-Lemon Extract: Take the pulp of two lemons and the peel of four, pour over it half a pint of alcohol, let stand one week, then strain out the pulp; return the skin, let stand another week. and strain again .- Farm and Fireside.

-Cheese Sandwiches: Cut some thin slices of brown bread, spread a little butter over them and lay on the top of half the slices squares of cheese, put them in a baking-dish in a hot oven until the cheese is melted, lay a slice of warm toast on the top of each slice of cheese, and serve at once.

-If a mother does not lay aside her courtesy with her company dress, if a father is as refined in speech when the door has closed after the guest as he was when they conversed together, the child will learn to be habitually polite and modest. For good manners are better taught by example than by precept .--Albany Journal.

-Tapioca Fruit: Pour a quart of boiling water over a cupful of tapioca and let it stand an hour. Lay cut peaches or apples (fresh or canned) upon a buttered dish; add two cupfuls of sugar, a little lemon or vanilla to the tapioca; pour this over the fruit and bake one hour. This is a simple, wholesome and a very nice pudding.

-Dispute it who may, no place is finished without its border of trees and shrubs, whether in their spring bloom and beauty, or as in the evergreens, luxuriant in their perennial verdure. By their employment we can not only have beautiful surroundings, but shut out an unpleasant feature in the landscape or extend a desirable view.-Household.

-Pickles of almost every variety are useful for garnishing fish as well as cold mosts. Whitefish can be trimmed with a few slices of lemon and sprinkled with the yelk of a hard-boiled egg, put through a hair sieve. The egg can be put on in the form of a star and the dish bordered with capers or small chilis, or if preferred, pastry. Gherkins cut in long narrow strips and capers laid in small rings makes a pretty garnish for stewed whitefish .- Detroit Tribune.

ERRATIC BOULDERS.

some of the Wonderful Features of the Famous Mohegan Rock.

During the past summer and fall Prof. Henry Beals, a fellow of the Royal Society of London, has been visiting the New England coast, making a study of the erratic boulders so common throughout that and other sections of the United States. His special search has been for "rocking stones," but a very few of which are known to exist, that is, comparatively speaking. During his travels the aid rendered by local geologists and scientific societies was greatly appreciated by the English scientist.

All geologists, whether of local, State or National reputation, worked in conjunction with the professor, seeking to establish beyond a doubt the theory that these great rocks and curiouslybalanced stones, which in many instances weigh hundreds of tons, were carried on floating icebergs during that mythical eraknown to geologists as "the glacial period."

Of the "rocking stones" Beal discovered but one new example in addition to those already known. This was at Noank, Conn., on the farm of Caleb Haley, a New York fish dealer. This rocking wonder is estimated by the discoverer to weigh twenty-five tons, and has a rocking scope of only six inches, allowing it to be readily moved by the muscular exertions of one arm and hand. Only one other "rocking stone" is known in New England, that at Lanesboro, Mass. Mr. Beal took a photograph of Mohegan rock, also known as Shehegan, in the town of Montville. The name. Mohegan rock, was applied by the early settlers, because it was used by the Indian tribe of that name as a fortress and as a watch-tower and sentinel rock. Late writers describe it as being the largest specimen of the erratic boulder rought down by the ice flow, now known to exist in this or any other country. It is forty-five feet high and seventy feet long, and is calculated by scientists to weigh at least ten thousand tons; it is wonderful to think of the im-mense size of an ice flow which was Celebrated Liver Pills from any drupgist,

Explorer Stanley's Hair.

The correspondent who went up country to meet Stanley describes his hair as being quite white. This he ascribes to the privations of the expedition. But those who met Mr. Stanley when he was formerly in this country will be reminded by the telegrams of an incident, regarding which the great explorer was some years ago twitted by his friends. As a matter of fact, his hair had become white long ago. But Mr. Stanley did not appreciate the venerable appearance which his gray locks gave him. 'They became black again a good deal more suddenly than they had grown white. In view of the chance of another curious change of this kind, it is rather awkward that their present color should have been so universally made known. -London Letter.

FASHIONABLE SOCIETY.

The trying ordeals which fashionable society imposes on its devotees are enough to severely test the physical strength and endurance of the most robust. Irregular and late hours, over-rich and indigestible food, late suppers, the fatigue of the ball-room, the bad air of the illy-ventilated, overcrowded theatre, are each, in themselves, sufficient to upset the system and ruin the health of the delicate and sensitive. Com-bined, they can hardly fail, if persisted in, to seriously impair the health of the hardli-est. Ladies concernily research the persisted est. Ladies generally possess less powers of endurance than their male consorts, and so the somer succumb to these delaterious inthe sconer succumb to these deleterious in-fluences. They become pale, haggard and debilitated, and constantly experience a sense of lassitude – that "tired feeling," as so many express it. The least exertion fatigues them. Various neuralgic and other pains harrass and distress the sufferer. Headache, backache, "bearing-down" sen-sations, and "female weaknesses" follow and sorely afflict the sufferer.

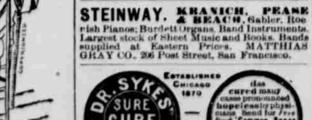

As an invigorating, restorative tonic, As an invigorating, restorative tonic, soothing cordial and bracing nervine, for debilitated and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has no

In fact, it is the only medicine for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments inci-dent to females, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from its manufactur-ers, that it will, in every case, give satisfac-tion or its price ($1.00) will be promptly refunded. It improves digestion, invigorates the system, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, produces refreshing sleep, dispels melancholy and nervousness, and builds up both the flesh and strength of those re-duced below a healthy standard. It is a legitimate medicine – not a beverage. Con-tains no alcohol to inebriate ; no syrup or legitimate medicine — not a beverage. Con-tains no alcohol to inclurinte; no syrup or sugar to sour or ferment in the stomach and cause distress. It is as peculiar in its com-position as it is marvelous in its remedial results.
