

THE POLK COUNTY ITEMIZER.
DALLAS SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1883

COUNTY OFFICERS.

County Judge, C. A. JOHN. Clerk, ROSEWELL SHELLEY. Treasurer, E. T. MILLER. Commissioners, S. A. ROGGS, J. C. CRAMER, H. HOLMAN, W. J. MELKLEY, W. P. WRIGHT, FRANK HERRER, T. J. LEE.

Shall the Women Vote?

Hitherto we have silently watched the agitation of the otherwise peaceful stream of public sentiment on the subject of woman suffrage, which has been steadily widening in this State, until nearly the entire waters have become troubled, and the subject has become one which, like Banquo's ghost, will no longer "down." It is a living fact that the issue, distasteful as it may be to many persons, is upon us; and that in the very near future we will be called upon to answer at the ballot box the question found at the head of this article. The last Legislature having taken the necessary action to place before the voters of Oregon a constitutional amendment providing for female suffrage, in the June election of 1881 every legal voter in this State, will be called upon to meet the question face to face. As sensible men, and in order to intelligent action at that time, it becomes every such voter to begin to acquaint himself more perfectly with the measure. It is safe to say that notwithstanding all that had been said and written upon the subject, two-thirds of the legal voters of this commonwealth have no well defined opinion pro or con. In saying this we mean no disparagement of the heroic labors of the New Northwest and its immediate supporters in behalf of female suffrage. While that paper has been largely read by the ladies, and has been silently moulding public sentiment among our mothers, sisters and daughters, it has necessarily been less so by men, with something of the commoner sense. And the measure, as you can see, is not so generally understood as it should be.

The building boom at New Tacoma is somewhat impeded by the scarcity of lumber. The lumber market ought to be good on the Sound this year. Mr. J. C. Flood, one of Roseburg's leading merchants, died at his home in that city on Thursday, March 13. He was a son-in-law of the late Gen. Jos. Lane. A large steam saw-mill is being erected at Robinson Point, on Tillamook Bay. It has been a matter of astonishment that the lumbering business has not been pushed in that section before.

On Sunday morning of last week, says the Missoulian, a shocking accident occurred at a tie camp a few miles above Missoula, by which two little children were launched into eternity in an awful manner. A fond father and mother were nearly crazed by the sudden death of their only offspring, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stark are recent comers from Butte, though formerly resident of this country and living in the valley near Lewiston. Mr. S. has an interest in a tract with Mr. Sloan, of Missoula, and had moved his family up to the camp, temporarily moving into a wooden building with his household goods and clothing. On Sunday morning while the family were breakfasting in a tent close by, Mrs. Stark heard a faint scream from one of the children, which she left in the house asleep. Rushing out of doors, she was horrified to find the house in a blaze. Mr. Stark immediately broke open the door, but before flames drove him back. The building was soon pulled to pieces, but every thing inside was blackened and charred beyond recognition. The children were a girl and boy, aged respectively six and three years.

We have always believed that women are morally better than men, and so far as her moral influence would go toward purifying the cesspool of corruption that exists in connection with the politics of the country, we are convinced that some advantage would be reaped on the part of the government. But then the question remains whether the women would be morally damaged by contact with this dirty pool. But in view of the whole question we feel a little like John Billings in war-time, who, in the majority of his patriotic was willing to sacrifice all of his wife's relation upon the altar of his country. We are almost persuaded to cast our votes, and wives, and sisters, and daughters into the seething cauldron of corruption as a sort of deodorizer, and await results.

We are in receipt of Hon. M. C. George's speech delivered in the House of Representatives Feb. 5, 1883 on the subject of the Oregon Causal Project. The speech is short but is a beautiful and able presentation of the strong points, facts and figures in favor of prompt action on the part of Congress in the incorporation of the enterprise. Mr. George's speech is near representing the whole State of Oregon as any man the people have sent to Congress for many years. We are glad to know that Oregon has a man in public life who is capable of rising above local influences, and sectional strifes, and of undertaking to discharge his duty faithfully regardless of fear or favor.

Laid Over. We are very sorry to be compelled to hold over the proceedings of the Teachers Institute until next week. We find it absolutely impossible to get them in this week on account of being crowded full and running over with their matter. We will try to get it all in next week.

We gladly give place to the following editorial item from the Daily News. A more determined effort was never made to introduce an abomination upon the American stage, than has been made in behalf of this outrage upon common decency known as the "Passion Play."

The News expresses its view of the matter in the following forcible words: According to the telegraphic reports, the "Passion Play" will not be publicly produced. Morse will have to yield not only to law, but to that stronger element, public opinion, an abandonment of his plan. The people are not ready for such a production; they never will be. The mere idea of comedians and super-meritaries sitting down on the stage where Carmilla to-day ends her career, shame, and where Jack Sheppard may to-morrow expiate his crimes, and pretending to be Christ, in His agony, surrounded by weary, sleeping apostles—the mere thought of such a show is revolting. The objections to the "Passion Play" are manifold. The News does not well upon these altogether from a religious point of view. The most serious objections are non-religious. In this case Christ is looked upon, not as the head of the church, but of our modern civilization. His words, deeds, example, and fate are transcendent. He belongs to our lives. To have this august and sacred personality brought down to the level of a negro minstrel show is a crime. To earn money by such a play would be a crime against decency.

We are under obligations to Hon. M. C. George M. C. for important congressional documents. STATE AND TERRITORIAL. Walla Walla has lost one of its most prominent citizens through the death of Robert Stott. A bank is to be established at Roseburg at an early day. A thing much needed at that place. A young lady, Miss Nellie Ingalls by name, is to have the position of commissary clerk for the O. R. N. Co. at the Dalles. The Sellwood Real Estate Company, are building a new steam sawmill some four miles south of East Portland. The migration from the Eastern States to Oregon is rapidly increasing from the effects of the great floods on the Ohio.

MONARCH BEE-HIVE!

The Best in the World! PATENTED BY M. V. ENSLEY.

The Monarch is the chief of bee-hives. As a remedy, carefully arranged and secure, it has not an equal. It is very large, holding about 800 pounds—the two chambers holding 400. The honey chamber is so arranged that the bees can be shut off from them after they are filled, giving them the necessary entrance of the live to the unfilled chamber. By this means the honey, which is put up in one of five perfect frames, can be taken from the hive at pleasure, without disturbing or even seeing the bees. It is a non-swarming hive, thus requiring no time or trouble in watching or living the young swarms. Having plenty of room the bees do not become ill in a few weeks, as is the case with small hives, which are soon filled; and there is not a point about the hive from which to be repulsed on the outside of the bees. Mr. M. V. Ensley, of Williams, Yamhill county, is the patentee, and Messrs. W. P. Wright, of Polk county, are the agents for this county and counties south. Those who keep bees will go well to call and examine the live.

McMinville, Or., April 13, 1882. Mr. ENSLEY—Dear Sir: The Monarch Bee-Hive I bought of you last spring has given me good satisfaction, and I think the live a perfect success. Respectfully Yours, W. H. HERRICK. Bellvue, Or., July 26, 1882. Mr. ENSLEY—Dear Sir: The Monarch Bee-Hive I bought of you last spring has given me good satisfaction, and I think the live a perfect success. KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain to kill the spavin and cure it. READ PROOF BELOW.

Save Him 1,800 Dollars. I am a great horseman, and have had a fine horse of mine, named "Blaze," that was worth $1,800. He had a large spavin on one of his legs, and I had been vainly trying to cure it for some time. I had heard of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and I bought a bottle of it. I used it according to the directions, and it cured the spavin in a few days. I was very much surprised to find that it cured so quickly, and I was very much pleased to see that it cured so cheaply. I will recommend it to all my friends who have horses with spavins. I will send you a copy of the book, "Kendall's Spavin Cure," if you will send me the name of your druggist. I will send it to you free of charge. I will send it to you in a few days. I will send it to you in a few days.
