

WOMEN and Women Only, especially mothers, are most competent to appreciate the purity, sweetness, and delicacy of CUTICURA SOAP and to discover new uses for it daily. Its remarkable emollient, cleansing, and purifying properties, derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure and parent of emollients, warrant its use in preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hands, and hair, and in the form of baths and solutions for annoying irritations, itching, inflammations, and chafings, too free or offensive perspiration, and also in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, as well as many sanative, antiseptic purposes, which will readily suggest themselves. All that has been said of CUTICURA SOAP may also be said of CUTICURA Ointment which should be used after the SOAP, in the severer cases, to hasten the cure.

Complete External & Internal Treatment for Every Humor, $1.25. Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25¢), to cleanse and soothe the skin, and CUTICURA OINTMENT (50¢), to soothe and clean the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disgusting, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. How to Make Tomato Marmalade.
To two pounds of tomatoes and one pound of tart apples allow two and a half pounds of sugar and the juice and grated rind of one lemon. Scald the tomatoes to remove skin and pare, core and slice the apples. Add sugar to tomatoes and apples and boil slowly one hour. Stir and skin when needed. Add juice and grated rind of another lemon and boil until the marmalade is smooth and thick. Put up in pint glass fruit cans.

"After doctors failed to cure me of pneumonia I used One Minute Cough Cure and three bottles of it cured me. It is also the best remedy on earth for whooping cough. It cured my grand children of the worst cases," writes Jno. Berry, Luganston, Pa. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Cures coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles. It prevents consumption. Children always like it. Mothers endorse it. M. D. Ellis.

Successful Men Don't Drink.
The most successful men in America today are those who never lift a wine-glass to their lips. Becoming interested in this fact, I had the curiosity to inquire personally into it. I found that of 28 of the leading business men in the country, whose names I selected at random, 22 never touched a drop of wine. I made up my mind that there was some reason for this. If liquor brought sad pleasures, why did these men abstain from it?—Edward W. Bok.

FIGHTING ALCOHOL.
WAR AGAINST RUM SPREADING OVER EUROPE.

Everywhere recognized that in the Race of Life those who drink toxicants fall to the rear—influence on surgery.

Archbishop Ireland, addressing the Catholic Total Abstinence union at Chicago, spoke as follows:
"It is a delight for me to meet my fellow soldiers in the great battle against the vice of Intemperance. God bless this union! God bless its workers, old and young! Angels alone could portray the good that has been accomplished. One of the most honorable records in the history of the Catholic church since the year 1872 is that which is written in the life and work of your union. I do not know of any movement during those 27 years that has done more honor to the Catholic people of the United States than your own association."

"During my travels through Europe recently I have discovered that the war against alcohol is spreading through every country on that continent. There is not a single country in Europe today that does not have its annual congress of antialcoholic workers, and these congresses are made up of the best physicians and the leading thinkers of each and every country. They understand that alcohol poisons the bladder. A remarkable surgeon of Brussels told me that surgery is set at naught, with all its discoveries and all its advances, by the use of alcohol; that when a subject is brought to him for the exercise of his surgical skill the first thing he does is to examine the bladder, and if he finds any sign of alcohol in it, as he unfortunately does in 75 per cent of the cases, then he feels that his skill has met an almost insuperable obstacle."
"It is recognized everywhere that in the race of life those who use alcohol

How a Farmer Discovered 'Twas Best Not to Drink.
A farmer in Bungray once employed a young man to labor upon his farm without knowing anything of his habits. All too soon the farmer found that his new hand was addicted to drinking, and this habit interfered with his usefulness.
"John," said the farmer to the man, "I'll give ye one of my best sheep for 'twill give ye drinkin' while ye work for me."
"It's a bargain," declared the man. A grown son of the farmer, overhearing this agreement, looked up and asked:
"Father, will you give me a sheep, too, if I will not drink this season?"
"Yes," replied the farmer, "ye may have a sheep."
Then the little boy spoke up and said:
"Father, will you give me a sheep, too, if I'll not drink?"
"Yes, son, ye shall have a sheep also."
After a moment's pause the little boy turned to his father and said:
"Father, hadn't you better take a sheep too?"
"I dunna," said the farmer doubtfully, and then suddenly concluded, "I declare I'll try it and see."
The old gentleman was heard afterward to declare that he made the best investment of sheep that season he ever made in his life.—Stray Stories.

Vienna Walking Up.
A total abstinence society has been started in Vienna by 120 members. Its programme includes abstinence from alcohol in every form for the benefit of the health and morals of the people and to show the absolute uselessness of alcohol.—Exchange.

Rope Walking at Niagara.

The man who wanted to walk across Niagara Falls on a rope was wisely restrained by the authorities. Probably he is the only man who has ever done so. Death comes soon enough. Take the records of disease for example. Common ailments like constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria and nervousness are due to shorten life. There is a medicine that will cure these, if taken faithfully, and that is Dr. Hester's Stomach Bitters. Set the stomach right and good health is sure to follow. This peerless remedy has a record of over fifty years of cures to back it up. When in need of a medicine of this kind, get the old reliable Hester's Stomach Bitters, with a private revenue stamp over the neck of the bottle.

Rum Produces Consumption.

Drink will tend to the production of consumption in more ways than one. It is not merely that the man who indulges in drink predisposes himself to its attacks, but what he spends in drink he is taking out of the general income of his family, which is more or less impoverished. The children are less well nourished in consequence of their wet clothing, and in this way direct as well as indirect predisposition to consumption, and indeed to all forms of disease, comes through drink, not simply through intemperance, but through the self-indulgence which leads men to spend so large a proportion of their income in what is to themselves and to their families perfectly useless and injurious.—Dr. William Brodhead.

If you are suffering from the consequences of impure blood—have boils, pimples or scrofula sores; if your food does not digest or you suffer from catarrh or rheum tism, you are the one who should take Hood's Sarsaparil. It will fit your case exactly, make your blood pure and cure salt rheum, scrofula, rheumatism, dyspepsia, catarrh and give you perfect health.

A Distiller on Whiskey.
Here is a little temperance sermon from one of the biggest producers of whiskey in Kentucky: "After having lived 81 years I have learned that one drink of whiskey is enough, two are too many and three are not half enough. I have also learned that drinking whiskey is a business by itself. It is, moreover, a jealous business that doesn't want you to do anything else. You must attend strictly to that which you are at it and let all other business go. And, sir, it is a business that doesn't pay. On the contrary, it is a losing business all the time, sir."—Guidar.

For Over Fifty Years.

An old and well tried remedy, Dr. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. 25 cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Dr. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

A Total Abstinence.

Rear Admiral John W. Philip recently said, "I have cruised in all parts of the world, eaten the fruits of the day without limit at all hours of the day and night, drunk the water from shore at will, but have never experienced any ill results—due entirely, I think, to total abstinence."—Selected.

ZEBROIDS.

Hybrids Which May Supplant Mules—Cross Between Zebras and Horses.

The Brazilian minister at Washington has furnished to the bureau of animal industry some interesting facts about what he calls "zebroids"—i. e., crosses between the zebra and the horse—which are being bred by Baron de Parma on his plantation in the state of Rio Janeiro. It appears that the object of these experiments is to produce a larger and handsomer hybrid than the mule, and one which, as proved by results already obtained, is a more valuable animal. The baron declares that the zebroids will prove of great economic importance, and that it will be, in fact, the mule of the twentieth century, supplanting the humble but cantankerous offspring of the ass and the mare. The baron imported his zebras from Africa expressly for this purpose, and he says of the hybrids produced that they are very brightly, though at the same time gentle and docile, and have extraordinary muscular strength. Their size, shape, pace and disposition depend upon the dam, and so they may be bred at will for the saddle or for heavy or light draft. It is only necessary to select mares possessing the qualities desired. Thus crossing with mares of the heavy Percheron or Suffolk gives zebroids that are large and very strong, while mating with Arabs and Normans produces small and slender zebroids, tractable and suitable for work that requires quickness. The hybrids are softer mouthed than mules, they never kick, and, though when first handled they have an inclination to bite, they give this up when they find that there is no intention to hurt them. The baron's stud of zebroids is derived from the Transvaal, where at the present time these striped relatives of the horse are being employed to a considerable extent as beasts of burden and especially for coach teams. Frequently they are driven four in hand in the two-wheeled Cape carts. They may be purchased in Pretoria or Johannesburg for $50 to $150 each.

Feeding Hogs Early.

The most common mistake of farmers in feeding hogs, though much less frequently made, is to starve the pig until early in the summer and only begin to feed heavily when cornhusking begins, says the Boston Cultivator. The soft rhabbits are always given first, and the pig's stomach, unused to such heavy food, is unable to digest it with the result that it ferments in the stomach, and this causes acid to rise in the month, making it sore as soon as the corn is hard for the pig to chew. It is often said that allowing pigs to run in orchards and pick up sour apples is what makes their teeth sore. It is true that a pig which has sore mouth and aching teeth has also generally an acid mouth, but the soreness comes from fermentation in the stomach, not from something sour originally put into it. If the apples are cooked and dry corn is ground into meal and mixed with them, there will be no sore mouth. The small potatoes, refuse beets and other roots, if cooked, and also pumpkins, make an excellent base with which to feed any kinds of grains. The grain may be cooked with the roots, and, thus softened, it will digest nearly as well as if dried and ground. But it must be remembered in feeding cooked grain or meal that the grain swells so that it has less bulk than grain or meal that has not been cooked. The hogs fill themselves with it, and as it digests more quickly than uncooked food they exclusively and thus cuts down their net receipts from their corn, wheat and other crops. It would not be difficult for the farmers of an Illinois township to ascertain the weight of all the produce they take to and from the nearest market during a year and thus find out what bad roads are costing them. When they have the information, it may be they will vote for a higher road tax. Every year about $20,000,000 is spent in this country in the repairing of mud roads. The money is expended to no purpose, for the farmers keep on paying out while refusing to contribute a larger sum, which, if judiciously expended, would give them permanent roads, which it would cost but a trifle to keep in perfect condition. Then they would not have to keep so many horses as they do now. There would be less wear and tear of horses, harness and wagons. The farmers would be able to get their products to market at all times, while it happens now often that they cannot market those products when prices are highest because of impassable roads. The taxes which bear hardest on the farmers are those that unthinkingly impose upon themselves.

A SMALL SPOT MAY BE CANCER.

MOST VIOLENT CASES HAVE APPEARED AT FIRST AS MERE PIMPLES.
The greatest care should be given to any little sore, pimple or scratch which shows no disposition to heal under ordinary treatment. No one can tell how soon they will develop into Cancer of the worst type. So many people die from Cancer simply because they do not know just what the disease is; they naturally turn themselves over to the doctors, and are forced to submit to a cruel and dangerous operation—the only treatment which the doctors know for Cancer. The disease promptly returns, however, and is even more violent and destructive than before. Cancer is a deadly poison in the blood, and an operation, plaster, or other external treatment can have no effect whatever upon it. The cure must come from within—the last vestige of poison must be eradicated.

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD
—because it is the only remedy which can go deep enough to reach the root of the disease and force it out of the system permanently. A surgical operation does not reach the blood—the real seat of the disease—because the blood can not be cut off. Insist upon S. S. S.; nothing can take its place. S. S. S. cures also any case of Scrofula, Eczema, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Pimples, Ulcers, Sores, or any other form of blood disease. POVERTY AND DRINK.

Whisky Furnishes Over Half the Income of Poorhouses.
Between intemperance and poverty there is a twofold relation. Drink causes poverty, and poverty often drives a man to drink. It is impossible to even approximate the number of "poor" people for whose poverty liquor is responsible, but the number of paupers—people who are supported by the taxpayers—produced by drink can, to a certain extent, be fairly estimated.
