Of the Five Highest Graduates at West Point the South Has Four.

Out of 250,000,000 people in all India less than 11,000,000 can read and write.

The receipts at Chautauqua this season were 25 per cent. above those of last year.

A high school is to be established at Cassadaga Lake, N. Y., in connection with Spiritualistic views of education.

The gain in school enrollment in New Mexico in 1890 is 283 per cent., while the gain in population is only 28 per cent.

Throughout France gardening is practically taught in the primary and elementary schools. There are about 28,000 of these schools.

About 1,400 members of Cambridge University, England, have signed resolutions protesting against the admission of women to the university.

The University of the City of New York has just added a school of the science of education to itself, and hereafter will confer the degrees of Master and Doctor of Pedagogy.

The school census of Louisiana shows that out of a total school population of 370,226 only 85,000 children attend the public schools, and many of these attend two months in the year.

The University of Upsala in Sweden during the present term has an attendance of 1,658. Of these 254 are in the theological department, 740 in the philosophical, 443 in the law and 221 in the medical.

Of the five highest graduates at West Point four come from Southern States, counting Maryland as of the South, and the fifth is from Pennsylvania. Charles D. Hines, who stands the highest in tactics, is also from the South, being a Virginian.

Eight institutions have each an enrollment of over 1,000 students, and seven report from 500 to 1,000. Nor is it the old colleges in the East alone which draw their pupils by the hundreds, but Harvard's 2,271 students and Yale's 1,645 are paralleled by Ann Arbor's 2,153 and Oberlin's 1,709.

The head mistress of the high school for girls in Birmingham, England, suggests that parents who are anxious as to the career and future of their daughters should train them to be teachers of cookery. She finds from the Liverpool cooking school that there is a constant demand for qualified teachers, and that more applications were received than could be satisfied. The remuneration varies from $7.50 to $15 a week—excellent wages for England.

A plan for furnishing a technical education to the boys who have to work is to be put into operation by the trustees of Bell-street chapel, Providence, the free-thought institute which James Eddy's money founded. The scheme is after that in use in England, the science classes, which are carried on under the direction of the government and the guilds in London, and which are doing a large work in providing proper technical education. James Tribe, mechanical engineer, graduate of the science classes and of Central Institute, will be instructor, and there will be a committee to overlook the work, consisting of Isaac Whitehead, Robert Grieve, J. Rowland George Whitehead. The first course will open Tuesday, October 2, students being required to pay only $5 for fifty-two lessons.

Rioting Chinese Destroy the American Mission at Yehang.

An additional proclamation, signed by President Harrison and Assistant Secretary of State Wharton, has been issued in regard to the timber reserve in Yellowstone Park. The boundaries are the same as described in the first proclamation. It concludes with a warning to all persons not to enter or to make settlement in the section reserved for Yellowstone Park.

The Department of State has received a telegraphic dispatch from the Minister at Peking, reporting a riot at Yehang, on the Yang-tse-Kiang river, in the province of Hoopoo, and that the establishment of the American missionaries there has been destroyed. No further particulars are given. Yehang is about 200 miles above Hankow, which is about as far up the river as vessels of war can go.

The Board of Managers of the National Home for disabled volunteer soldiers has concluded its quarterly meeting in Washington. At the last meeting a provision was made for the creation of medical boards at each branch to examine the inmates and ascertain what proportion of them were able to maintain themselves and not disabled. These reports are now under consideration. The board at the California branch reports there is not a single inmate who could be properly excluded. In the Central branch the board found thirty-three inmates who should be excluded, because they have a sufficient income to maintain themselves, and seventeen because they were physically able. The Milwaukee branch has not reported. The board has not yet determined upon a line of policy to be pursued in these cases. It is then to have two vessels from the local army to take care of themselves in order to afford room for deserving veterans, but so many considerations arise that it is not practical to apply the general rule.

The announcement of naval changes will increase the squadrons in the Pacific. Secretary Tracy has decided to send the Yorktown around the Horn for a permanent station in the Pacific and the Petrel from Rear-Admiral Gherardi's squadron through the Suez canal to the Asiatic station. He has also detached the Enterprise from Admiral Gherardi's squadron for service at the Naval Academy to take the place of the Wyoming as a training ship for cadets. The officers and men on the Enterprise are to be detached and distributed between the Yorktown and Petrel before their departure for their new stations. Admiral Gherardi is then to have two vessels from acting Rear-Admiral Walker's squadron, which with the Philadelphia and Keatsarge will give him four good ships. Another vessel, probably the Newark, is to be detached from Walker's quota and ordered as a flag ship for the South Atlantic station. Rear-Admiral Benham has been directed to hold himself in readiness to command that station. The Bennington is to be added to Walker's squadron. He will then have five vessels to Gherardi's four, and with these it is the purpose of the secretary to have the evolutionary exercises continued throughout the winter and spring.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Countess of Calthness is the exact Antithesis of Mme. Blavatsky.

Austin Dobson thinks of coming to the United States in the autumn to give readings from his own works.

The King of Italy takes great interest in raising camels when he is not occupied in trying to raise the wind at any rate of interest.

Judge H. K. Douglass, who was a Major on the staff of General Stonewall Jackson, will be one of the speakers at the New Hampshire soldiers' reunion at The Weirs.

Oscar Wilde frankly entitles his newest book a study of "Christianity from the Outside." Some who consider themselves in it could give only a real view of the subject.

Mr. Ruskin thinks the English people ought to love the apple tree, "not for its fruit, but for its flower"—a sentiment with which the parents of the American small boy will fully sympathize.

The oldest jockey on the turf and still one of the best of them is William Hayward, who rode Preakness in the famous dead-heat race for the Saratoga cup in 1875. He lives at Easton town, N. J.

It is always a pleasure to know that a King is of some practical use. King Humbert is a cook of no mean order, and can boil a potato or broil a steak in a way that would make a dyspeptic feel hungry.

Gray hairs continue to crowd about the temple of Will S. Hays, editor, poet and song writer, but his ebony mustache is resplendent with youth and vigor. He writes better than Joe Howard of New York, and tells more truth.

George Haven Putnam, the New York publisher, has received from the French government the cross of the Legion of Honor, conferred upon him for his services in helping to secure the passage of the international copyright law.

The late Empress Augusta of Germany was very rigid in her opposition to being photographed. There is, however, a picture to be seen in the shops of Berlin representing a group of the royal family, with the Empress Augusta seated on the left, holding a book up so as to hide from view her imperial features.

The Countess of Calthness, the new high priestess of theosophy, is the exact antithesis of her predecessor, Mme. Blavatsky. Her figure is slender, her manners elegant and her tastes refined. She dresses in great taste. Her only resemblance to Blavatsky lies in her fondness for diamonds, but that is a pardonable womanly weakness.

Ex-Judge John Erskine, who retired from the Federal bench about five years ago, is ranked as one of the greatest jurists in the South, and when he retired the bar of Georgia gave him a great ovation. He was appointed by Andrew Johnson. He lives most of the time now with his daughter, Mrs. Ward of New York, and spends a few months each year in Savannah.

Emmet Logan of the Cincinnati Times is your genuine six-foot Kentuckian, is kindly in his face and manner, is a deadly enemy of the "hard-boiled hat," and divides his time between two-edged paragraphs and editing his double-leaved grape-primer Warren-county corn patch. He affects store clothes, pump and pie in town, but is not haughty as to mush and molasses on the plantation.

There is a curious painting in England of Marie Antoinette, taken in Vienna when she was a happy maiden of fourteen summers. It represents the young Archduchess merrily laughing, with her slender finger pointing in a mocking way to her neck, around which is encircled a red ribbon, resembling curiously a line of blood. The innocent but prophetic gesture gives a thrilling and tragic character to the portrait.

Benjamin Folsom, Mrs. Cleveland's cousin, who was appointed United States Consul at Sheffield under the last administration, has been ill for several months. He came home last spring to visit his mother, who is dying of consumption in California, and was himself attacked with pneumonia. Having improved somewhat, he returned to England, but suffered a relapse, from which at last he is now reported as slowly recovering.

The President's salary is paid to him in monthly installments of $1,166.67. The warrant is brought to the White House by a special messenger of the Treasury Department, and after the President has indorsed it as he would an ordinary draft his private secretary deposits it at the Columbia Bank. When the President is out of town the draft is mailed to him. The same method is pursued in paying the Justices of the Supreme Court.

At Allegheny, Pa., George Ott, aged 22, fatally stabbed his brother John, aged 19, with a penknife, driving the weapon into his left lung near the heart, the result of a quarrel.

Burglars broke open the safe of the Sloan State Bank at Sioux City, Ia., and secured nearly $5,000. The Correctionville postoffice was burglarized by the same gang and $150 worth of stamps taken. The burglars stole horses, and escaped.

At Haverhill, Mass., two masked men forced their way into the house of Mrs. Atkins, and demanded her money. She handed them $452, but, presenting a revolver, they tore open her dress and seized a bag containing $800 in money and $400 in notes. Both escaped.

Charles R. Ege and E. L. Maguire, formerly individual ledger clerks at the Keystone Bank, Philadelphia, have been arrested and charged with making false entries in the ledgers and making such statements as would tend to deceive the bank examiners.

Louis Bulling, the St. Joseph (Mo.) wife murderer, was hanged at Savannah, Mo. Bulling had obtained a pistol just before the execution from the minister and shot himself twice. The wounds were not mortal, and he was taken blaspheming and screaming for mercy to the scaffold, held up by deputies long enough for the rope to be fixed and then dropped through the trap. His neck was broken.

A detachment of Cossacks, ordered to quell the disturbance, was received with a shower of stones. The Cossacks then fired a volley, killing several persons and wounding many more.

PORTLAND MARKET.

A Resume of the Condition of Its Different Departments.

With the fruit dealers the amount of business done was much in excess of the first part of the week. The glutted condition of the market is for the present over with. Watermelons drag heavily. The quantity of peaches in the market is very small, and prices are correspondingly stiff. Grapes are in over supply, are hard to dispose of. Pears and plums are plentiful, and meet with only fair sale. Vegetable market is well supplied with every variety, especially potatoes and cabbage, the latter being a drug in the market. The amount of oats on hand is larger than at any previous time, and a decline is anticipated. No change is noted in the market for dairy produce. Eggs are higher. Butter is a little easier, receipts of Oregon being on the increase. In other lines of wholesale trade there is no particular change as regards the amount of business done. Quotations on staple articles remain the same, and no change is likely to take place until the regular fall business commences.

WHEAT.

Trading is very quiet, and there is little change to be noted in the general condition of the local market. The export demand is good, but holders ask prices that are away above an export basis and business is consequently checked. Foreign markets are dull, but not notably any lower.
