EASTER BELLS.

Ring out glad bells! glad Easter Bells,
Gleam from thy April morning knells,
Part thy hand, O'er to the sea,
Where dashing waves shall answer thee!
Ring down the forest deep and wide—
Ring to the realm where clouds abide:
Sound loud the anthem of the praise—
Which men with thoughts of happier days
Bring back the hours of bar-foot days
When boyish glasses welcomed thee!
Oh, bells of Easter, touch my heart,
With childhood's boundless joy, apart.

Sitting alone this April day,
My memory wanders far away,
To that old home beneath the hill!
Close by the lake, serene and still,
I see once more three bar-foot boys
With hearts of corn, with careless joys—
I see the farmhouse and the flowers—
And mother singing through long hours;
Oh Easter Bells that chime in glee!
Ring back that happy song to me!

Bring back, Oh Bells! one other day,
When all the world to me was gay,
When joy gushed through each throbbing vein,
And gladness danced with might and main!
I took thy tender hand in mine,
And saw the light in deep eyes shine,
I touched her lips, and thrilled to feel
The warm flush through my pulses steal!
Bring back glad Bells, the whisp'ring vow
That binds me to her side, even now!
Bring back sweet Bells the golden day,
When we joined hearts, for aye!

NORTH POWDER NOTES.

Comparing the Contentious La Grande With Our Sister Town, Union.

May 17 1890.

W. H. Huffman was in our town recently.
E. S. McComas paid our little town a visit last week.
Dan Starbird was in town recently looking after his interests.

Mr. Joe Yowell of Pyles canyon passed through town a few days ago.
Two somebodies are going to get married in our town next week "who is it."

No man who pays heavy taxes, out side of La Grande, will vote to change the county seat.
Whoso stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he also shall cry himself but shall not be heard. As a thorn goeth up into the hand of a drunkard, so is La Grande, to those who stuffed the ballot box at their city election.

The desire of a man is his kindness, and a poor man is better than a liar. It is better to dwell in the wilderness than with a contentious and angry woman. A continual dropping in a very rainy day, and a contentious woman are alike.

Dr. H. Boyd, late of Georgia, has located in North Powder. The doctor brings with him a good recommendation. He has taken two courses at Bellview Medical college New York, two courses at Tulane University New Orleans, La., and one year in Touro Infirmary Hospital, New Orleans, La. The doctor is a half brother to Dr. Ashford of Baker City. He is a young man of extraordinary ability. He is no quack, and the people need not be afraid to call on the Dr. when in need of a physician.

PINE VALLEY.

Its Beauty and Advantages Vividly Described.

THE GEM OF UNION COUNTY.

Progress, Prosperity and Sociability of the Old Pioneer Settlers.

"There's a country famed in story
As you've often times been told,
'Tis a land of mighty rivers,
Running over sands of gold,
The abode of peace and plenty,
And with prosperity his guest;
But this country that's so famous
Is away off in the West."

It is said that the traveler through the Great Saharian Desert of Africa, being enervated and worn out by the burning sun and scorching wind, till almost compelled to lie down by the wayside and die, suddenly sees in the distance a beautiful lake surrounded by a cool and shady grove, but when upon rushing forward to the place where he imagines he can wet his parched lips with nature's sparkling beverage and rest his weary limbs under the shady palm trees, he finds to his sorrow that he has been deceived by what is known in philosophy as an optical illusion, and instead of finding his cool lake and shady grove, he discovers that he is still traveling through burning sand and scorching wind. And so I imagine that the pioneer pilgrim moving westward from the "states" with a view to founding a home for himself and family, and after traveling many a long and tedious day across the desert sage brush waste that lies between the Pacific coast and Middle states, when he stood for the first time upon the summit of the mountains that bound Pine valley on the east, and looked forth upon the dazzling beauty of the landscape that laid before him, exclaimed to himself, "Certainly the sight that meets my eye cannot be a reality, but must be one of those optical illusions that deceives the weary traveler through Africa." But as he approaches nearer he ascertains that the beautiful valley before him is no delusion or mirage but that here in Eastern Oregon lies the most beautiful and most fertile valley upon which the sun ever shone; a valley twelve miles long and seven miles wide; a valley surpassing all others for the fertility of its soil, the beauty of its scenery and the mildness of its climate.

Although one of the newest settled valleys in the west, yet Pine valley takes the lead of all others in improvement and development. It has been transformed as if by magic from the barren prairies of '75 into the cultivated fields of '90. Here, where only fifteen years ago the Indians chased the deer and the elk, and the only sound which broke the deadly stillness of night was the pitiful howl of the hungry coyote, the child-like cry of the treacherous pauther and the hooting of the screech owl, now can be seen vast fields of growing grain, stately houses and well cultivated farms which speak more eloquently than I am able to do of the prosperity of the ranchers of Pine. Here, the rancher can raise 40 bushels of wheat to the acre, 75 bushels of oats, 30 bushels of barley, fruits and vegetables of the largest size and finest quality and can cut from two to three crops of alfalfa a season. Here, drought, chinch bugs, grasshoppers, locusts, hot winds and all the other plagues that pester the farmers of eastern states, are unknown. The ranchers of Pine are even independent of Dame Nature and are not compelled to depend upon atmospheric changes for the watering of their crops.

Pine valley has four school districts, two saw mills, one grist mill, four stores, two postoffices, one hotel, three blacksmith shops and one saloon. But one of the best and most commendable features of Pine valley is the sociability of its people. Hospitality is the religion of the people of this valley. True it is that this valley like all other places has its tale-bearers and mischief-makers, but like the fragrant pole-cat their presence is always known, and hence they are perfectly harmless. Quite a number of the people of this valley are southern born and have brought here to Eastern Oregon those sociable qualities for which the people of the southern states have become famous. The sojourner in Pine can always find the "latch string hanging out."

Pine valley, indeed, has a most brilliant future. Its nearness to the Cornucopia, Sanger and Sparta mines affords a good market for surplus produce, and will furnish a better market as these mines continue to be developed. It is authoritatively reported that a new company is soon to commence work in the Cornucopia mines. And, furthermore, it is only a question of time, and a short time at that, when a railroad will be built down the Powder river. Also, a movement is now on foot to construct a railroad from Salt Lake City, Utah, down Snake river, to connect with the Hunt division at Wallula junction.

Another movement which will redound to the development of Pine valley is the attempt which is now being made to navigate Snake river. Already a vessel is being constructed at Huntington to run from there to the Seven Devils, and I apprehend the time is not far distant when the turbulent waters of Snake will be covered with the "white winged messengers of commerce."

No doubt the pioneer settlers of Pine valley have endured many privations and hardships in order to secure homes for themselves and families, but the comfort they will enjoy in the future in having beautiful homes and well improved ranches will repay them a hundred fold for the sacrifices they have made and the hardships through which they have passed. And it seems to me that every man, woman and child in Pine valley should say with the poet,

"Great God! We thank Thee for this home,
This bounteous birth land of the free,
Where wanderers from afar may come,
And breathe the air of liberty.
Still may thy flowers untrammelled spring,
Her harvests wave, her cities rise;
And yet till Time shall fold his wing,
Remain earth's loveliest paradise."

Notice to Bridge Builders.

The county court of Union county, Oregon, will receive sealed bids at the court house in Union, up to 2 o'clock p. m., June 7, 1890, for the construction of a bridge across Powder river, just above the mouth of Eagle creek; said bridge to be of one span of 80 feet, with the necessary approaches, and on abutments of good solid stone masonry, seated to good foundation built of good rock and good strong lime mortar, and all outside exposed seams pointed with good cement mortar. Also for the construction of a bridge of the Big, or State ditch, near the farm of C. W. Hamilton, of 80 foot span, on double bents, with necessary approaches. Also for the construction of a bridge across Grande Ronde river, near the farm of J. M. McKissock and others, above Hilgard and just below the saw mill of Wm. Noyes; said bridge to be of 80 feet span, with necessary approaches, and on good solid stone abutments. All bridges are to be 16 feet wide in clear, with flooring 3 inches thick of good sound pine, with railing and hub boards. All timber used in construction of said bridges, except the flooring, must be of good, sound, straight grained, young growth red fir.

All bidders are required to submit to the court their own plans and specifications and strain sheet and the court will select therefrom. The county court will also require from each bidder with his bid a certified check on a bank as a guarantee that he will enter into contract if award is made to him. Bids for construction of abutments may be submitted separate.

None but good material will be accepted in any portion of said bridges and the county court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

O. P. GOODALL,
County Judge.
