THE POLK COUNTY ITEMIZER.

DALLAS, OREGON, SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1883.

An English Education.

We have frequently emphasized our views of the necessity of more thoroughness in teaching the common branches in our public schools. Our position enables us to see the lack of knowledge, that so widely prevails, of the elements of our own language. We will hardly dare to state how few persons write us absolutely correct communications. In the use of capitals, in spelling, and in punctuation, there is a lamentable deficiency. This deficiency is not confined to the unlettered, but is shown in the written communications of persons whose general education would otherwise negative the idea of ignorance. The cause of this is found in the desire of parents to have their children advanced rapidly. Accuracy in these apparently unimportant particulars is the surest sign of a really cultured mind. Few persons go through life without the necessity of writing occasionally, and the correctness of the writing will often have an important bearing on the interests and welfare of the scribe. We know of a case where misspelling, in the application of a teacher for a position, caused his rejection. If so rigid a rule were universally adopted, the ranks of teachers would be thinned. Young men may be versed in the higher branches, yet the inaccurate knowledge of their own language will sometimes cause them to be humiliated. To write a legible hand, to spell correctly, to know when to use capitals and where to place the marks of punctuation, form an accomplishment that is of the greatest value and as, rare as it is valuable.

And, spelling being excepted, the others are easily learned. The anomalous condition of our system of spelling makes it difficult to be a good speller, yet the attainment of the art of spelling correctly is worthy of the utmost effort. No young man or woman should receive a diploma from our Colleges or Universities until approximate perfection is attained in a knowledge of these things. No other knowledge or accomplishment will compensate for a lack of this elementary knowledge. It is a kind of knowledge that is of daily use, and intended, so to speak, for every day wear. In stating that the common schools do not perform their proper office, in this respect, we know what we are talking about. And we write with the hope that our words will incite teachers to inform themselves, and then teach the children under their charge, how to write correctly.

An Oregonian dispatch details an account of a most terrible disaster that occurred on Wednesday, by the burning of a hotel in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Nearly a hundred people perished in the flames. Many deeds of heroism in saving life were performed and heart-rending scenes were enacted in full view of the multitude. The hotel was so surrounded by telegraph wires as to greatly interfere with efforts to save the inmates. The scenes at the morgue are described as heart-rending beyond power of description. One lady, married the day before, was burned to death and disfigured almost beyond recognition. Her husband was mad with grief. The hotel was known far and wide as a fire-trap, and insurance had been refused by the companies.

Occasionally we get a "blessing" for some item that appears in this paper. It may as well be understood that we do not use, or allow the use of, our columns to injure any person whomsoever. If any matter is printed that reflects unjustly on any person, it is only necessary to bring the matter to our attention, with proof of its correctness, to insure its prompt correction. It is not necessary to write an angry letter to us. As a model of a gentlemanly letter, written for the purpose of a correction, we take especial pleasure in referring to that of Mr. L. G. Price, published last week. Its contrast with some others we have, from time to time, received, makes us appreciate it the more.

Polk, the Treasurer of Tennessee, has defaulted in a large sum and fled to Texas. The Governor has telegraphed to the Governor of Texas to hold Polk until a requisition can be sent.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Pendleton Tribune has commenced its sixth year and is an excellent county paper.

The Pendleton civil service bill has passed both houses of Congress. People will now await anxiously to observe the effects.

A bill appropriating $70,000 to reimburse the State of Oregon, for moneys paid on account of the Modoc war, has passed Congress.

"Lucky" Baldwin, a California capitalist, was shot last week by Miss Fannie Baldwin, who claims to be a relative. The ball struck his arm and the wound is not dangerous.

The blue Danube and the classic Rhine have overflowed, causing great destruction and suffering. In the principal cities of the United States, organizations are perfecting to extend relief to the sufferers.

One of the star route jurors is sick and will probably not be able to sit through the trial. This will necessitate a new jury and the beginning again of the trial. Probably the star routers are now praying for the health of that man.

A postal telegraph bill has been introduced in the House, contemplating a telegraph Post Office at every office where there is a carrier system. The bill fixes a uniform rate of twenty-five cents per message of ten words and twenty-five cents for every additional ten words.

A bill relative to the Presidential succession has passed the Senate. It provides that in case of the death, resignation or inability to act of both the President and Vice-President, the succession shall go to the Secretary of State, of the Treasury, of War, the Attorney General, Postmaster General, the Secretary of the Navy, and of the Interior, in the order named.

The killing of the Indians, Wapato Dave and his wife, will cost Polk County a large sum of money. It is manifestly unjust that white people should be compelled to pay for the suppression or punishment of crime among a class of persons who do not contribute to the support of the government. We suppose, however, there is no help for it, and that the authorities were obliged to take cognizance of the crime.

There are 3,200,000 blacks, 2,200,000 native whites and 700,000 foreign whites over ten years of age, in the United States, who cannot read and write. This is an enormous amount of ignorance, but these figures do not express all of it. Add to these millions the millions more whose knowledge is so limited and elementary as to render them unfit for intelligent comprehension of any subject, and we are fain to fear that we have been over-rating the intelligence of the American people.

A touching scene occurred in the Senate on Tuesday. Hoar upbraided Edmunds for his opposition to the former's Presidential bill, remarking that he had absented himself from the Senate while it was being discussed, and that opposing it at this late day was unfair. Senator Edmunds' absence was caused by the last illness of his daughter, who was the idol of his old age. He attempted to reply, but was unable to articulate and sat down with the tears streaming from his eyes. The Senate silently adjourned, and we have no doubt that Hoar felt heartily ashamed of himself for his brutal allusion.

Johann Most is the most ultra fool that European agitation has thrown upon our shores. He publicly advocates the wholesale slaughter of governors, preachers, bankers, monopolists and everybody who has had the industry to accumulate money, and that newspapers should be confiscated and devoted to the publication of revolutionary documents. While the murderous folly of this whelp is the best antidote for its poison, it illustrates the easy good nature of the American people that he is suffered, without dissent or commotion, to blow his ridiculous blasts before American audiences.

On Monday morning the Esmond Hotel in Portland narrowly escaped burning.

BILL NYE AS A CARVER.

Bill Nye, of the Laramie Boomerang, publishes a lengthy article on new methods in carving, and winds up by saying:

"My great success, however, in carving is mainly confined to the watermelon. The watermelon does not confuse me. I always know where to find the joints, and those who do not like the inside of the melon can have the outside. Now, my great trouble with fowls is, that one day I have Nebraska chicken and the next day I have to assassinate a Mormon Shanghai pullet, with high, expressive hip bones and amalgam paletot. This makes me nervous, because they are so dissimilar, and their joints are in different places. The Mormon hen is round-shouldered, and her collar-bone is more on the bias than the Nebraska fowl. This gives a totally different expression to her features in death, and, as I have said, destroys the symmetry of the carve. I began my education in this line by carving butter in hot weather, and gradually led up to quail on toast. In carving the quail, first mortgage your home and get the quail. The quail should be cooked before carving, but not before the chronometer balance and other organs have been removed. Place your quail on the toast in a sitting position, then, passing the dissecting knife down between the shoulder-blades, dissect the polonaise. Another method is to take the quail by the hind leg and eat it, asking the guests to do the same. This breaks up the feeling of stiffness that is apt to prevail at a formal dinner party, and while each one has his or her nose immersed in quail, good feeling can not fail to show itself.
