The Ards House Mystery.

A Leaf from the Autobiography of a Police Officer.

IN THE DUNLOP FAMILY.

The Dunlops had been in the family of Ards for generations. There were few people of the old fashion type, and the homestead was in the hands of a young man, who was young but not inactive. He had always been a great favourite with the people of the neighborhood, and even at the age of twenty, he was considered a born leader.

Mr. Dunlop was a man of middle age, with a keen intellect and a keen eye. He was a man of few words, and his speech was always short and to the point. He was a man of action, and he always did what he said he would do.

He had a great respect for his wife, and she was equally respected by him. They were a happy couple, and they always lived in perfect harmony.

Mr. Dunlop had a great love for his children, and he always tried to do his best for them. He was a man of great kindness, and he was always willing to help anyone who was in trouble.

The Dunlops had many friends, and they always treated them with kindness and respect. They were a well-liked family, and they always did their best to make their friends happy.

Mr. Dunlop was a man of great courage, and he was always ready to fight for what he believed in. He was a man of great spirit, and he always did his best to make the world a better place.

He was a man of great intelligence, and he always did his best to improve himself. He was a man of great kindness, and he always did his best to help anyone who was in trouble.

Mr. Dunlop was a man of great honor, and he always did his best to keep his word. He was a man of great integrity, and he always did his best to do what was right.
