MURDER AT ELGIN.

Francis Le Borde Killed by Evan Carver.

THE RESULT OF A QUARREL.

The Murderer and the Wife of Le Borde Now in the County Jail.

On Wednesday evening of last week, about 6 o'clock, Evan Carver shot and killed Francis Le Borde, a resident of Elk Flat. The particulars of the case, as near as we are able to learn, are as follows: Carver had been stopping with Le Borde for some time and it is thought was somewhat intimate with his (Le Borde's) wife. On Wednesday morning Mrs. Le Borde took a wagon and went to Summerville after some provisions. While she was gone Le Borde and Carver became involved in a quarrel, whereupon Carver left and started toward Elgin. When near that place he met Mrs. Le Borde returning home and told her of his trouble with her husband. She took his part and told him to get in the wagon and she would go back to Elgin with him. In the meantime Le Borde had also started for Elgin, and just as they had got turned around and started towards town, came up and attempted to get in the wagon, whereupon Carver drew a revolver and shot Le Borde, the ball entering near the heart, but the shot did not seem fatal, so he fired again, hitting him in the leg. By this time Le Borde had reached Carver and tried to wrest the pistol from him, but could not do so on account of his weak condition, and received the third shot in the back of the neck, which proved fatal and he soon died. Carver and Mrs. Le Borde then put him in the wagon and proceeded towards home, but when they arrived at John Hill's, Carver informed him of what he had done and requested him to go for a doctor. Hill immediately went to Elgin and had a warrant sworn out for Carver's arrest and he was taken to Elgin, locked up and guarded. A warrant was also sworn out for the arrest of Mrs. Le Borde and she was placed under $1000 bonds, and the two were brought to this city last Thursday night and placed in the jail.

Carver is a young man about 20 years of age, and since his incarceration appears to be in good spirits. He has written a lengthy communication "to be published," but which amounts to nothing, further than he says he expects to get 99 years in the pen, or be hung.

Mrs. Le Borde has nothing to say and appears in a very bad condition, scarcely taking food. She has two little children and it appears has no relatives here to look after them.

It is indeed a sad state of affairs and it seems both are fit subjects for the gallows or penitentiary for life, but there is no telling what evidence may come out at the trial, as it seems no one saw the shooting and knows what transpired except Mrs. Le Borde, and it appears she takes Carver's part.

ANOTHER HOMICIDE.

Information was received here on Tuesday evening that a man had been killed near Hilgard, and for the sheriff or deputy to come immediately. It seems that two men, whose names we could not learn, working at a saw mill about five miles this side of Hilgard became involved in a quarrel Tuesday morning and one of them drew a knife and stabbed the other twice. The wounds proved fatal and the man died in about ten minutes. The murderer immediately got on his horse and rode off, and up to the time of going to press had not been captured. Sheriff Bolles has several men out looking for him, but he has about a day the start and it may be some time before he is captured, if at all.

We are almost daily in receipt of requests for sample copies of THE SCOUT and information concerning our city, which is evidence that outsiders are beginning to look towards Union. We will state for their benefit that there is an opening here for most any business they may wish to engage in. Come right along and grow up with the town. A large amount of improvements will be made here this season.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week at Bluff siding, near Wallula, a farmer picked up an insensible man with his skull crushed in. He was taken to Walla Walla and placed in the hospital. He recovered consciousness on the train, and stated that Tuesday evening he had been attacked by two rangers, beaten over the head with an iron bar, robbed of $20 and left for dead. He gave his name as James McMillis. He is not expected to live.

On Saturday last week, at Adams, a sad accident occurred, resulting in the death of a son of J. J. Dalloway, aged 12 years. While the first section of Saturday afternoon's freight train was coming in to the Adams depot the boy attempted to jump on to the rear car by grasping the iron ladder leading to the top. He missed his footing and fell between the cars which passed over his body, cutting one leg completely off. He was picked up by bystanders and carried to the home of his parents, where he soon expired.

One hundred and thirty car loads of strawberries were received in Chicago on Friday and Saturday—fifty-seven cars on Friday and seventy-three on Saturday. The estimated consumption of strawberries in Chicago is 20 cars or 10,000 crates a day. There are 21 boxes to the crate. This makes 1,960,000 boxes, or more than one box to each inhabitant. The boxes average 140 berries to the box, and, as figured out, 218,400,000 berries were landed in Chicago on the two days named. Strawberries are now cheap enough to burn. A crate only costs from 25 to 30 cents.—Inter-Ocean.

We are in receipt of a communication from North Powder, but the writer fails to sign his full name, hence we cannot publish it. In fact we could not publish it anyway, for the reason that the words are run together in such a manner that we are unable to decipher the true meaning of the sentences. We are always glad to receive articles and news items upon all subjects, but the writer's name must accompany the letter. It will not be published unless so desired. Write as plainly as possible, on one side of the paper only, giving plenty of space between words and lines.

MEMORIAL DAY.

How It Was Observed at Union.

SERVICES AT THE M. E. CHURCH.

Preston Post No. 18, G. A. R., in Line—An Excellent Address by Rev. J. P. Morris.

Memorial day was appropriately observed in this city last Saturday by Preston Post No. 18, G. A. R., assisted by the citizens and visitors from abroad, and the occasion will long be remembered.

An excellent programme was carried out and all seemed filled with the spirit of the day.

At 10 o'clock the Post marched from their hall to the M. E. church where a large number of people gathered. Flowers in profusion were brought and afterwards tenderly strewn upon the graves of the honored dead, for whom the day is memorial.

These bouquets of fragrant flowers, wreaths of red and white and blue, have been wrought by sturdy fingers in honor of the brave and true.

Some beautiful and appropriate new music had been prepared for the occasion by the choirs of the churches. At the church the following programme was carried out:

"Brave and Noble Sons" was first rendered as a voluntary, after which the audience joined in singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." A prayer was then offered by Rev. W. J. Hughes. "Shed a Tear" was sung by the choir and B. J. Johnson read a part of Psalm 33. Mrs. T. H. Cooper then sang "Faded Flowers," a beautiful song in which the choir joined in chorus. After a statement of the object of the meeting by the commander of the Post, "Noble Souls, the Boys in Blue" was sung by the choir. Mrs. J. P. Morris then read, in an impressive manner, a poem composed for the occasion. Mrs. M. M. Hall then sang "Teating Tonight." Rev. J. P. Morris was then introduced and delivered an excellent address, which was listened to with marked attention, and at times with many in tears. He spoke of the shrines of patriotism; of the sad, but sweet, duty we have to perform on this day, and that as loyal citizens of the great United States of America we pause, turn away from the cares and toils of business, and assemble to honor our brave and noble dead soldiers; that however great may have been the differences of the past, we may with a magnanimous and Godlike spirit forgive and overlook it all, and as true patriots seek the future welfare of our glorious united land; that while we are looking through the halls of memory upon the faces that are honored and dear, we are also wearing garlands for all the brave fallen soldiers of this great republic; that thirty years have passed since the terrible storm of war burst upon our beloved land; that the battle is a thing of the past, and peace and prosperity reigns; that patriotism should now fire all, and that we should rise above section or party. The speaker here gave a picture of peace under the glorious old flag, and after speaking upon the G. A. R. and giving a tribute to the women who helped and suffered in the great conflict, he closed with a poem written by himself for the occasion.

The procession was again formed and marched to the cemetery where the usual ceremony was performed by the G. A. R. and the graves decorated.

J. N. SANDERS, A. A. pro tem.

Lines dedicated to Wallace and Della, in memory of their loved one: Weep not, parents, for your loved one; You, ere long, will meet again—Meet where Death can never sever Links from out the golden chain.

Parents, you have lost a treasure Worthy of the tenderest love, She has passed Death's gloomy portal And her soul has soared above.

The little family circle's broken, One dear link dropped out and gone, But she left a precious token Of the love that was your own.

Eyes are closed that were so lovely, Hands are folded and at rest; All her suffering now is over; She sweetly sleeps on Jesus' breast.

Days seem dark since she has left you, And your hearts are sad and sore; But your loved one stands, to greet you, Just inside of Heaven's door.

Though the golden chain be broken, And your hearts be grieved and sore, God can gather up the lost links And join them in just as before.

And there'll be a sweet reunion With the loved ones gone before, Safely anchored now in Heaven Where Death and parting come no more.

Death seems cruel when it severs Loved ones from our fond embrace—Through Earth's glasses we see but darkly, But in Heaven face to face.

An Expression of Confidence.

Geo. P. Rowell & Co., of New York, the publishers of the American Newspaper Directory, undertake to rate newspaper circulations very much as the mercantile agencies report the capital and credit of the business community. About one publisher in ten tells his exact issue with ruthless precision. Some of the other nine decline to tell the facts because they assert that those who do tell are in the habit of lying. Rowell & Co., after an experience of more than twenty years, have come to the conclusion that this view cannot be sustained. In the twenty-third annual issue of their book, issued in April, they designate every paper that is rated in accordance with a detailed statement from the publisher; and offer to pay a hundred dollars for every instance which can be pointed out of a misstatement for which a publisher is responsible. But through THE SCOUT is one of the papers that is willing to have it known how many it prints and whose good faith the Directory will guarantee.
