March, at the Springs. There will be four birthday anniversaries to celebrate at one time; Dunham and Gracie Wright, Sam'l Vanorder and Mrs. Major South. How funny it would be to see Samuel V. dance a Virginia reel.
