A SMALL BLAZE.

The first visit of the "fire fiend" occurred here on Friday about noon, destroying two dwelling heatses for Peter Hanson, on Call street. The origin of the fire is unknown, but was first discovered in a vacant building, which was speedily consumed, from whence it spread to the adjoining building, occupied by D. J. Camble's family, burning it to ashes in a few minutes. Mr. Camble's household furniture, clothes, etc., were saved, with slight loss. For want of fuel the flames here died out, there being no more buildings in line-the wind keeping the flames and heat towards the south and thereby saving the block and possibly the town from destruction. was erected some time ago and is now | Fortunately the wind, as well as the in operation, owned by Sanguested & "water bucket company" bastily Co., which greatly aids business here, formed, prevented the further destruction of property. What we need is no question so important as the tariff more enterprising, energetic business upon which accurate information is so men. We have enough of those "Oh hard to obtain. The reason is obvious. It takes years of careful study to thoroughly understand it in all of its manifold details, and the number of members of the Fifty-first congress who so understood it might have been counted upon the fingers of one hand. The average member of congress simply follows his party leaders on the tariff, not having either time or the inclination to master the subject for himself, which makes it all the more necessary to have a source from which such information may be obtained free from partisan or personal bias. This question may appear dull and uninteresting to many people, but upon it depends the future prosperity of this country.

Secretary Foster has been wrestling with one aspect of the silver problem. There are $18,000,000 in silver half dollars in the treasury, which all efforts have so far failed to put into circulation. In two hundred national banks scattered all over the country the government has $24,000,000 deposited.

It is proposed to check upon this money from time to time, and to replace it with deposits of those silver half dollars until they have all been thus put into circulation. It was absolutely necessary for Secretary Foster to get the use of this money, as on the first of July he will have to pay about $30,000,000 for pensions, and the present available surplus in the treasury, aside from these silver half dollars, is only $12,000,000, and it is not expected the first of July.

ALICEL, Oregon, May 4, 1891. Rain badly needed.

James L. Woodell was in the city a few days ago.

There will be preaching at the sandridge church next Sunday by an old gentleman from West Virginia.

Prof. Hawley visits Alicel very frequently. Whether he is after his mail or that young widow, we don't know.

Sunday school at the sandridge church every Sunday morning. Thos. Gilliam, superintendent; John Mc-Cart, assistant.

We are all going to La Grande next Thursday evening to see grandfather's hat if the Dago Central will run an excursion and give us a pass.

Mr. Watts, of Nebraska, has located at Alicel. He is an experienced blacksmith and is prepared to do all kinds of blacksmithing in a workmanlike manner.

Prof. Rork gave a lecture at Alicel a few weeks ago, but failed to organize an alliance on account of people being too much interested in their work to participate in his meetings.

One more week and most all the that it will be materially increased by farmers will be through seeding. It seems that the farmers are behind MINERVA ANN.
