OLD WELL

ter than all that he was the soul of tell figure, and her no-countenance, knowing decountenance, knowing decounten heart-whole and fancykeeping house for my father, as I had done alchildhood and never ng, auntie," I said, eagerly, expression which it must have worn of my "Bonnie Charlie," in the love-days of her youth.

ght my ear. I instantly mother.'

firmly round a crooked, pear tree standing near Then I called again to groaning victim within. Im grasp the rope tightly me pull him up. But it ase. My only answer was noan, so low and deep that the poor wretch was dy-to do I did not know. No come and I feared to lose injured to move a limb.

Intly and as quickly as I justly or not, was always regarded with auspicion, and the disgrace even attached to her innocent children. I thought of dear little Lily, whom I loved so well, and for the aaks of her future I helped piead her mother's cause with Hugh.

It was long before he would listen to either of us, but at last he neighbors just beginning that they had occurred.

It was long before he would listen to either of us, but at last he left his fate to me. Oh, child, I mever can forget the anguish that they had come, for my filled his loving eyes as he did so, the same of the sam

Devoted to the Best Interests of Polk County in I DALLAS, OREGON, SATURDA

when he came up, and one arm was found to be broken. He proved to be a young merchant from a distant city who had come to visit a friend in the village, and who had met with his accident while walking from the station to his friend's house. But he was too bad'y hurt where almost the entire care of the past fifty.

and after bearing with her faults and the disgrace they had brought lied again as she saw how that. Anything that belonged to a fresh trail was found in the snow, is my tribute to her beau-him was dear to me. Even the After following the trail some third, of course, my share of was an object of interest to my mong the village youth, mind, and many times I found my-great favorite at balls, self pitving her for having cast aside the priceless blessing of Hugh's love. For I knew that his old love for her ty; yet I reached the age was dead and buried, and the whole wealth of affection in his heart and

> And Margaret paused, and the intense look which her blue eyes gathered in memory of long ago gave her face, I fancied, the same wondering how girls in ness was perfect—far t.o perfect to of the world could have last. Our marriage was to take arried and lived happily place on Christmas, and after a ver having known the short wedding tour, we were to setgh which seemed to waft to us for good the moment we re-back into the happy past. turned from our tour. How I leved manner of his coming I the child! Not only for her fathforget. Our house stood or's sake, but for the innate leveliof the street, and in the ness of her own sweet, childish nar of the lot stood the old glected and unused for ve by us silly girls, who fore I knew that she must resemmantic spot to try our ble her lost mother; and, if so, how by on Hallowe'en. But it dangerous, being unpro-curb or fence, and stand-t did, close to the public snow white in hers, the blue of her ad often begged my father eyes was more the intense brilliancy it more secure, but he it until my prophecy of from it was at last fulfilled. ark, starless night in Octo arning from a visit to a by I was passing the old the starless of the sapphice, and the blonde of her hair the shimmer of burnished gold. I can see Hugh now, as he stood with half tearful, half laughing eyes, watching me caress his darling child, and thinking to tease suddenly a low groan of me by calling me the young 'stop

he awful truth that some The week before Christmas found of the black, yawning hois, to the person within not to for I would soon bring him ed marriage, made her way to our sushing to the house, and vildly at every step for egan an eager, trembling ra rope, which I soon had come, and I feared to lose answered, with a little choking and going after it. But I sound in her voice. "And you ag and strong and nerved could not have believed her bad, courage of desperation, so to hesitate long. How I it successfully I never all, but I let myself down ope until I reached the bother dark abyss, and found less being, whom I thought hee had sent me to rescue, h injured to move a limb. The method as quickly as I is limb. The move a limb. The move a limb. The move a limb is limb is limb. The move a limb is limb lived much longer in the deadly gases of the old well.

He seemed more dead than living when he came up our seemed than living decided against myself and the twas somewhat cold invalid devolved upon myself.

I need not give you the history of those weeks, Madge, but they were the sweetest I have ever the sweetest I have always found strength to be thankful that I helpiegs of horses, and has had the satiegs of horses, and has had the satpromised in manner and conversation. Bet-risked my life to save his, has never glance at ter than all that he was the soul of been effaced by the touch of other

The following incident, which was related to an Independent rethey were regarded to tell me that, regaret," I interrupted, the unfeigned admiration indsome face, into which a talked to me of her, praising her goodness and beauty, and planning for her future with us, and begging the goodness and beauty, and planning for her future with us, and begging me a thousand times over, to love ask me the sake.

They were regarded to a place in the total place in the place in the curred, we are assured, about a dozen. They winter. A band of Cree Indians woke up one snowy morning to find that about a dozen of their me a thousand times over, to love ask me organized and within a few hours orga faithless wife who bore his name ty miles it entered the Saskatchewan river, the animals evidently heading for the island in the middle of the river. Smoke was arising from among the rocks and trees on the island. After some reconnoitering an opening which seemed to be the cave could be seen in the face of the rocks. Presently a single Indian—a Piegan, the pursu-ers decided from his appearance showed up in front of the opening. He was painted and arrayed gaudily. Pretty soon a dog at his feet scented the Crees and commenced growling and barking. The Piegan instantly turned and entered the cave. In a moment another Piegan came around the rocks also and Madge, he came at last."

Margaret, with a Lily to see me, and she was to gome

Aunt Margaret, with a Lily to see me, and she was to gome

Aunt Margaret with a Lily to see me, and she was to gome be tween them. The Crees lay silently in the bushes watching and fifty counting, until upwards of fifty Piegans had come around the rocks and gone into the cave, and still they kept coming. What seemed remarkable was the fact that all these Indians were to all appearances exactly the same size, were dressed and painted exactly alike. Each carried a Winchester rifle and most remarkable of all, each one seemed a little lame in t e left foot, limping slightly. They were a seventy of them. That seemed to be all, for no more came. As the idea of seventy twins was impossible the superstitious Crees naturally concluded that the evil spirit had something to do with it, for there was no doubt that there were seventy Piegan Indians on the island who were all exactly alike. The had fallen into the dark us all as bright and happy as a pros-gerous pit, and my heart pective wedding party ever could ill with terror. But only be; but it brought a new actor on the cave. So thoroughly were gerous pit, and my heart li with terror. But only be; but it brought a new actor on the scene who was destined to change it all in the twinkling of an of the black, yawning hoie, of the person within not to in some way learned of the intendwithin a few hours, they were re-luctant to attack the island. While they were debating what to do, one less superstitious than the rest, volinteered to swim over to the island during the night and investigate. He did so. On approaching the supposed cave he was surprised to find that it was no cave at ali, but only an opening leading some ten feet into the rock where it made a crook and came out on the other side. The opening on this other side was out of sight from the shore, ent presence of sixty-nine other warriors was caused by the sharp trick of the Piegan shief,—Helens Independent.

b. right and my own choice. Do with it as you will.' So. Madge, I decided against myself, and that is why you see me an old maid to-day."

"And they married over again! How strange! But was she a good wife to Hugh after that, Aunt Margaret?" I asked, with a girlish curiosity, not thinking how my words might wound the noble heart, until I noticed the slight shudder with which she answered them.

"Yes, Madge, I heard of them years afterwards, a nappy and unit ed family. I have always found strength to be thankful that I helped to reconcile them to each other. My life is flowing peacefully on to

Thanks to the application of con mon sense to surgery, we now have od of treating fractured limbs among our farm stock. For curable cases this new method will give a good percentage of fair results.

Here it is: Suppose we have a horse with his hind leg broken six inches above the fetlock. The first thing to do is to make him a tirm narrow stall not much wider than is absolutely necessary to enable the animal to stand, or a pair of stocks such as are used for sho mg refractory colts or mules. Arrange a windlass by which when a band of the strongest sail-cloth, or some similar material, is placed under the animal's belly, his lind quarters can be lifted clear of the ground. belly-band should be one and a half to two feet wide, and long enough to allow its ends to be level with the horse's back. Thus it makes a snug eradle in which the patient can rest. Put now a collar on his neck, and to it attach a strap which shall extend from it between the front legs to the belly-band, and thus prevent that from sliding backwards and wrinkling into a band narrow enough to pain the horse, when his weight comes to be borne iminaries we are ready to set the limb. See, first of all, that the leg is well clear of the ground, making sufficient allowance that when the belly-band stretches it will not allow the foot to touch the ground. Bandage the leg smoothly but not too firmly from the foot up to above the knee, with a flannel bandage two or three inches wide. Now take canton flannel, with a good nap, and wide enough to cover the shape as will fit around the leg-then make five more just like it. Take six pounds of the best, freshest Plaster of Paris, not land plaster, but such as is used for hard finish, and stir enough of it slowly into two quarts of cold water to make a mixture thick as cream. Saturate one of your last made canton flannel envelopes for the leg in the mixture, then lay it on a board, nap side up, and pour on to and rub into it as much of the liquid plaster as it will hold. Next rub into the same flamel enough of the dry plaster to fairly thicken and tough-

Treat another piece of flannel exand here a fire was burning and a gaudily-dressed Indian was sleeping beside it. The stolen ponies were tethered near by. It required but a glance to understand what had passed so inysteriously before. The sleeping Indian was the only occupant of the Island, and the apparant presence of sixty-nine other of eggs and emetics.

Belladonna, night henbane.

the bridge. All eyes were turned

White Vitrio!.-Give plenty of Opium.—Give a strong emetic of child turned about and went as A SLEEPING CAR EPISODE.

A comical scene occurred on board a sleeping car that left Cleveland, Ohio, the other night, Among the passengers was a plain, staid West-ern Reserve "schoolmarm," who than half an hour to saturate and apply all the flannels and bandages, or the plaster will have become quite too hard to work. By the time that the last two bandages are to be applied it will be seen that the plaster has become thick and pasty, and is then in good condition for coating all over with the hand.

This would be my plan (as it has been, and successful, too,) for the fracture I have described.

The principle in any other case and with other animals would be similar; with such modifications as common sense suggest.

I contend that an effort shou'd be made in almost every instance to save the unfortunate animal. I have cured a number by the method detailed above. The average time would be from six to twelve weeks before the belty-hand con be removed and the limb tried. It may the last of the mash, and then awaited eddevelopments. In a little while the lady made the best of her way to where the paper was affixed and got into bed. A moment later a succession of piercing shricks issued from the berth, followed by the ened drummer, who hopped out to see "what the devil all the racket was about." The seene that ensued begans description but can be faintly imagined. It took the conductor an hour by the watch to pacify the enraged female, and even the night.

I contend that an effort shou'd be made in almost every instance to save the unfortunate animal. I have cured a number by the method detailed above. The average time would be from six to twelve weeks before the belty-hand con be removed and the limb tried. It may the last of the remainder of the night.

hy-play outside of a drama; but there was something in it so sad there was something in it so sad and pathetic, of such an intensely human interest, that the little ammonia (spirits of hartahorne).

Arsenic.—In the first place evacuate the stomach, then give the whites of eggs, lime water, or chalk and water, charcoal and the preparations of iron, particularly hydrate.

White lead and sugar of lead.—

White lead and sugar of lead.—

a halo about her childish face, was wheeling a toy carriage, containing the object of her motherly solicitude, a doll. The boy held his father's hand. When this interesting trio had reached the center of the bridge, the man stopped. He wanted to go back—just one glass more and the ready to go have the the proposition.

home, It was here that the mat ter began to attract general atten-tion, for here was fought one of those conflicts between inclination castor oil and epsom salta especially.

Charcoal.—In poisons by carbonic acid gas, remove the patient to the air, dash cold water on the head the air, dash cold water on the head and—alas! that it must be written and—alas! that it must be written and body, and stimulate the nostrils and lungs by hartshorne, at the same time rub the chest briskly.

Corrosive sublimate.—Give white in his tone and manner which told in his tone and manner which told presence but their own. The bat-then go on again. And thus the TEXAS PREACHER'S TRIALS.

Belladonna, night henbane.—
Give emetics and then plenty of water and vinegar, or lemonade.

Mushrooms.—Emetics, and then plenty of water and vinegar, with plenty of water and vinegar, with doses, of either if handy.

Nitrate of silver (lunar caustic).—
Nitrate of silver (lunar caustic).—
Nitrate of silver (lunar caustic).—
She clied in the depth out in the said; and he spoke like a man to his equal. The man was perfectly good-natured in his resistance, but persisted in turning back. The child's remonstrances were reloubled. Then the little girl joined the plea. She cried in the depth

Snake bites, etc.—Apply immediately strong hartshorne, and then apply a cupping glass.

Tartar emetic.—Give large doses of tea made of galls, Peruvian bark or white oak bark.

eggs and water, tle was fought by themselves, and the children won it. The grown Nux vomica.—First give emetic, then brandy.

Oxalic acid (frequently mistaken for epsom salts).—Give chalk, magnesia, or soap and water, and other soothing drinks.

Prussic acid.—When there is time administer chlorine in the shape of soda of lime. Hot brandy and water, hartshorne and turpentine are also useful.

Texas preachers are said to be very eccentric, and their mild unnaturalness has given rise to a great Decuniary good. many remarks and a few stories.
The following narrative was told us confidentially by a slanderer:
A minister arose before a large audience, took his text, and began preaching. A brisk firing of pistols began on the outside of the church.
"Brother Descen" still the minister arose was a single statement of the church.

The whittling preacher handed ver a large Remington pistol. over a large Remington pistol which the insulted preacher took which the insulted preacher took, and, drawing one from his belt, started out. After going out, there was an immediate improvement in the firing business. It was decidedly more life-like, insomuch that the deacons sat working their fingers. After a while the minister returned, and, placing an ear on Assassins still at large, but thel retreat and place of rendezvous well known to the citizens of Poll and vicinity. The unfortunate vic tim, fine, large, fresh and desirable knocked down in its prime (just of a sad experience. "Oh, come what everydy wants), will be laid bled. Then the little girl joined the plea. She cried in the depth of her distress, and the incongruity between the doll in the carriage iately strong hartshorne, and then take it internally; also give sweet oil stimulants freely; apply a ligature about the part bitten and then apply a cupping glass.

Tartar emetic.—Give large doses

Tartar emetic.—Give large doses

Tartar emetic.—Give large doses on the first day of September next We will positively commence our Opium.—Give a strong emetic of mustard and water, then strong coffee and acid drinks; dash cold water on the head of the patient.

Nux vomica.—First give emetic, sunday walk, in which the father went out to protect his children, ended in the protection of the father by the little ones. It is well for such men when they go out for a stroll that they take along with them a little eight-year-old to consoling thought that the ill wind and as all goods will be sold withis doing our appreciative patrons a

Now, friends, while it is not busi-Treat another piece of flannel exactly the same way and lay the two fairly tog-ther, one on top of the other, and promptly bandage them around the leg, which is now to be held in proper position until the plaster hardens. Meanwhile spread over the last bandage a thick coat of the wet plaster with your hands; and then prepare two more pieces of canton flannel as before; apply these over the first two and surround them with a bandage which is also smeared with wet plaster.

And, finally the last two pieces of flannel are treated as the others have been, and in turn are to be well bandaged, and the remaining Plaster of Paris rubbed into the last bandage. This, when it has set, bandage. This, when it has set, and then prevaled into the last bandage. This, when it has set, bandage. This, when it has set, and then prevaled the two pieces of flannel are treated as the others and promptly bandaged and the remaining plaster of Paris rubbed into the last bandage. This, when it has set, bandage them around the leg, which is now to be had secured a lower berth to the last boundage them around the elegancy was possible to the church. Brother Deacon, "said the minister, and began pheaching. A brisk firing of piatols padeling to be the church. Brother Deacon, "said the minister, and began pheaching. A brisk firing of piatols padeling. A brisk firing of piatols padeling. A brisk firing of piatols padeling. A brisk firing of piatol am very nearly convinced," he continued, as a piece of plastering fell from the wall close to his head.

"I think parson, that it refers to some one clse," replied the deacon.

The minister raised a tumbler of water and was in the act of applying it to his lips when the glass fell, shattered by a shot.

"This is an innuendo no longer," said the minister, wiping the water from his vest; "this is what I term an unmistakable thrust. The congregation will please sing while I which will be in a few minutes, will give not only a hard but a tough splint, that fits the leg so closely and keeps the ends of the bone in such exact position as to render displacement impossible; providing the leg has been properly held while the plaster was a ardening. Everything must be in readiness before the plaster is mixed with water, and it must require less than half an hour to saturate and apply all the flannels and bandages, or the plaster will have become

Notice of Assignment.

Be Warned in Time!