J. H. C.

If you will allow me space, I will give you a few items from the range. I came out from Missouri last spring and have been camping out on the range of Lookout mountain all summer for the benefit of my health, and with the advantages of the bracing mountain air and the purest and coldest water that the world affords, I feel my health very much improved, and I believe many people who are in delicate health and confined in close, warm rooms would find much more relief out in the mountains during the sunshine months than they do in

I have fallen in love with the mountain country and think it far ahead of Missouri for many different enterprises. The range is fine on the Powder river and Burnt river slopes, and the many herds of cattle, horses and sheep are in fine condition, and I believe this will be a fine stock range for many years to come. I have been camping with Mr. Ren Longley's sheep herder part of the time, and as it does not seem customary to ask names among rangers in this country, I will just call him Bob, as the other boys call him. Anyway Bob is a jolly, good fellow and I have become very much attached to him, as he has taken so much interest in making me teel in comfort around camp. I have not only appreciated his company this summer, but his frying pan, bread and wild meats from the mountains which he is so handy in preparing for table use, and various kinds of as fine vegetables as soil could produce, from Mr. Frazier's garden in Eagle valley. Mr. Fred Frazer has been tending camp for us this summer. Fred always gets around about the right time and Bob and I always furnish him a warm reception when he comes with Peggy the pack mule. Mr. Oscar Smith, a young gentleman from Coos county, has been our guest part of the time. Oscar is a pleasant fellow and we have passed many jokes this summer. I think if I could stay with Bob another month might make a very good sheperd. I am informed that herding sheep is looked upon as a low occupation in this country. Will some one tell me why, as I may herd awhile myself should my health continue to improve. I cannot see any disgrace in herding, and do not think any kind of labor disgraceful. In fact I think there is more true life in labor than anything else, and I believe the honest laborers are an honor to those who stand back. depending on the working man or waiting for some good luck to turn up. A man with a few thousand sheep trusted to his care I think holds a very honorable position, and if all the herders are like Bob, I cannot find any fault with them. Messre. Longley and Frazier have the finest band of mutton sheep that I have seen, and any one wishing to purchase might do well to see them. as they are for sale. THE OREGON SCOUT has been a welcome visitor to me during my lonely hours, and wishing much success to it, will soon bring my letter to a close. I must say that I have enjoyed the summer splendidly and this camp life is western life indeed that we tend feet in Missouri are so often interested in reading about, and I will probably make Oregon my home.

Can Chinese visit the World's Fair at Chicago? is a warm weather problem that officials of the treasury department have been wrestling with. China was, of course, invited to take part in the exposition, as was every other nation with which we hold diplomatic relations, and now the inquiry has been made of the treasury department whether citizens of China who may desire to visit the World's day, on the farm, garden or grounds. Fair are to be allowed to land in the face of the positive prohibition of it contained in the anti-China law. Acting Secretary Nettleton, after giving considerable thought to the subject, has referred it to the attorneygeneral, preferring to have an official opinion as to what solution he should make of the problem. One thing is clealy apparent, we cannot expect the government of China to take official part in the exposition if we refuse to allow its citizens to visit it at their pleasure. The Chinese government has not replied to the invitation of the United States, further than to send a formal notification that it has been received, and it may be that its agents have instigated this inquiry, so that it may know before accepting or declining what treatment its citizens are to expect from us.
