FROM LA GRANDE.

A Letter that was Not Published in the Gazette.

NEW STYLE OF JOURNALISM.

W. H. McDonald Vindicates Himself from an Unprovoked Attack.

The last issue of the La Grande Gazette contained an article written by Henry Wildey which was an unprovoked attack upon Henry Anson and W. H. McDonald, president and cashier of the La Grande National Bank. Mr. McDonald wrote a reply vindicating himself, and the bank, from the charges made, and sent it to the Gazette but that paper refused to publish it on the grounds that the paper was in the hands of a committee and they could not allow every body to talk through its columns. This is a new species of journalism but it is characteristic of the worthies who conduct it and manage affairs in La Grande. Such a paper is a menace to good government and a dangerous factor in any country where it is published. Any man can have free speech in THE SCOUT and the communication of Mr. McDonald is published below.

THE LETTER.

La Grande, Oregon, May 3, 1890.

To the editor of the La Grande Gazette:— I desire to say that the article which appeared in the last week's issue of your paper, over the signature of Henry Wildey, was a wilful and malicious falsehood.

Neither Henry Anson or myself ever disposed of a dollar of our stock in the La Grande National Bank to the M. & M. Co., of Island City, or to any individual connected with that association. The M. & M. Co., of Island City, has never had anything to do with the management of the La Grande National Bank, in any way, shape or form. The La Grande National Bank has paid interest on time deposits from the date of its organization. The rate of interest charged by the bank as all other of its business is regulated by the management of the bank, composed of gentlemen who conduct its private affairs as any business enterprise should be done—a policy which Mr. Wildey would do well to emulate. And in conclusion, would add, that it would be more consistent with propriety if Mr. Wildey would meet his obligations at the La Grande National Bank, long since past due, before manufacturing his appreciation of the financial favors he has received in the hands of Mr. Anson and myself, in the low and villainous manner he displays.

Respectfully, W. H. McDONALD, Cashier La Grande National Bank.

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

The health of your family should be your first consideration. Good, healthy food will produce better results than any medicine you can swallow. Save the health of your family by striking the roots—by casting away your stove with solid iron doors, and without delay purchase one of Pilley's New Charter Oak Stoves or Ranges with wire-gauze oven door. The enormous saving in fuel, and gain in weight of bread and meat, will soon pay for a Charter Oak stove for itself. No other stove in the world will stand the test. Sold by Summers & Layne, Union, Oregon.

BROWN, druggist.

Makes Him Weary.

That gives us a chill, like coal tar or caustic bridge, more than a very short words, y do so and so back sake, let them do rest of you, left son. We came nt from "back as being cheap—" or how "You have no cheaper wh home?"

IN MEMORIAM.

Lines to the Memory of Edward S. Rinchart who Died on Sandridge, Oregon, April 26, 1890.

Eddie's gone. Oh how we miss him, Miss his dear, familiar face. In our sad and lonely school room, None can ever fill his place.

And our hearts are almost breaking, Crushed beneath this heavy load. For the path of life without him Seems a dark and dreary road.

How he cheered with mirth and sunshine Our loving hearts and home, Still we listen for his footsteps Feeling yet that he must come,

But 'tis only for a moment, That we listen for his tread, Now the sad truth flashes o'er us, He cannot come, Eddie's dead.

Beloved by all who knew him, He passed his life so brief. Then closed his eyes to earthly scenes Unconscious of our grief.

Hard it is to be submissive, As we pass beneath the rod, Our poor hearts all filled with sorrow Can be soothed by none but God.

He alone can share our sorrow, Tend our hearts all crushed and torn, As we pass beneath the rod, As we pass beneath the rod, As we pass beneath the rod.

Father, wilt thou guide us, Such the days and years to come, All with our dear loved one In a heaven a happy home. —L. P. and J.
