IN THE SOUTH.

The Cotton Fields and Harrow of Working Them in That Region

Raleigh, N. C. Nov. 19, 1890.

EDITOR OREGON SCOUT:—The cotton picking has closed throughout the South. It has been a busy season, and one of unusual prosperity. The crop has been large and the time of picking has been uninterrupted by continuous storms, tornadoes, cyclones, frosts, freshets or droughts; all of which seem to conspire, in some years, to rob man of all he possesses or can produce; even of life itself. But this year the Great Creator and Ruler of the Universe has been kind to the people of the South. The two great money crops, tobacco and cotton, have been large, and are well secured, and nearly all sold. As we have stated before in these letters, no crop grows from the earth in which so much of human interest concentrates, as the cotton crop. The planter looks forward to the time of picking with intense anxiety, from the time he drops the seed into the little drill upon the top of the ridge. The picking means money to him. For, as soon as he has picked enough for a bale, he may have it ginned, pressed and sold in a half day's time.

The cotton picking season extends over two months or more, on the same plantation. The plant bears buds, blooms, bolls and open bolls all at once; and continues to do it from the middle of August to the first or middle of November. Hence, the same field will be picked over several times.

Our Savior, when giving certain instructions to his disciples said, "But I say unto you, the fields are already white for the harvest." We do not know as Christ ever saw a cotton field, with the snow white lint hanging from the open bolls, but we never saw a cotton field without thinking of those words, in which He told His disciples that their work was ready for them and in sight. So with a cotton field; its open bolls tell the picker that his work is ready for him and in sight.

Men, women and children engage in cotton picking. It is practically all done by the blacks; and the sharp contrast between the hand of the picker and the fleece from the cotton stalk is pleasing to the eye. A field of cotton is a pleasing sight. The work is light, and fairly paid. The negroes love to pick in large companies; and calve their work with songs and pleasant chaff. The work is not hard; but the continuous stooping for tall persons is likely to make them think that they have backs when night puts an end to the work. The price usually paid for picking cotton is forty cents per one hundred pounds as it comes from the boll. Two hundred pounds is a good day's work. Women are said to be better pickers than men, as they endure the strain upon the muscles of the back longer. The picker wears a bag, open at the top and suspended from the waist. He picks with both hands, taking two rows as he picks.

The beginning of the picking of a good crop of cotton is the beginning of a season of great activity. The negroes congregate near large cotton fields; gins and presses are put in order; the compresses are fired up, and the railroads and steamships make preparations for transporting a double amount of freight. The cotton buyer enlarges his bank account and stock of money; for cash must be paid, except in the case of a few unfortunates whose crop is already mortgaged. Cotton speculators come from the North, and the golden age has come to the South. The arrival of the first bale of cotton in the market is hailed with great joy, and duly noticed in the newspapers as a good time already come. In the city of Raleigh, a certain merchant paid ten dollars to the man who brought in the first bale of cotton, and sold it in front of his store.

Farmers and Politicians.

There are politicians and writers who seem to honestly believe that if it can be shown that if a considerable number of farmers are slowly getting ahead, no matter at what cost or deprivation of the ordinary comforts of life, a great point has been made, and the claim that there is anything wrong with our political and economic questions is thereby disproven.

It would be strange indeed, if in a country so richly endowed with soil and climate as this, a farmer who is willing to work very hard and practice parsimony in living, that a Digger Indian would consider stingy, could not slowly get ahead; and he who does so surely has no occasion to be thankful for the laws, systems or practices that vouchsafe him only so much. Politicians need to understand this; if every farmer in the land were making a fortune each year, that would not justify unequal taxation, over capitalization or capitalistic conspiracies in unjustly taking from him one dollar of his profits. That the farmer may exist, may even get ahead more or less rapidly, does not atone for the robberies he is the victim of. The thief need not steal all a man has to insure his incarceration in prison; nor should capitalistic conspiracies be compelled to steal all of a farmer's substance before the people are justified in driving them from the face of the earth.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

Mr. J. Newman Tells Some of His Interesting Experiences.

I left Chicago on the 19th of November, taking the Baltimore and Ohio train for Mansfield, Ohio, and arrived there on the evening of the same day. Next morning I went out three miles from the city to the old home place that I left over 51 years ago. I found it without much trouble. The present proprietor was very kind, and anxious to convince me that I was on the old place. He took me through the house, even up stairs, and then out through the farm. Afterward he invited me to dinner and we had a long talk. How changed is the place. I missed the timber more than anything else. I said to the old gentlemen: "Where are those old walnut and chestnut trees?" He replied "they are all worked up into rails, lumber and wood." How I longed to see some of them when I remembered how I used to go, barefooted, hunting for nuts. After dinner, the old gentlemen to convince me more thoroughly got out his deeds and showed me who my father bought of and who he sold to. But the best is to be told. Here I met "the girl I left behind me" over 51 years ago. She is a daughter of the man my father sold the old place to and is the only person in Ohio that I remember of seeing before. She lives a short distance from the old home and has a good farm and the finest residence in the neighborhood. She is a widow. I went to see her and had a long interesting chat about former times, places and persons. But, Mr. Editor, I must not tell you too much. In the evening when I was ready to go I gave her one of my pamphlets, explaining to her my reasons for discarding the old theological theories. Standing in the middle of the room with hat in hand I had an audience of two—my girl and another young lady. It was an interesting audience. When I gave her my hand to bid her good bye she was nearly overcome with emotion and I was no better. You see, Mr. Editor this has been an interesting trip to me, so far.

On the morning of the 12th I took the train for Washington. I remember, when I was a boy, singing, "Here we go for Baltimore, two behind and two before." The first place of importance that I visited after my arrival at Washington was the patent office. Next, the Washington monument. We went to the top of it twice; the first time by the elevator, then by the stairway to satisfy our curiosity. But by the time we got to the top our curiosity was all gone. From the top, we had a splendid view of the city and the Potomac river, the White House and the war and State departments of the treasury. Next day we visited the capitol, going all through the hall of representatives, the senate and library, and the supreme court room where we heard the legal talent of the United States. Washington is a beautiful city with wide, clean streets.

On the evening of the 15th we took the train for Philadelphia reaching there on the night of the 16th. Here we visited the old Centennial building which is the most interesting place I have visited since leaving home. Those scenes of ancient Rome and Pompei were the richest I ever saw. I reached New York on the 17th in time to attend the State conference of the Unitarian church. The Unitarian ministers had a grand time.

It is worth a trip from Oregon to New York to see the Brooklyn bridge and the view to be obtained from it. You might as well try to count a thousand ducks on a pond as to try to count the vessels on East river in sight from the Brooklyn bridge.

Today I thought I would have some genuine turtle soup. The bill of fare was headed "green turtle soup, 60 cents." I ordered it but soon found out that the turtle was not as green as I was. I concluded it was like the beef they fed me on in Chicago. Tomorrow I think I will start on to Boston.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS!

OH, MY BACK! STOP IT NOW, SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE. I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 10th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Healey, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

Prof Koch's Discovery

For the Cure of Consumption is Creating the Greatest Comment on Both Continents.

It has been known and fully demonstrated on the American continent for the past twenty-five years that Dr. Aborn, the well known throat and lung physician, does absolutely cure Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Many living witnesses today do testify that he cured them 20 to 25 years ago, many of them residing in Oregon and California today, which is no less remarkable than the wonderful discovery just made by Professor Koch, of Berlin.

THE FOLLOWING RECENT CURE IS MOST CONCLUSIVE HOME EVIDENCE OF DR. ABORN'S WONDERFUL SUCCESS IN CURING ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, CATARRH AND CONSUMPTION.

AN EX-SHERIFF

One of the most Remarkable Cures on Record Considering his Physical Condition.

HE COULD NOT LIVE MUCH LONGER.

D. M. DUNBAR, of Forest Grove, Or., Cured of Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

IN JUSTICE TO DOCTOR ABORN.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Nov. 10, 1890. To whom it may concern:—For the last three years I have been very badly affected with asthma, catarrh and bronchitis. I had nine very hard attacks and came very near dying five or six times. I was so far reduced that no one thought I would live very long. About three months ago I consulted Dr. Aborn, Fourth and Morrison streets, Portland, Or., and have been treated by him since that time, and I am compelled, in justice to Dr. Aborn, to say that he relieved me at once and that I have improved steadily. I have not had any hard attacks of asthma and am not troubled with it at all now, and I think that the catarrh and bronchitis are nearly if not entirely cured, and I am entirely satisfied with his treatment of my case, and would advise those afflicted as I have been to consult Dr. Aborn at once. D. M. DUNBAR.

DR. ABORN.

Has devoted twenty-five years to the successful treatment of the Eye, Ear, Catarrh of the head, Asthma, Consumption, and all affections of the Throat, Lungs, Heart, Liver, Kidneys and Digestive Organs, Nervous Debility, Scrofula, Blood Taint and all diseases of the skin, Neuralgia, Rheumatism. All acute pains instantly relieved, also Ear Diseases and Deafness often cured at the first consultation at the office.

Dr. Aborn's essay on the "Curability of Consumption," and his large paper with a "Treatise on Catarrh of the Head," with evidences of some extraordinary cures, mailed to any address upon receipt of a two-cent stamp. Dr. Aborn can be consulted daily 10 to 12 a.m., 2 to 4 and 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., Sundays 10 to 12 and 2 to 3 only. No charges for consultation. Offices and Laboratory 4th and Morrison Streets, Portland, Oregon.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their popularity purely on their merits.—R. H. BROWN, druggist, Union, Oregon.
