Remember that Mrs. Summers, the milliner, has removed to the building five doors south of Jaycox's store.

An effort is being made to revive the Union Silver Cornet Band again. We are in hopes that an active interest will be taken in the matter. Union at one time had the best band in the county, and there is no reason why it should not have again.

Mr. H. J. Geer, of the Cove, thinks if orchardists would not maintain breeding places for pests, there would not be so many. He says: If orchardists will keep their orchards clean, the dead limbs and decayed blemishes removed from their trees, I believe in a few years the fruit pests will be non est.

A mob of about forty masked men broke into the jail at Oysterville, Wash., last Saturday night and killed John Rose and Jack Edwards, two men convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged, but the supreme court reversed the decision and a new trial was granted the men, which caused dissatisfaction, hence the killing. The men were shot down in their cells.

A. B. Conley, one of the Mogul farmers of Grande Ronde, sent an agent this week to Arkansas to procure from fifteen to twenty negro farm hands. The moral to this little bit of information is that farm hands are a scarce article when most needed. This is especially the case during the harvest season. It would seem that there should be no necessity for this importation of muscle but it is only a small portion of idle men in the towns who are very badly stuck on work, and they cannot be relied upon in cases of emergency.—Gazette.

Last Sunday, April 5, Willie Jones, aged 8 years, was killed by a horse, says the Border Signal. The family had been out driving and on their return home the manly little fellow was helping his father to unhitch his team. He took the bridle off but was unable to get the reins over the horse's head, and in trying to do so became entangled in the bridle. This so frightened the animal that it ran away and dragged the little fellow to death. He died in a very short time and was buried last Tuesday. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior saying that if I could stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent one above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am today a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at Brown's drugstore, this city. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

The semi-annual statement of the financial condition of the county will be found in this issue. This should have been published sooner, but the necessary blanks failed to arrive until after the paper was published last week, which caused the delay.

Jesse Albersson, of Huntington, was in the city last week. He informs us that he has sold out his store at Eagle valley and is erecting a two-story brick in Huntington to be used as a store with hall overhead. Huntington, he says, is lively and a good trading point.

Now is the time to brighten up your premises by using paint freely, for nothing adds more to the general appearance of a town, or makes a more favorable impression on strangers than neatly painted houses and fences. It is an evidence of the good taste, neatness and thrift of the people.

James Quinn, who was severely injured by a runaway team while plowing about a year ago, has gone to Portland and is now at the Good Samaritan Hospital, where he will undergo a difficult, but it is thought not dangerous surgical operation. Last Thursday night a number of the Big creek boys and girls gathered at Wright's hall and had a surprise dance. Stewart Spears furnished the music.

Tuesday afternoon while Aaron McGee and Jos. Bobb were having a bad across the creek at Duhaman Wright's old place, the wagon summer broke letting the double cross-oxen the horses hind legs which caused them to break away from the driver. They encircled around by the meadow some fifteen minutes, when turning into a wire fence they were brought to a stand. The horses received no other damage than a few scratches by the wire. Mc says it was great fun to watch them run, and enjoyed it highly.

THIS SPACE.

HIGH VALLEY ITEMS.

April 6, 1891.

Union county, Oregon, has the same number of population as Union county Kentucky.

Everybody well and digging up the soil, in high hopes of a fine crop. We all intend to do our duty and depend upon the storm king to do his.

The roads are in fine trim for this early period. We must soon be treated to a soaking rain or it will result in a dry spell at the wrong end of the machine.

Our school opened on the 13th with Mr. Seymour Corpe in command. He has taught two terms here before. For a good, proficient teacher he is the little old man of the woods.

We wonder why the new city council has not dug up that cow ordinance that Mayor Wright earnestly recommended in his message. If cows can forage and live on the city streets, why not rent the privilege to the highest bidder for revenue only.

ALICE NOTES.

Warm days and cool nights.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Ruckman are very sick at this writing with a gripple.

A special school meeting was called for district No. 46 to fill a vacancy in the board of directors, caused by the resignation of G. W. Ruckman. The result of the meeting was the election of S. O. Johnson for the term of two years.

The little imp has belched forth at us and that horrid preacher, but you are a bad boy and need to be chastised, and oh how you do sing. Your voice sounds like one of those Pole Angus black mules. If they want let you in the choir at Summerville and you can start the Doxology as well as you say you can perhaps you had better move out to Kettlobelly and they will let you lead the orchestra out there.

MINERVA ANN.

DIED.

HARRIS—In this city, Saturday, April 11, 1891, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Harris, aged 22 days.

Weep not, fond mother, it is best; The little one is now at rest. No chilling breath can reach it now, Nor fever pain its little brow.

Its little spirit free from day. To a pure home he passed away; Kind spirits will its home prepare, And for the little spirit care.

Where purest spirits joyful sing, Where flowers bloom in endless spring, Amidst those flowers of sweet perfume, That little bud will grow and bloom.
