

"This Little Pig Came Home."

A correspondent of a New Jersey friend writes to him that he has a very sensible pig. He says he had more pigs than he wanted to keep, so he sold one to a man living in a neighboring village. The little pig had been living in the pen with his brothers and sisters and had never been outside of it until the man who bought him put him in a basket, tied down the cover and put it in his wagon to carry to the new home. Late in the afternoon the farmer who sold the pig says he was surprised to see something coming across the swampy meadow below his house. He watched it struggling through the wet places, climbing the knolls, until at last he discovered that it was his little friend, the pig he had sold, and who was now all covered with mud and dust and who, though very tired, seemed rejoiced to get back to his old home again. He went straight toward the barn, where he knew there was the only house he recognized as such. The money was returned to the man who had bought the little pig and he staid during the rest of his natural life at his old home.—Christian Work.

Great!
What does he hold in her dimpled hands.
This quiet little maiden fair,
With her forehead down and her head rimmed
With her hair, and her hair and her hair
And her shadow of golden hair?

"WHAT DOES SHE HOLD?"
"A bunch of sweet violets!" Bessie declares.
"Some candy!" says sugar tooth Paul.
"Oh, I know!" shouts Kate, with a mischievous smile.
"She hasn't got a nut at all!"

Now I'll whisper a secret, if you'll never tell—
She is not holding pines or plums,
But hidden away in her fat little fist
Are two dear, little, dainty, pink thumbs!
—Ellen Knight Bradford in Little Folks.

The Donkey Donk.
A wee little donkey who lives in a suburb saw and heard a donkey for the first time the other day while out for a walk with her aunt. She talked about it continually after getting home. It was "such a boofy donkey" and
"such a good donkey" and so on through her small store of adjectives.
When her father came home at night,
he heard the story over again, with a renewal of the adjectives.

"And so you liked the donkey, darling, did you?" he asked, taking the tiny lass on his knee.
"Oh, yes, papa; I liked him—that is,
I liked him pretty well, but I didn't like to hear him donk."

A Clever Horse.
At a farm one of the horses was constantly escaping from its stable at night, and it was thought some boys had been playing pranks and let it out.
The farmer decided to sleep in the hay loft to discover, if he could, how it was manned. He found the horse broke the halter, went to the door, pulled the latch up and galloped into a field near with the cows and sheep, and so the mystery was explained.

Polage Plants For Rooms.
The most graceful plants for rooms, corridors or halls are palms. The kinds known by the names of Kentia, belmora, Phœnix, rhipida and Cocos weddeliana generally succeed well in such positions. Another graceful plant is the umbrella plant (Cyperus alternifolius), with grasslike leaves arranged in the form of a wheel at the top of its numerous stems. Yet other are the variegated rubber palms (Aspidistra variegata), with broad leaves striped with creamy yellow; Grevillea robusta, with fernlike foliage; Japanese grass (Ruhla japonica), with slender grassy leaves striped with white bands; the leaf palm (Aralia japonica), having handsome green leaves, and last, but not least, the green or variegated indian rubber plant. Any or all of these will do well in rooms.

CUTTLEFISH INK.

The Peculiar Liquid Which This Creature Uses to Eject.
The cuttlefish are caught in great numbers on the Cornwall coast and are used as a bait for the conger eel, for which this part of the world is celebrated. The cuttlefish possesses a black mouth, but has a long, cylindrical sucker with which it adheres firmly to the bait. The method of capturing the fish is as follows: A long line from which are suspended from 200 to 300 hooks baited with portions of pilchard (almost the only bait the cuttlefish will take) is let down into the sea and allowed to stop there for about half an hour. It is then drawn up, and the cuttlefish are found hanging by means of their suckers to the bait. The moment that they leave the water they eject with considerable force a great quantity of deep, black, viscous substance which is about the consistency of treacle, and the stain made by it upon the clothes of the fishermen is permanent if it happens to fall upon them.

I had a conversation with one man who has several times received a full charge in his face, and he assured me that beyond the smell, which is most nauseous, he felt no inconvenience at all, no smarting or pain in his eyes and no bad after effects.

A Rich Man's Project.
A rich man's statement that he intends to devote almost his entire fortune to charitable works has aroused much discussion. This is because it will do much good. It is a praiseworthy endeavor, but there are many other agencies which accomplish just as much good. Take Hooper's Stomach Bitters for instance—the great American remedy. For fifty years it has cured constipation, dyspepsia and all the ills which arise from weak digestion. This medicine will keep the stomach in good shape and the bowels regular. It is a wonderful restorative tonic and health builder. It is also a preventive for malaria, fever and ague. Ask for it, and insist upon having it. See that a Private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

They Take Their Cows With Them.
The czar of Russia has three small daughters whose chief nourishment consists of milk and, as experts in the matter of feeding cows, the use of other agencies which accomplish just as much good. Take Hooper's Stomach Bitters for instance—the great American remedy. For fifty years it has cured constipation, dyspepsia and all the ills which arise from weak digestion. This medicine will keep the stomach in good shape and the bowels regular. It is a wonderful restorative tonic and health builder. It is also a preventive for malaria, fever and ague. Ask for it, and insist upon having it. See that a Private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

"The Hottest Mind"
The best contentment has, no man or woman can have perfect contentment without physical health. The blood must be kept pure and the stomach and digestive organs in good order. The best means for this purpose is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It promptly purges all blood humors and eruptions and tones up the system.

Propagating Chrysanthemums.
The usual method of propagating chrysanthemums is by means of cuttings. If large plants are desired, they are started in January or February, but when large blooms are wanted for exhibition purposes the cuttings are often started as late as May or June, and the plants are grown to single stems and allowed to develop but one flower. In order to grow large and fine flowers, strong and vigorous cuttings will be necessary, and they will be best if they are taken from plants that have not been forced.—American Agriculturist.

For Over Fifty Years.
An old and well tried remedy. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the pain, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. 25 cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

A Farmer's Wife Protests.
We may not be, as the writers say, educated in art, some of us cannot tell the difference between a chromo and an oil painting, but what difference does that make? Looking from our kitchen door, we can see a picture made by nature herself.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.
Herosim and a Boy Hero.
Sometimes it requires more bravery to do a little thing all alone than to do some great thing in company with others. Thus a soldier may be a hero on the field of battle, but lack the courage to stand up alone on a platform and make a speech.

HAVE IT READY

PAINS AND ACHES

Said the man who had traveled:
"Years ago in a western frontier town a traveling footman and weary, arrived one afternoon and made his way down the one street of the burg. He was suddenly startled by the sounds of shot, and, looking up, discovered four men shooting at one another. The men were standing at the four corners of an imaginary square, and each was shooting at the man catcorner to him. Being in what he supposed a safe position, he paused to watch the outcome of the fray, when a bullet, going wide of its intended mark, cut by his ear. That roused his wrath, and, drawing his pistol, he dropped the man in his tracks who had all but dropped him. Another bullet flying wide from its mark, but near to the stranger, caused him to lay out one of the other pair, and the two remaining men sought safety in flight. In that particular town duels had been previously comparatively harmless amusements, owing to the poor marksmanship of the contestants, but the man who could shoot had arrived, and the inhabitants, although they turned out to greet him in a body and granted him the freedom of the city, did so in manifest awe and trepidation.

Conquered the Professor.
The mighty Jowett of Oxford invited a student to walk with him. After they had been on the road for about 20 minutes the pupil finally spunked up courage and remarked, "Nice day, professor."
"Do you really think so?" was the faraway response of Jowett.
Another half hour passed, and the boy remarked out:
"Nice road, professor."
The teacher responded, "Do you really think so?"

The matriculate began to boil in his bones and to get even more frightened, but he managed to again start out, "Clouds seem to be filling up with rain, professor," to which the answer was:
"Do you really think so?"
The two returned to the college ground, and the professor said, "Well, young man, we have been walking for several hours, and everything you said has been as stupid as it possibly could be."

Puzzled the Porter.
The pet dog of a certain actress is shoes, and she never travels without a pair of shoe trees in her satchel. One season she was touring the west. When she went to bed in the Pullman the first night eastward from Butte, she took off her trim walking boots and, as her custom is, slipped the trees into them and set them under the edge of the berth. It was broad daylight when she was awakened by the respectful and somewhat avestricken voice of the porter. She drew the curtains, and looked out into the aisle. The porter was standing there, holding the shoes in his hand.
"Here they is, lady," he said.
"Well, just put them down under the berth please," said she. The man hesitated a moment.
"You wouldn't you put them on by yourself?"
"No, miss," answered the porter, "I means your feet. Ain't these yer things feet?"
Since then she has carried the ghastly looking boot trees in her trunk.—Washington Post.

This most aggravating and tormenting of all skin diseases is caused by an acid condition of the blood, and unless relieved through certain instrumentalities too much of this acid poison reaches the skin and it becomes red and inflamed. The itching and burning are almost unbearable, especially when overheated from any cause. The skin seems on fire, sleep and rest is impossible, the desperate sufferer, regardless of consequences, scratches until strength is exhausted. This burning, itching humor appears sometimes in little pustules, discharging a sticky fluid, which forms crusts and scales. Again the skin is dry, hard and fissured, itches intensely, bleeds and scales over. This is a painful and stubborn form of the disease. While Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum and many like troubles are spoken of as diseases of the skin, they are really blood diseases, because
