We wish to call special attention to the advertisement of the Portland Business College, which appears in another column. Polk county furnishes a large class of students each year for this school, which speaks well for the enterprising and ambitious spirit of young men. Last season the number attending from this county exceeded that from any other county in the valley, and we learn of a number of others who will enter the school at an early date. We are pleased to note this, and believe that such a step cannot but prove beneficial to any young man or woman.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.—The common council met Monday evening to take under advisement the practicability of granting the Dallas Flouring Mill company the right to lay a railroad track from the narrow gauge railroad down Mill street to the old flouring mill site. It was granted without much opposition, the principal objection being whether or not the mill company would keep the street in proper repair so as not to interfere with or impede travel. This point was finally settled satisfactorily to the council, and a charter was drawn up. This new enterprise will be a good thing for Dallas, as it will be the means of establishing a first-class mill here. When the road is completed there will be no difficulty in getting wheat to the mill, as heretofore, and it will also enable the company to secure wheat from up the valley to better advantage than in the past. We understand several leading capitalists of Dallas were only waiting to see what action the council took in this matter prior to forming a stock company, and now that it has been settled satisfactorily to all, we have no hesitancy in saying that the best flouring mill ever erected in Polk county will be built in Dallas this fall. One thing we are sure of, and that is the stockholders (if we have them rightly informed) are some of the most enterprising citizens of this county. It is only natural, therefore, that we should expect a mill that is in conformity with the spirit characteristic of its stockholders.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.—Portland is preparing to grandly celebrate the completion of the Northern Pacific Railway. "Peace hath her victories not less renowned than war." The driving of the golden spike will mark an epoch in the history of Oregon. It has a significance that reaches far beyond the present, and is not confined even to the territory the road traverses. Improvement in means and celerity of travel and communication has marked, in every age, the march of civilization. It is a prime, an indispensable factor in the world's advance "to that divine far-off event towards which the whole creation moves." To the student of history, who observes the great trend of events, "never lasting, never resting," the completion of the Northern Pacific has a deeper meaning than lies upon the surface. It is another step in that succession of forward movements, other, we admit, but it hardly seems possible that a man in any part of Marion county could give whisky to anybody in Dallas. However this may be the old man was fined $5 (which the lawyers paid) and he was left to get home as best he could. There ought to be some redress for an innocent man, but what show does an old and friendless man stand?

THE REVOLVER'S WORK.—On the 18th inst. Oscar Cooper, a young lad, was found dead near Jefferson, in Marion county, with a bullet wound in his side, showing the cause of death. The coroner's jury was unable to decide whether the death was accidental or suicidal. It rendered a verdict that he came to his death by his own hand.

HARVEST YOCUM, a young man of 22 years, on the 16th inst. shot himself at Sheridan, causing death in about seven hours. The shooting is supposed to have been accidental, as he had traded for a pistol and was emptying pockets of his several articles, the pistol among others, when the latter was discharged with the above result.

LINN COUNTY WHEAT CROP.—News from the wheat fields of old Linn is decidedly of an encouraging character. Considerable grain has already been threshed, and the report comes in that all early spring sown grain is yielding remarkably well, generally from twenty to thirty-five bushels to the acre. Some fields of late sown grain which it was thought four weeks ago would not pay for harvesting, will yield from fifteen to twenty bushels per acre. On the whole, it is thought that Linn county will come to the front with three-fourths of a crop. We have heard of no shriveled wheat. [Allany Herald.]

ACCEPTED.—We are pleased to chronicle the fact that Prof. J. D. Hawes, of Portland, has been elected as professor of natural sciences in the State Normal School at Monmouth, and has accepted the position. This makes a faculty of eight professors and teachers, besides assistants. The school opens on Tuesday, September 18. Hon. J. F. Coples, of Portland will deliver the opening address.

HUNG HIMSELF.—On the 17th inst. Grant Chenoweth, a son of Judge Chenoweth, of Corvallis, committed suicide near that city by hanging himself. No cause is assigned for the rash deed. He was engaged at work with a party of threshers, and appeared ordinarily cheerful during the day. At evening he was found hanging from a beam in the barn, dead.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.—R. D. Dodson, a carpenter, working on the Eagle mill, near Dille, shot and killed himself last Sunday. He was lying on the bed resting, and was toying with his pistol, when he was a self-cooker, when it accidentally went off, the ball entering the abdomen above the hip and ranging upward passed near the heart. [Hilaboro Independent.]

The Outlook Encouraging for the State Normal School the Coming Session.

Sauier Kraut Valley Notes.

BUENA VISTA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Judge J. J. Duly and Mr. McMaster gave our town a pleasant call this week.

The pottery has shut down for a few days for repairs. Will resume work with full force in a few days.

Quite a number of reserved seats were taken by our citizens who went to hear Mr. Beecher lecture at Salem.

Thrashing machine, hays are rather at a loss this season. Grain is yielding so well that it will not do to exaggerate.

Harvest reports are very encouraging. Wheat is yielding much heavier than was anticipated. We hear of one field that turned out 40 bushels per acre. Twenty bushels is not extra. Oats are scarce, and command 65 cents in the field at the machine.

C. A. McCullough has the boss threshing crew this year. They will throw the belt, gather up their traps, and move into the next field before the cylinder stops rolling. They moved six miles and threshed 1,800 bushels of wheat in one day, and there is not a man in the crowd that will lie. So Prof. Jarvis says, and he knows.

The grain yield is simply immense in this part of the county. Mr. William Tiquay threshed 40 acres that yielded 27 1/2 bushels per acre. Mr. William Collins' farm yielded over 33 bushels per acre; J. E. Elkins had 59 bushels per acre on six acres, and from all quarters we hear of unexpected results. We verily believe a few such drouths would place our farmer in a position to forbid the repeal of the Mortgage Tax Law.

Would our school directors wish the love of their constituents and insure a re-election? If so, let them have the school house thoroughly cleaned; the yard and play ground cleaned up; the gate fixed; the well put in condition to be used; the sidewalk leading to the house fixed, and other necessary work to be done attended to at once. The south side of the building needs a new coat of paint, as does also the fence enclosing the building.

MONMOUTH.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Mrs. Charles Miller is very sick with intermittent fever.

Prof. W. W. Bristow, of the State Agricultural College, of Corvallis, and family were in town last week.

Harvesting is in full blast here, and crops are turning out a great deal better than was expected. Some of the ground that was sown is yielding 25 bushels per acre. Not so much of a failure after all.

The Sunday school of this place, under the management of Prof. Yates, is growing in interest as the season advances. The people justly feel proud of a superintendent who can keep up the interest during the summer months. And now let us repeat his maxim of success in Sunday school: "Not the number, but the interest taken in the work, and so 'that's the way to do it'."

People are coming in to look after school interests. Houses are being rented and fitted up preparatory to the young folks entering the school, to begin Sept. 18, and from present indications there will be the largest school this season in the history of the college. The president and professors are ready, and are in the firing line into everything around them. "The right man in the right place."

Harvest rapidly progressing.

Miss Martin, formerly of Dallas, is at home again.

Teal and Huber can soon supply the market with mountain trout.

Pat Hughes, of the stone quarry, gave us a pleasant call on Sunday last.

Albert, son of J. B. Teal, has been very sick, but is getting along nicely.

Miss Lou Teal and Mary Ford spent several days with us visiting friends and relatives.

In remembrance of Edmund Wells Lankester, who died at sea, between Panama and San Francisco, Tuesday, May 22, 1883, aged 16 years.

"Twice evening when I left you, And the night was coming on, But I feared at once to the realm of light And the shadows of night were gone."

I took my place at the Savior's feet; I, the grandest song, Aching Salvation and Glory to Him To whom all praises belong.

That song still comes swelling forth, And how could I stent keep When I recall that my dream, and His alone, Had revealed me from the deep.

MECHANICS' FAIR.—The superintendent of the Mechanics' Fair, which will be held at Portland, Oct. 11 to 27, is busy forwarding circulars to all parts of this state, Washington, Idaho and Montana territories, and it is expected to have an exhibit from a much more extended area than ever before. People all over the state are taking greater interest in this fair than ever before, and no pains or expense will be spared to make it a grand success.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR PARADE.

A telegram, dated Monday, gives the following account of the Knights Templar parade at San Francisco: All San Francisco and 70,000 visitors pronounce the procession a grand success. The streets were crowded, and long before the procession started Market street had become impassable. At 10 o'clock the procession started, a platoon of mounted police leading off to clear the way. The first commandery in line was California No. 1, mounted on black chargers, the silver embroidered velvet coats of the Knights, and richly caparisoned horses making them the objects of marked attraction. Following the California came the Golden Gate and Oakland commanderies, and then those from other points in California, from Oregon and Washington territory, Nevada and Arizona. They mainly constituted the three first divisions. After them, and up to the tenth division, came the commanderies of states east of the Rocky mountains. The approach of Lyon & Healy's band, with their striking uniforms, made everyone ask "who are these that are coming?" They were the St. Bernards, of Chicago, who, by the Knights of this coast, are held in especial esteem. The last division comprised the grand encampment of the United States, led by Sir William F. Knox, past grand commander of California, commanding. The royal Hawaiian band, selected by the grand commander of California as the official orchestra, immediately preceded the Boston commandery, which acted as special escort to the grand master of the United States, Benjamin Dean. The Bostonians were highly complimented on their excellent appearance. Following them on a white charger came Grand Master Dean, accompanied by his staff. The procession terminated with the DeWitt Clinton commandery, No. 1, of Virginia City, Nev., mounted on black chargers, and acting as a grand guard of honor to the grand encampment. They bore off the honors of the day.

Van Ness avenue, which was arranged as the halting place for the review, was reached by the head of the column, but not for a full hour after did all the divisions reach it and take up the line.

The several divisions, under orders of their commanderies, went through the different evolutions and counter-marching, and in the majority of cases the movement were done with excellent precision. The Knights then all saluted the grand master, and proceeded on their march through the streets selected for the procession to pass.

A Great Steeper.

Sherman W. Platt, residing at Newton, Conn., fell asleep last December. From Christmas till March he scarcely moved in bed, and took no nourishment except what was forced into his mouth. In May he exhibited signs of returning animation, and, like an infant, was put into his clothes and led to a chair. In June hunger asserted itself, and during his brief wakeful moments he daily found his way, unassisted, to the pantry to appear the same, his eyes all the while closed, and, returning to his chair, resumed his sleep. He continued thus until July 10, when, seated in a chair on the veranda, he heard a passing teamster address his cattle, and he sang out "What!" The first exclamation he had made during 213 days.

A Bleeding in Disguise.

No family should be without ALLCOCK'S PAINLESS PLASTER: their healing powers are wonderful and their efficacy far reaching and lasting. For years past I have seen and known them to cure and relieve the most obstinate and distressing cases of rheumatism, kidney complaint, bronchitis, neuralgia, lumbago, inflammation of the lungs and throat, paralysis, asthma, spinal weakness, and convulsions and colds. In my own case they have afforded me almost instant and permanent relief. My friends consider them an invaluable and speedy remedy for all kinds of aches and pains. They are a blessing in disguise; and no wife or mother should be without them if she values her peace and comfort next to her own life. They are a strengthening plaster, also for backaches and weaknesses, they have no equal. I have never yet found a plaster so efficacious and stimulating, or to give so much general satisfaction.
