SHAKEN OUT OF GEAR

By malarial disease, the human machinery cannot half perform its office. Digestion, secretion, evacuation are disordered, the blood becomes watery, the nerves feeble, the rountenance ghasily, sleep disturbed and appetite capricious. Terrible is this disease, fell its consequences. There is, however, a known autidate to the intasmatic poison and a certain safeguard against it. In malarious regions of our South and West, in South America, Guatemala and on the 1sthmus of Panama, as well as in transmarine countries where the scourge exists, this inimitable preventive and remedy. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, has during the last thirty-five years been constantly widening the area of its usefulness and demonstrating its sovereign value. Liver complaint, dyspepsia, constipation, kidney trouble, rheumatism and debility are all remedied by it.

A Southern preacher recently advised his con-gregation to be saved in the nick of time from the Nick of eternity.

The turning point in woman's life brings peculiar weaknesses and ailments. Pierce's Favorite Prescription brings relief and cure. It is a powerful, invigorating, restorative tonic and nervine. It imparts strength to the whole system in general, and to the uterine organs of their mode of manufacture or mateand appendages in particular. There being no other water for a long distance makes it a very convenient resort for stockmen and travelers. On adjoining rocks can be found a great many similar tanks; also two small ancient paintings. Scores of mortars and pestles are found in various places. Some are made very roughly and others are shaped out of a fine quality of stone with elegant taste. Marvelous skill is displayed in the art of making arrow heads and knives of the hardest flint. The Second Hand Book Trade. One of the many peculiarities of the second hand book trade is that the sales are heavier on days of stormy weather. The business men find slow sales on inclement days, and those of a literary turn of mind, or those who have a penchant for collecting books on any special subject, will drop into a second hand book store and while away several hours in looking over the stock. I remember one snowy day last winter a prominent gentleman of this city came into my store, and, while waiting for the storm to pass by, he became interested in several volumes of books on a line he was collecting, and I sold him $65 worth before he left. Customers who have a hobby to which they are devoting attention will find a book sometimes which to the eye is only worth ten cents, but they will value it at $5, and if a dealer asks that price they will readily pay it .- Edward Mills in Globe-Democrat.

Electrical Detective Campra. The relation of electricity to crime, which began with the invention of burglar alarm devices, has been extended in the shape of an electrical detective camera, invented by two Newark men. Their idea is to have the device fixed in the walls of banking houses behind the tellers and so arranged as to photograph whoever stands at the teller's window, in case the man s picture is wanted. The little button that does the work of opening the camera shutter, making the exposure, dropping the plate and putting in a new plate, will be under the teller's desk, so that he can, without betraying himself, instantly take the picture of any one who excites his suspicion. This same camera can be put up in police stations in the same way, and as the prisoners are brought in they can be photographed without knowing it and having a chance to distort their features when sitting for the Rogues Gallery .- New York Sun.

A LEVEL HEAD.

Remarkable Relies of an Ancient Civili- The Advantage | Presence of Mind in an Are Not Only Done Quickly by Electric-Emergency.

During the late strike on the New York Central railroad the militia were ordered to be in readiness in case of a riot, but they were not called out.

In an interview Governor Hill said the troops were not to be called upon except in case of an emergency. The emergency had not arisen; therefore, they would not be ordered out. He remarked that this was the first great strike with which he had had experience, and he did not propose to lose his head; the only point at which there had ther been serious trouble was at Symouse, and there a Denuty Sherid had lost his head and precipitated an encounter.

The strike continued several weeks, and there was riotous action at various points along the road, but the civil authorities were able to cope with it without calling on the militir.

The test of a man's real ability comes miles along the mountain sides, through when an emergency arises which makes way. Some of these slabs are said to dis retion.
