newed cause for congratulation on each succeeding day in view of the fact that the fame of the Midwinter Fair is spreading so rapidly and so satisfactorily in the East that the number of Eastern visitors who are to be expected during the winter seems sure to succeed their most sanguine expectations. The newspapers of the large Eastern cities, and those of the small towns in that part of the country as well, seem to have tackled as kindly to our Exposition proposition as those who are near by, and who might therefore be expected to reap a more rect benefit from it. But among all the nice things that have been said in the Eastern papers in this connection none has proven more valuable as an advertisement than an editorial utterance in the latest issue of the Review of Reviews, one of the most conservative periodicals in the country. This utter periodicals in the country. This utterance was as follows:

"The Exposition will help to give definite form to many a man's vague plans for visiting the Parific Coast, and that perhaps will be its greatest service to its country. Everybody in the East intends sometime to make a trip to California, but the distance is formidable, and old men are dying every day who had meant since 1848 to see the Golden Gate some time or other, but had never got started. The fact of the Midwinter Fair should transform general intentions into specific plans. Patriotism, if nothing else should impel every American who can possibly afford it to see for himself the wenders that ile upon the western margin of this glorious country."

The above paragraph most assuredly echoes Eastern sentiment and goes a echoes Eastern sentiment and goes a great way towards dispelling the idea rhich some Californians still cling to that the influx of Eastern visitors will not be large. The railroad people have long ago recognized this fact and are now making elaborate preparations for transportation. Strangers are certainly coming to the Pacific Coast this win-ter by thousands, and when they get here, thanks to the eleventh-hour railway arrangements, they are going to have an opportunity to visit the entire Coast, so that San Francisco can not justly be said to reap even the lion's share of the advan-

How sweet to walk at even, When softened dyes from sunset skies Steal up the sapphire heaven! Along the reach of rocky beach Oh, joy it is to follow, Where blooms the sea anemone In every waveworn hollow.

The spray wet grasses glisten.
Where breaks the wave on cliff and cave
The flowers bend and listen.

I count the years by all my tears And all life's stormy weathe Since by the bay of Monterey We wandered, love, together I walk along the changing shore,

Oh, sad and strange it seems!

And if you hear the billows roar,
You hear them but in dreams. For you have slept now many a day
Upon the shore of Monterey.

To the stronger sex is now vouchsafed by a hairdresser, of words few, but mighty, a whispered prophecy. It is that the signs of the times point to a revival of another one of the fashions of 1830 or thereabouts—in short, that the locks of the Beau Brummels of 1894 will form a most intimate acquaintance with the curling iron. "Have they not been growing steadily longer?" he says, "and what more natural sequence, therefore, than a desire to relieve the monotony of undiversified length? Hence the curling iron." However, even the most exceptional hairdresser is liable to err, and it may be long before curls, other than nature's sown aggressive and crisp ones, cluster round manly brows.
