Santa Cruz, Cal., is making preparations for the centennial celebration of the founding of the Mission of Santa Cruz. A memorial cross will probably be built on the spot where the first cross was erected 100 years ago by the Mission Fathers.

A Glendora young man took to Los Angeles a California condor that measured 9 feet 11 inches from tip to tip. It was caught during the storm. It was found in a path with thick brush on each side, and being unable to fly, was caught. It will be mounted.

The Emma Juch Company was detained in Idaho by a snow-blockade. A special train ran seventy-five miles an hour for 250 miles, and reached Ogden, where the company was to open, in time to begin the performance at 10 o'clock. The house was packed.

According to the Superintendent of the Mint of San Francisco Alaska turned out gold amounting to $177,428; Oregon, gold, $1,089,125, and silver, $129,199; Washington, gold $204,000, silver $9,902.25; Nevada, gold $2,805,740, silver $5,738,060; California, gold $11,250,913, silver $1,144,000.

Reports received in Los Angeles are to the effect that two of the Alila train robbers are in custody. One is in jail at Tulare, and the other has been arrested by the Sheriff of San Luis Obispo county. It is said that both are positively identified as the robbers. The third man is believed to be wounded and in Los Angeles receiving medical treatment.

School section 16 near Tacoma, about which there was any amount of litigation a few months ago, when John J. McBride and others endeavored to obtain possession by filing mineral claims, is again filed upon by Joseph Duggan, who seeks to cover twenty-nine acres with mineral claims. The section is valued at $3,000,000 or $4,000,000, and is within the residence portion of the city.

A church investigation with closed doors involving very serious charges against Rev. S. J. Fleming, pastor of the Methodist Church at Monte Vista, Cal., began at the Simpson tabernacle in Los Angeles last week before a committee of ministers selected by the Presiding Elder of the district. There is a charge of embezzling $6,000 in connection with Chautauqua work at Redondo. Fleming is a brilliant young man, and has many friends.

The steamer Cascade, which was attached in January at Seattle by the United States Marshal to satisfy the claim of Charles F. Frasch for $420.45 for supplies and provisions, was sold under execution for $1,700. There were ten intervenors whose claims were for supplies and for wages as employees of the vessel. Joseph B. Caruso was owner and master of the Cascade, which has been very unfortunate, and while tied up sank twice at the wharf.

J. L. Weeks, formerly an employe of the Fremont Mill Company at Seattle, has been awarded $8,000 damages against that company in the Superior Court for injuries sustained a year ago. He was acting as trimmer at the mill, when the saw became loose and was thrown forward, striking his right arm, breaking the bones and lacerating the muscles in a terrible manner. He charged the company with negligence in using defective machinery, and sued for $15,930, but got only $8,000.

The British tramp steamer Scandinavia has made out a good case before the Secretary of the Treasury, and the customs officer at San Diego has been notified to clear her at once, notwithstanding the customs official at Santa Rosalia, Mexico, insists that clearance papers should have been obtained in Mexico.

Among railroad men at Los Angeles the feeling against Messenger Haswell is very strong. They believe that he killed the firemen when he fired through the car door at the Alila train robbers. The engineers and firemen on the Southern Pacific have declined to take out trains upon which he is running as messenger. Wells, Fargo & Co. have been forced to take him off the road, and have given him a position in the Los Angeles office. In addition Haswell was presented with a gold watch and chain and $500 in cash for his faithful services.

The British government, under pressure from merchants in the Brazilian trade, is taking steps to obtain for Great Britain an assurance of commercial privileges in that country equal to those granted other nations. English merchants are afraid the reciprocity treaty between Brazil and the United States will divert much of the trade to the latter country.

Sir Charles Dilke, who will be remembered as in connection with the notorious Crawford-Dilke divorce case, is standing for a seat in the Commons. He has issued a pamphlet stating that Captain Forster should have been correspondent instead of himself. Dilke's candidacy is violently opposed by prominent English prelates, and a large petition against his return has been circulated.

The military strength of the Germans along the French frontier is said to be very great. The discipline maintained is the same as if the two countries were upon the verge of war. The regiments at Metz are kept almost constantly under arms, and nearly every night are turned out on an alarm to test their capacity for promptness in real emergency.

In an article in the London Graphic on the Canadian crisis the Marquis of Lorne says: "The annexation scare is useful to bring home to our minds the fact that the colonies are practically independent nations." He, however, ridicules the idea that Canada desires to barter her political independence for the "government of the Stars and Stripes."

Vienna advises say that the movement against the Jews is conspicuous in the contest over the coming elections, and in Vienna and several of the provinces the elections will turn almost wholly on this issue, the anti-Semites declaring that they will drive them from the country.

England is closely watching the reciprocity feature of the new tariff law of the United States. Lord Salisbury has instructed the British Minister to Brazil to insist upon securing for Great Britain the "most-favored-nation" treatment in the event of Mr. Blaine's succeeding in his negotiations for a commercial treaty favorable to the United States.

A cable dispatch to the London Standard estimates the wheat crop of South Australia at 12,000,000 bushels or about 2,000,000 bushels less than that of last year. The Victorian crop, on the other hand, is believed to be about 5,000,000 bushels more than that of 1890. But the production in New South Wales and New Zealand is so much smaller than it was last year that the surplus of Australia cannot be great.

Wonders of the Dead Sea. One of the most interesting lakes or inland seas in the world is the Dead sea, which has no visible outlet. It is not mere fancy that has clothed the dead sea in gloom. The desolate shores, with scarcely a green thing in sight, and scattered over with black stones and ragged driftwood, form a fitting frame for the dark, sluggish waters, covered with a perpetual mist, and breaking in slow, heavy, sepulchral toned waves upon the beach. It seems as if the smoke of the wicked cities was yet ascending up to heaven, and as if the moan of their fearful sorrow would never leave that God smitten valley.

It is a strange thing to see those waves, not dancing along and sparkling in the sun as other waves do, but moving with measured melancholy, and sending to the ear, as they break languidly upon the rock, only doleful sounds. This is, no doubt, owing to the great heaviness of the water, a fact well known, and which we amply verified in the usual way, for, on attempting to swim, we went floating about like empty casks. This experiment was more satisfactory in its progress than in its results, which were a very unctuous skin and a most pestiferous stinging of every nerve, as if we had been beaten with nettles. Nor was the water we took into our mouth a whit less vile than the most nauseous drugs of the apothecary.

This fish cannot live in this strong solution of bitumen and salt is too obvious to need proof; but to say that birds cannot fly over it and live is one of the exaggerations of travelers, who perhaps were not, like ourselves, so fortunate as to see a flock of ducks reposing on the water in apparently good health. And yet this was all the life we did see. The whole valley was one seething cauldron, under a more than tropical sun. God forsaken and man forsaken, no green thing grows within it, and it remains to this day as striking a monument of God's fearful judgments as when the fire from heaven devoured the once mighty cities of the plain.—Missionary Herald.

The Grant Collection.

The Grant collection at Washington is alone worth a fortune. In one case there is a complete collection of gold and silver coins of Japan which has a wonderful numismatic value, as it is the only complete set in existence, except one in the Japanese treasury. Some of the gold coins are a quarter of an inch thick and as big round as the top of a dinner pail. Seven of them cost $5,000, and there are perhaps 100 coins in the collection.

In another case there are half a dozen large elephant tusks which the king of Siam gave to Grant, and there are six pieces of costly jade stone given him by one of the princes of China. All of the swords presented to him are here, and many of these have diamonds set in their handles. The sword given to Grant by the Sanitary fair at New York has a solid gold head representing the Goddess of Liberty, which has two rubies, two diamonds and two sapphires set in it. The sword of Chattanooga has fourteen diamonds and two sapphires set in it, and many of the gifts which he received from foreign monarchs are of gold set with diamonds. One of the medals in the collection contains six hundred dollars' worth of gold.—Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

Greeting the Prince.

A good story is recorded in connection with the Prince of Wales' visit to Lord Brooke's country seat in Essex. After opening the Essex Agricultural show at Chelmsford the prince and several other distinguished guests, including Lady Randolph Churchill, Baron Hirsch, Col. Stanley Clark and Mr. Chaplin, M. P., were entertained at Easton lodge. On the following day the party drove to Lord Braybrook's seat at Andley End. Horses were changed en route at the rural village, Wimbish. While this was being done an elderly laborer approached the royal party, and addressing the prince said: "Beg your parding, sir, I should loike to drink yer health; we don't see yer ev'ry day."

Laughing heartily his royal highness drew half a crown out of his pocket and handed it to the man, with the injunction: "Don't spend it all at once."

Putting the coin in his fob the old fellow, with another tug at his forelock replied: "Thank yer, thank yer, gunner; yer the best gentleman I know on round about this 'ere levee."—London Tit-Bits.

Cactus Juice a Good Medicine.

As a New Yorker, whose very red nose is not unknown on Broadway, turned into the Fifth Avenue hotel one afternoon he passed William Cooper, the Mexican business man. "If he only knew it," said Cooper of the gentleman with the nose, "a diet of cactus juice, fresh from the plant night and morning, would bleach his complexion to a beautiful purity. Americans do not appreciate the value of the cactus until they have lived in Mexico for some time. The fruit, tunas, is delicious, and the juice the best blood purifier. I believe, to be found in the vegetable kingdom. People who live where the cactus grows do not need any medicine.—New York Letter.

Takes 1000 people to buy Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, at 50 cents a bottle, to make up $500.

One failure to cure would take the profit from 4000 sales.

Its makers profess to cure "cold in the head," and even chronic catarrh, and if they fail they pay $500 for their over-confidence.

Not in newspaper words but in hard cash! Think of what confidence it takes to put that in the papers—and mean it.

Its makers believe in the Remedy. Isn't it worth a trial? Isn't any trial preferable to catarrh?

After all, the mild agencies are the best. Perhaps they work more slowly, but they work surely. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an active agency but quiet and mild. They're sugar-coated, easy to take, never shock nor derange the system and half their power is in the mild way in which their work is done. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. One a dose. Twenty-five cents a vial. Of all druggists.

SPREADING FOR LEAGUES AROUND

The marshy, overflowed lands, sunken lots and half-submerged river banks, which give them birth, the seeds of malaria impregnate the air, and are inhaled at every breath by thousands unprovided with any adequate safeguard against the beneficial influence. Yet such exist—most aptly to remedy or to prevent, pure in its constituents, and the professionally recognized substitute for the hateful drug, quinine. Its name is Hostetter's stomach Bitters, a family specific and safeguard, foremost not only as an antidote to malaria, but also as a means of permanently removing dyspepsia and relieving constipation, liver complaint, rheumatism, kidney and bladder ailments and nervousness. Among invigorants it takes the first place, and is also a superb aperient. Use it systematically.
