It is a singular fact that, while from twenty to thirty licenses for the sale of oleomargarine have been issued by In-ternal Revenue Collector Weidler to Washington parties during the past few months, not a license has been issued for the sale of it in Oregon during the same period of time. This is accounted for by the stringency of the Oregon laws and comparative laxity of the Washington laws regulating the manufacture and of adulterated articles of foods. The Oregon law requires all adulterated articles of food to be so labeled that the consumer shall know what he is buying. This requirement applies to retail quantities as well as wholesale packages. In Washington no such labeling is required.

NATIONAL CAPITAL

Full Text of the President's Thanksgiving Proclamation-Puyallup Indian Reservation.

It was expected that the vexed questions regarding the Puyallup Indian reservation at Tacoma would be settled by the commission which was sent out there by an act of the last Congress, but it seems that this commission has not done what they were expected to do, and the question at issue is as far from settlement as before. The Indians have bargained away some of their most val-nable lands. Their lands are needed for the development of Tacoma as a city, and they are useless to the Indians, except for what they can get for them. The matter of the individual and tribal rights of the Indians was supposed to be determined by the commission, also the rights of the men who have bargained with the Indians for their lands, but the commission's report, now with the Secretary, is far from satisfactory, and will be little or no help in aiding him to make a recommendation to Congress. The Puyallup matter will have to be fought all over again this winter.

The full text of the President's thanksgiving proclamation is as follows: It is a very glad incident to the marvelous prosperity which has crowned the year now drawing to a close that its helpful and reassuring touch has been felt by all the people. It has been as wide as our country, and so special that every home has felt its influence. It is too great to be the work of man's power, and too particular to be the device of his mind. To God, the beneficent and allwise, who makes the labors of men to be fruitful, redeems their losses by his grace, and the measure of his giving is as it is beyond his deserts, the praise gratitude of the people of favored nation are due. Now. therefore, I. Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November, to be a day of thanks-giving to God for the bounties of his providence, for the peace in which we are permitted to enjoy them, and for the preservation of these institutions of civil and religious liberty which he gave our fathers the wisdom to devise and establish, and us the courage to preserve Among the appropriate observances of
