

Here Will the Press the People's Rights Maintain.

VOL VIII.

UNION, OREGON, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1891.

NO. 22.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

J. W. SHELTON, J. M. CARROLL,
SHELTON & CARROLL,
Attorneys at Law,
UNION, OREGON.

Special attention given to all business entrusted to us.
Office two doors south of bank.

R. EAKIN,
Attorney at Law,
UNION, OREGON.

Prompt attention paid to all business entrusted to us.
Office two doors south of hardware store of Summers & Layne.

I. N. CROMWELL, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
UNION, OREGON.

All calls promptly attended to day or night.
Office with R. Eakin, Residence on A street, fourth house west of Wright's store.

E. BROOKS, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
ISLAND CITY, OREGON.

Prompt attention given to all professional calls, day or night.

T. McNAUGHTON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
ELGIN, OREGON.

All calls promptly attended to, day or night.

W. H. EWING, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
COVE, OREGON.

All calls attended to, day or night.

MRS. A. M. PELHAM, M. D.

Homoeopathic Physician,
Diseases of Children a Specialty.
Office at the Elm residence, North Union.

City Meat Market,
UNION, OREGON.

BENSON BROS. PROPRIETORS.

Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton, Hams
Lard, Etc.,
Kept constantly on hand.

Cornucopia Saloon,
UNION, OREGON.

WILLIAM WILSON, PROPRIETOR.

Finest of Wines, Liquors and Cigars Kept in Stock.
Liquors for medicinal purposes a specialty.
Good billiard table. Drop in and be sociable.

LUMBER for SALE
at the High Valley.

SAW MILL.
All kinds of lumber constantly on hand or furnished on short notice. Prices cheap as the cheapest.

Patronage - Solicited.

5-30-11 WM. WILKINSON & SON.

UNION CITY HOTEL,

L. J. BOOTH, Propr.

Opposite the Court House, Union, Oregon.

Having again assumed control of this popular house, I cordially invite the public to give me a call.

Tables Furnished with the Best the Market Affords.

First-class Lodging. Everything nicely and neatly fitted up.

Meals, 25 Cents.
Beds, 25 Cents.
None but white cooks employed. 4-16-11.

A WEAK MAN

Can now cure himself of the deplorable results of Early Abuse and Perfe cty Restore his Vigor and Vitality by our Home Treatment. The Remarkable Cures of hopeless cases of Nervous Debility and Private Complaints are stamping out quackery everywhere. Treaties and Question List, a physician's gift to humanity, will be Sent Free to those afflicted. Address with stamp PIONEER INSTITUTE, 405 Kearney St. Room 2 San Francisco, Cal. 5-7-11.

ASCENSION SCHOOL!

A Boarding and Day School for Girls, Cove, Union County, Oregon.
The Rev. R. W. WEAVER, M. D., D. D., Rector and Visitor.
Miss B. J. BOOCKS, Principal.
Mrs. ARTHUR BOOCKY, Assistant.
The next Session of this School Opens September 16, 1891.
For terms of admission apply to Miss Boocky, Cove.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Hall Bros., Union, Or.

Have just received a large supply of

School Books,
Copy Books,
Slates, Tablets,
Inks, Erasers.

And in fact everything used in the public schools of this county.
Call early and make your selections, or send in your orders. 10-11-11

H. H. BROWN,

Dealer in—

Drugs and Medicines

TOILET ARTICLES,
PERFUMERY, PAINTS,
OILS, GLASS, PUTTY, Etc.

A complete and varied stock of wall paper always on hand.

A full supply of school books constantly on hand.

DRIVER & MARTIN,

Gen'l Blacksmithing

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

Care and attention paid to Shoeing Trotting Horses, Interfering and Contracted Feet a Specialty.

Plow work, Laying of Cylinder Teeth, Balancing, etc., given special care. Shop Main St., Union, Oregon. 5-7-11.

The Cove Drug Store

JASPER G. STEVENS, Propr.

—DEALER IN—

PURE DRUGS,

Patent Medicines,
Perfumery, Paints and Oils.

Prescriptions Carefully Prepared.

—ALSO DEALER IN—

SPORTING GOODS,

Consisting of Rifles, Shotguns, Pistols and Cartridges.

Imported and Domestic Cigars, School Books, Etc.

OPENED - ANEW!

THE ELKHORN

Livery and Feed Stable.

(Near the Court House.)

Hulick & Wright, Proprietors.

Good Teams, Buggies and Hacks for the accommodation of customers.

CHARGES REASONABLE.
A share of the public patronage solicited. 6-4-11.

Do You Want to

SAVE FROM 25 TO 50 CENTS

On Every Dollar You Spend?

If so, write for our Illustrated Catalogue, containing illustrations and prices of everything manufactured in the United States, at manufacturers' prices. 10,000 illustrations, all lines represented. Catalogue mailed free on application. Address,

CHICAGO GENERAL SUPPLY CO., 178 West Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill. 4-23-11

For Sale.

100 acres in Cove, consisting of 100 acres. All under fence, small orchard, nice stone house, small barn, out buildings and one wood working establishment run by water power. Inquire of E. H. Harrington, Cove, Or. 9-16-11.

TO THE GOLDEN LAND.

(Written for THE SCOUT.)

The news went swift as an eagle's flight straight to the mountain and gorge and plain. Over heights of snow and in floods of rain. With never a pause by day or night. Like a wild bird fired with a sudden flight. Or a prairie fire when the grass is white. And dry with long, long weeks of sun. Each throat burst forth with a manifold wild strain of the wondrous tale of gold. At noon—at night—when the day was done. The furrowed foreheads throbbed and beat. The old forms burned in a fever heat. A rush, a rattle, a tramp of feet. Told tales of going with speed and haste. O'er sea and mountain and desert waste. To the Wondrous, Fabulous Land of gold. Where the river has kept, for years untold. Hid in the glittering sand of her breast. The treasure and gem of the infant West. Down by the Sacramento!

What does the night owl say to her mate As she looks from their desolate home at night On a pile of bones all blanched and white That a hungry coyote gnawed of late? The bleaching bones of the desert tell How many a hero fought and fell And died alone in that savage land Where owls like desolate vigils stand! What does the sea of the tropic say As it drowns in Garfield's bed of foam? And sings in its old accustomed way. With never a break in its monotonous. It says to the years that the heated breath Of the tropic climate brought woe and death And sealed the doom of the gallant band That sailed in joy to the golden land! 'Tis a woe-laden tale, and the years entomb The pain and peril and death and gloom That followed the path of the gallant band That went in search of the golden land Down by the Sacramento!

—BERTRAM WILSON HUFFMAN.

FROM ANTELOPE.

ANTELOPE, November 14, 1891.

Mrs. Wm. Cates is visiting relatives in Vancouver.

There is a force of men employed at Telocaset now preparing snow fences for winter.

Why not have a starch factory in Union, as well as a woolen mill? Then we will all raise potatoes.

Wheat sold in Garfield, over in the Palouse, on Nov. 11th for 81 cents a bushel. Quite a contrast between the prices there and in Union county.

The farmers' alliance was nowhere in the late elections. In Kansas it was snowed completely under. Ten out of eleven alliance candidates for district judges in the state were defeated. The republicans carried 85 out of the 110 counties in the state by overwhelming majorities. As a business organization it would become a power in the land, but as a political party—Never!

The Fraziers have over five miles of rail fencing around their Antelope land. The boys, with Charles Hinckley, started a regulation shaft on the ore body in The Belle of Antelope quartz prospect last week and sunk it down in hard blasting quartz eight feet. They have the foot wall, composed of porphyry and lime, but no hanging wall as yet. They came up out of the shaft and ran a surface cut twelve feet east of the foot wall, all in hard, solid quartz, and still no hanging wall. The boys will put a shaft house over it and sink off and on all winter.

Glancing over the enormous docket for the coming term of court in last week's county papers brought to my recollection the changes that time and prosperity make in a people. The bulk of names on the docket are old timers who in years gone by never thought of settling their grievances in the courts, but left them to arbitration. In those days there were only two lawyers in Union county, the Hon. James H. Slater and Cage Baker, and they would have starved to death if they had not gone to farming. Now look at the lawyers; they are thicker than flies in summer under a molasses hoghead, and all making money off of the people. I can't account for it in any other way than that the same men who a few years ago would not law, have now become purse-proud and arrogant. Some of them act like little children, with new playthings, with their law suits. If a man's hog nowadays crawls under the fence into his neighbor's field, ninety-nine chances in a hundred the neighbor rushes off to town and sues for damages, to the great delight and satisfaction of the lawyers. However, there is one satisfaction about it to sensible people: These chronic litigants of Union county generally have to pay high for their playthings.

Thanksgiving is at hand—the season of family reunions—but one of our Antelope families has anticipated the happy day. Mrs. John Cates, after an absence of more than a year visiting friends and relatives in Missouri, returned home last week with her two children, in good health and spirits. You may be sure that day was the date of John's Thanksgiving, let the president and governor appoint what day they may. On Friday evening all Antelope, nearly, turned out to welcome her back. A few got left, owing to the time being changed from Saturday to Friday evening. The house was crammed with her friends and dancing and merriment was kept up till dewy morning. It was the party of the season and will long be remembered for its hearty good fellowship. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thompson, Mrs. Mary Tomblison, Mrs. Cromwell, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Prosscott, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cates, Mr. and Mrs. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Huey Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. John Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leavitt, Mr. and Mrs. McKeever, the Misses Bernice Washburn, Bettie Lee, Etta Huffman, Jennie Connelly, and numerous others whose names I did not learn. I can't attempt to write up the toilets. One young lady informed me that hers was Irish poplin, with flounces, furbelows, outriggers, down-hulls, back-stays, etc., etc., and she said too, as she whirled round for my inspection, "it is cut bias." If anybody knows what cut bias means they know more than I. However, cut bias or cut any way you like, the gown was beautiful, and so was the wearer, and the party a grand success. Mr. and Mrs. Cates were indefatigable in their efforts to entertain their guests, and all left wishing them a long life of health, peace and prosperity, in which wish your correspondent most sincerely joins.

H.

WASHINGTON.

Our Weekly Letter From the National Capital.

OPINIONS OF THE RESULT.

The Speakership Contest Growing Warm
—McKinley and Boies for President.

EDITOR OREGON SCOUT:—

Everything else is secondary in importance to the state elections, in Washington, this week. Wherever you go nothing else is talked about and to hear some of the talk one would imagine that the presidential campaign had already opened. One most remarkable thing about the results are that, as a whole, everybody looks upon them as encouraging to "our side." President Harrison regards the election of McKinley as a great administration victory, and says if Fasset had made his fight upon national instead of local issues that he believes he would have been elected; the democrats regard the election of democratic governors in New York, Massachusetts and Iowa as a great triumph and the certain precursor of a greater triumph next year, while President Polk and Secretary Macune, of the National Farmer's Alliance, regard the whole business as an Alliance triumph. Says Mr. Macune: "The outcome in Ohio is a victory for us, and it will teach the democrats that they cannot get along without us. They have been so accustomed to carry everything before them, in some of these states, that they have ignored us, and now they see the consequences." Col. Polk said: "The result has no bearing whatever upon the Alliance movement and will not affect it in the least. One thing alone is absolutely certain—the Alliance will stand for its demands, and will keep up an aggressive fight until they are complied with." So much for the opinions of the big guns in all the parties. Now, between us, your correspondent, after a careful survey of the field, fails to see where anybody has any right to do any extraordinary amount of hurrahing over the results, as applied to national politics. It amounts simply to what the boys used to call a "stand off," and the fight next year is just as uncertain as it was before the elections. Secretary Proctor has gone east, and it is said at the war department that he has practically retired, having turned everything over to Assistant Secretary Grant, and that he will probably not return to the department until he comes to turn it over to his successor, whose appointment is not looked for several weeks, although it is certain that the man has been selected and that he has accepted, but his name is still a well-kept secret. Elkin continues a favorite with the guessers. Representative Mills is the first one of the speakership candidates to "shy his castor into the ring" by formally opening headquarters for the short and sharp campaign which is now opening and which will end when the democratic caucus of the House of Representatives shall decide who shall be speaker for the next two years. The friends of Mr. Mills recognize that the result of the elections, particularly in Ohio, has been to weaken the prestige of their man, although they boldly argue to the contrary. The new members will begin dropping in soon to take their shares in the excitement of nominating the man who will practically control the legislation of the next House of Representatives, thereby becoming a powerful factor in the presidential campaign of next year, and as the most of them are as yet unpledged their arrival is most anxiously awaited by the several candidates and their friends. The feeling between the supporters of Mills and those of Crisp is becoming more bitter every day, and if something is not done by somebody to put a stop to their wrangling neither of them will be speaker. The less prominent candidates do not object to this throat-cutting, as it adds materially to their chances of securing the prize. There are no new developments in the Chilian difficulty, but it is noticeable as an indication of peaceable outlook in the minds of the Chilian minister to this country that he has gone

MEDICAL SPRINGS

News Notes From the Celebrated Health Resort.

DUNHAM ON FREE COINAGE.

Visitors From Ohio—Antics of the Moon—Brief Personal Mention—Cold Weather.

MEDICAL SPRINGS, November 16, 1891.

Last night, the coldest of the season, the thermometer fell to 10 above zero.

Dr. O'Connor and family, of Pine valley, paid the springs a visit this week.

W. D. Emele is now delivering several hundred bushels of wheat which he sold to Baker City wheat buyers.

Prof. Allen and wife, of Elgin, spent several days at the springs this week. The professor has been engaged to teach a school in Pine valley this winter.

Jessie O'Bryant, who has been treating a bad case of rheumatism at the springs for the last three weeks, returned to his home, at North Powder, almost as good as new.

Did you see the eclipse of the moon last night? The old man that stays there seemed to be heavily veiled and in deep mourning. Guess he is sympathizing with the g. o. p. in the recent elections.

C. C. Fisher, who has been driving on the Union and Cornucopia stage line, steady, for about one year, has turned over the ribbons to Wm. D. Parker, his successor. Lum was a careful, trusty driver, and performed his duty well.

Dunham Wright was heard to say since the recent elections, notwithstanding he thinks he has a tin mine and McKinley in the lead, that he would support no men for office, from constable to president, who were not in favor of free coinage of silver.

E. W. Enos, a canvassing agent for the new paper called the Dispatch, was soliciting subscriptions among us this week and made almost a clean sweep. Everybody reads the Dispatch and Mr. Enos is happy, and is on his road rejoicing.

Mr. John Fenton and wife, of Ohio, are here on a visit with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowman. Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Bowman are sisters. It is their first meeting in many years. Mr. Fenton came here an invalid, and while visiting he never forgot to take his regular hot bath at the springs. He leaves us much improved in health and favorably impressed with the country.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

THE BEST SALVE IN THE WORLD for Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale at Brown's drug store, Union, Oregon.

WASHINGTON.

Our Weekly Letter From the National Capital.

OPINIONS OF THE RESULT.

The Speakership Contest Growing Warm
—McKinley and Boies for President.

EDITOR OREGON SCOUT:—

Everything else is secondary in importance to the state elections, in Washington, this week. Wherever you go nothing else is talked about and to hear some of the talk one would imagine that the presidential campaign had already opened. One most remarkable thing about the results are that, as a whole, everybody looks upon them as encouraging to "our side." President Harrison regards the election of McKinley as a great administration victory, and says if Fasset had made his fight upon national instead of local issues that he believes he would have been elected; the democrats regard the election of democratic governors in New York, Massachusetts and Iowa as a great triumph and the certain precursor of a greater triumph next year, while President Polk and Secretary Macune, of the National Farmer's Alliance, regard the whole business as an Alliance triumph. Says Mr. Macune: "The outcome in Ohio is a victory for us, and it will teach the democrats that they cannot get along without us. They have been so accustomed to carry everything before them, in some of these states, that they have ignored us, and now they see the consequences." Col. Polk said: "The result has no bearing whatever upon the Alliance movement and will not affect it in the least. One thing alone is absolutely certain—the Alliance will stand for its demands, and will keep up an aggressive fight until they are complied with." So much for the opinions of the big guns in all the parties. Now, between us, your correspondent, after a careful survey of the field, fails to see where anybody has any right to do any extraordinary amount of hurrahing over the results, as applied to national politics. It amounts simply to what the boys used to call a "stand off," and the fight next year is just as uncertain as it was before the elections. Secretary Proctor has gone east, and it is said at the war department that he has practically retired, having turned everything over to Assistant Secretary Grant, and that he will probably not return to the department until he comes to turn it over to his successor, whose appointment is not looked for several weeks, although it is certain that the man has been selected and that he has accepted, but his name is still a well-kept secret. Elkin continues a favorite with the guessers. Representative Mills is the first one of the speakership candidates to "shy his castor into the ring" by formally opening headquarters for the short and sharp campaign which is now opening and which will end when the democratic caucus of the House of Representatives shall decide who shall be speaker for the next two years. The friends of Mr. Mills recognize that the result of the elections, particularly in Ohio, has been to weaken the prestige of their man, although they boldly argue to the contrary. The new members will begin dropping in soon to take their shares in the excitement of nominating the man who will practically control the legislation of the next House of Representatives, thereby becoming a powerful factor in the presidential campaign of next year, and as the most of them are as yet unpledged their arrival is most anxiously awaited by the several candidates and their friends. The feeling between the supporters of Mills and those of Crisp is becoming more bitter every day, and if something is not done by somebody to put a stop to their wrangling neither of them will be speaker. The less prominent candidates do not object to this throat-cutting, as it adds materially to their chances of securing the prize. There are no new developments in the Chilian difficulty, but it is noticeable as an indication of peaceable outlook in the minds of the Chilian minister to this country that he has gone

MEDICAL SPRINGS

News Notes From the Celebrated Health Resort.

DUNHAM ON FREE COINAGE.

Visitors From Ohio—Antics of the Moon—Brief Personal Mention—Cold Weather.

MEDICAL SPRINGS, November 16, 1891.

Last night, the coldest of the season, the thermometer fell to 10 above zero.

Dr. O'Connor and family, of Pine valley, paid the springs a visit this week.

W. D. Emele is now delivering several hundred bushels of wheat which he sold to Baker City wheat buyers.

Prof. Allen and wife, of Elgin, spent several days at the springs this week. The professor has been engaged to teach a school in Pine valley this winter.

Jessie O'Bryant, who has been treating a bad case of rheumatism at the springs for the last three weeks, returned to his home, at North Powder, almost as good as new.

Did you see the eclipse of the moon last night? The old man that stays there seemed to be heavily veiled and in deep mourning. Guess he is sympathizing with the g. o. p. in the recent elections.

C. C. Fisher, who has been driving on the Union and Cornucopia stage line, steady, for about one year, has turned over the ribbons to Wm. D. Parker, his successor. Lum was a careful, trusty driver, and performed his duty well.

Dunham Wright was heard to say since the recent elections, notwithstanding he thinks he has a tin mine and McKinley in the lead, that he would support no men for office, from constable to president, who were not in favor of free coinage of silver.

E. W. Enos, a canvassing agent for the new paper called the Dispatch, was soliciting subscriptions among us this week and made almost a clean sweep. Everybody reads the Dispatch and Mr. Enos is happy, and is on his road rejoicing.

Mr. John Fenton and wife, of Ohio, are here on a visit with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowman. Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Bowman are sisters. It is their first meeting in many years. Mr. Fenton came here an invalid, and while visiting he never forgot to take his regular hot bath at the springs. He leaves us much improved in health and favorably impressed with the country.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

THE BEST SALVE IN THE WORLD for Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale at Brown's drug store, Union, Oregon.

WASHINGTON.

Our Weekly Letter From the National Capital.

OPINIONS OF THE RESULT.

The Speakership Contest Growing Warm
—McKinley and Boies for President.

EDITOR OREGON SCOUT:—

Everything else is secondary in importance to the state elections, in Washington, this week. Wherever you go nothing else is talked about and to hear some of the talk one would imagine that the presidential campaign had already opened. One most remarkable thing about the results are that, as a whole, everybody looks upon them as encouraging to "our side." President Harrison regards the election of McKinley as a great administration victory, and says if Fasset had made his fight upon national instead of local issues that he believes he would have been elected; the democrats regard the election of democratic governors in New York, Massachusetts and Iowa as a great triumph and the certain precursor of a greater triumph next year, while President Polk and Secretary Macune, of the National Farmer's Alliance, regard the whole business as an Alliance triumph. Says Mr. Macune: "The outcome in Ohio is a victory for us, and it will teach the democrats that they cannot get along without us. They have been so accustomed to carry everything before them, in some of these states, that they have ignored us, and now they see the consequences." Col. Polk said: "The result has no bearing whatever upon the Alliance movement and will not affect it in the least. One thing alone is absolutely certain—the Alliance will stand for its demands, and will keep up an aggressive fight until they are complied with." So much for the opinions of the big guns in all the parties. Now, between us, your correspondent, after a careful survey of the field, fails to see where anybody has any right to do any extraordinary amount of hurrahing over the results, as applied to national politics. It amounts simply to what the boys used to call a "stand off," and the fight next year is just as uncertain as it was before the elections. Secretary Proctor has gone east, and it is said at the war department that he has practically retired, having turned everything over to Assistant Secretary Grant, and that he will probably not return to the department until he comes to turn it over to his successor, whose appointment is not looked for several weeks, although it is certain that the man has been selected and that he has accepted, but his name is still a well-kept secret. Elkin continues a favorite with the guessers. Representative Mills is the first one of the speakership candidates to "shy his castor into the ring" by formally opening headquarters for the short and sharp campaign which is now opening and which will end when the democratic caucus of the House of Representatives shall decide who shall be speaker for the next two years. The friends of Mr. Mills recognize that the result of the elections, particularly in Ohio, has been to weaken the prestige of their man, although they boldly argue to the contrary. The new members will begin dropping in soon to take their shares in the excitement of nominating the man who will practically control the legislation of the next House of Representatives, thereby becoming a powerful factor in the presidential campaign of next year, and as the most of them are as yet unpledged their arrival is most anxiously awaited by the several candidates and their friends. The feeling between the supporters of Mills and those of Crisp is becoming more bitter every day, and if something is not done by somebody to put a stop to their wrangling neither of them will be speaker. The less prominent candidates do not object to this throat-cutting, as it adds materially to their chances of securing the prize. There are no new developments in the Chilian difficulty, but it is noticeable as an indication of peaceable outlook in the minds of the Chilian minister to this country that he has gone

MEDICAL SPRINGS

News Notes From the Celebrated Health Resort.

DUNHAM ON FREE COINAGE.

Visitors From Ohio—Antics of the Moon—Brief Personal Mention—Cold Weather.

MEDICAL SPRINGS, November 16, 1891.

Last night, the coldest of the season, the thermometer fell to 10 above zero.

Dr. O'Connor and family, of Pine valley, paid the springs a visit this week.

W. D. Emele is now delivering several hundred bushels of wheat which he sold to Baker City wheat buyers.

Prof. Allen and wife, of Elgin, spent several days at the springs this week. The professor has been engaged to teach a school in Pine valley this winter.

Jessie O'Bryant, who has been treating a bad case of rheumatism at the springs for the last three weeks