"Seeing is Believing."
 And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.
 Look for this stamp—THE ROCHESTER. If the lamp dealer has not the genuine Rochester, and the style you want, send us for our new illustrated catalogue, and we will send you a lamp safely by express—your choice of over 2,000 varieties from the Largest Lamp Store in the World.

 There is no
 gulph O'er hours of
 't we forget.
 There is no check, however bright its roses,
 But perished buds beneath, its hues are hid;
 No eye that in its dewy light reposes
 But breaks star-beams tremble 'neath its lid.
 There is no lip, however with laughter ringing, However light and gay its words may be,
 But it hath trembled and its dark uperating
 Of stern affliction and deep misery.
 We are all brothers in this land of dreaming,
 Yet hand meets hand, and eye to eye repleas;
 Nor deem we that beneath a brow all beaming
 The flower of life in broken beauty lies.
 Oh! blessed light that glides our night of sorrow,
 Oh! balm of Gilead for our healing found,
 We know that peace will come with thee tomorrow,
 And that afflictions spring not from the ground.
 Power of Short Words.
 Think not that strength lies in the big round word,
 Or that the brief and plain must needs be weak.
 To whom can this be true who once has heard
 The cry for help, the tongue that all men speak
 When want or woe or fear is in the throat,
 So that each word gasped out is like a shriek Pressed from the sore heart or a strange, wild note Sung by some fay or fiend? There is a strength
 Which lies if stretched too far or spun too fine,
 Which has more height than breadth, more depth than length.
 Let but this force of thought rise,
 And he that will may pierce
 Which glows and burns up and shines Light, but not heat—a flash, as Nor is it mere strength that the boaster serves of more than light or storm
 The roar of waves that clash on rock coasts,
 The crash of tall trees when the wild win
 swirl,
 The roar of guns, the groans of men that die
 On blood-stained fields. It has a voice well
 For them that far often their sick beds For them that weep for those whose the dead,
 For them that laugh and dance and ch hand;
 To joy's quick step, as well as grief true.
 The sweet, plain words we learnt at fir lines,
 And though the theme be sad or grand,
 With each, with all, these may be us
 chime,
 In thought or speech or song, in po rhyme.
 -Joseph A.
 The sea
 When little She came to
 And laid her
 In her sweet
 "Papa," she said,
 "What could her papa With heart quite full of I straightway bought her two.
 The years sped on. The crown of you Lay on her maiden brow.
 Again she came unto me and said,
 "I want a pony now."
 The pony came. How glad was I
 To see her happy face!
 And on my wrinkled heart there lay
 No blighting sorrow's trace.
 Alas! how easy 'tis to give Our treasure of the heart
 To those we love, but, oh, how hard It is from them to part.
 For yesterday she came again,
 Just as a child of three,
 And blushing said, "He's there down stairs,
 Papa, and he wants me."

 Then, in the rusty bellows
 At his and seek they played
 The party closed at sundown,
 And everybody staid.
 Professor Wind played louder,
 They saw along the ground,
 And there the party ended,
