Room.
What's life in a city? There's no room to spare. Men are crowded in corners and scanted of air. Too near to be neighbors, too fretful for friends; Each man jostles each, he looks his own side. The noise of the street comes to vex you in bed. The jangle of car bells, the cab whistle shrill, All the hum and the stir and the dust of the mill That is grinding all day and grows louder at night. Crisply against your cheek and hand, delight, Ah, God, for the country, the straying of birds, The laughter of children, the lowing of herds, Green grasses and blue heavens, bright water, Green grass and blue heavens, bright water, And room enough, room enough, room and to spare!

The Dead Hymnwriter.
Where the mountains slope to the westward And the purple of the evening is fading, The new-made wine of the sunset, Crimson and amber gold,
In this old, wide open doorway, With the dim boughe overland, The hymn all guaranteed behind her And the old hymn all overland.

She has stood to welcome our coming, Watching our steps and our coming, In the sweet June weather that brought us, Oh, many and many a time!

Today, in the gentle splendor Of the early summer sun—
Faded in the twilight of fragrance, Although it is hardly June,
Again in her doorway opened, And the hymn is gathered and sweet, And we enter with silent feet.

A little within she is waiting, Not where she has sat as before, For over the plainest threshold She is only to cross once more.

The smile on her face is quiet, And a lily is on her breast; Her hands are folded together, And the word on her lips is "rest."

And yet it looks like a welcome, For her work is compassed and done! All things are surely ready, And her summer is just begun.

It is we who may not cross over; Only with song and prayer, A little way into the glory, We may reach as we leave her there.

But we cannot think of her idle; She must be a hymnwriter still, God gives that work to the angels Who fittest the task fulfill.

And somewhere yet in the hill tops Of the country that hath no pain She will watch in her beautiful doorway To bid us a welcome again.
—Adeline E. D. Whitney.

The Two Roses.
Two roses grew upon a bush Beneath the summer sky, And one, alas, through all the day Would hang his head and sigh! The other raised its crimson bloom When morn had first begun To breathe a tender perfume out And watch the golden sun.

"I felt a raindrop," cried the first, "I drew the angry storm."
"Twas morning dew," replied his friend, "An crystal drop and warm. I felt its soft and gentle kiss As from my leaves it rolled, And, see, the sun has sent a ray To fill it full of gold."

"I felt the wind," the sad one cried, "A hurricane will blow which will uproot me and my side Upon the earth below."
"Twas but the gentle zephyr, friend," the other softly said, "That came across the leafy wood And o'er the primrose bed."

"I see the shadows," cried the first; "The tempest has begun. The heavy clouds are o'er the sky To hide us from the sun. 'Tis but the restful shade of eve," replied the happy rose, "And bent his lovely head to meet The gentle breeze that comes to soothe—
—John Lee in Cassell's Little Polka.

The Great Chain of Protest.
The purport of the hour is vast; The world wants justice; it demands United hearts, united hands; The day of charity are past; Men have outgrown the worthless creed Which bids them deem it God's good will That labor sweat and sweat to fill And fight the pursuit of life greed. They have outgrown the poor content That breeds oppression. Forced by pain, This might chain the human thought, In silence and anguish wrought, Encompasses the pulsing world.

And he who will not form a link Of new conditions soon to be, Eye long must stand agast and see Old systems crumbling down the break. They cannot and they shall not last; The broader impulse of the day Will lead us to sweep away The rank injustice of the past. More labor for the selfish few, More leisure for the hardhearted class— These things shall surely come to pass As old conditions change to new. They change through toil and strain and strife; Work for all men, for all men rest; And time to taste the joys of life.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Wishing.
Do you wish the world were better? Let me tell you what to do: Mix a match upon your selfishness, Keep them always straight and true. Bid your mind of selfish motives; Let your thought be keen and high. You can make a little Eden Of the sphere you occupy.

Do you wish the world were wiser? Well, suppose you make a start By accumulating wisdom To the scrapbook of your heart. Do not waste one page on folly; Live to learn and learn to live. If you want to give new knowledge, You must get it ere you give.

Do you wish the world were happier? Then remember day by day Just to scatter seeds of kindness As you pass along the way. For the pleasure of the many May be oftentimes traced to one As the hand that plants an acorn Shoots its arrow from the sun.
—Youth's Companion.

The Kiss of Children.
The kiss of little children makes The hope of endless better things. It stirs our hearts till memory sings To kiss—along her path and make Us labor for the truth that breaks The crown the kiss of children brings.
—G. G. Rivers in New Zealand Magazine.

I Coughed

"I had a most stubborn cough for many years. It deprived me of sleep and I grew very thin. I then tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was quickly cured."
R. N. Mann, Fall Mills, Tenn.

Sixty years of cures and such testimony as the above have taught us what Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will do.
We know it's the greatest cough remedy ever made. And you will say so, too, after you try it. There's cure in every drop.

Three sizes: 75c, enough for an ordinary cold; $1.00, just right for bronchitis, hoarseness, and all colds; $2.00, for chronic cases and to keep on hand.

BREVITIES

PERSONALITIES.
Queen Liliuokalani has sent to Father McGee of Washington an altar cloth worked in gold, with lace trimmings. Magistrate Mott of New York in a late case before him decided that a man is intoxicated so long as he is able to run. To his other numerous accomplishments President Roosevelt is said to add those of a clever amateur actor and a more than acceptable singer. Professor Hubert Herkimer, although generally accounted an Englishman, is really a Bavarian. He refuses to accept money from his art pupils and is an enthusiastic cricketer. The queen of Roumania is interesting herself at present in improving the architectural qualities of the theaters in her husband's domains and also in raising the standard of dramatic performances. What's in a name? Mrs. Isabella Toothaker of Argentine, Kan., writes poetry; Rainey Day is running a livery stable in an Iowa town; Brand New is one of the oldest men in Washington county, O. A German nerve specialist, Dr. Ernest Liebmann, publishes an article in one of the Vienna medical journals in which he takes the position that bad grammar is a disease and may be cured by proper remedies. The example set by Adjutant General Corbin since his return from China and the Philippines of wearing his uniform while on duty at the war department is being gradually followed by other army officers on duty at that department. The grave of former Governor Jonathan Jennings at Christown, Ind., the first delegate to congress from the Indiana territory and the framer of the Indiana constitution prohibiting slavery, has been marked by the state with a large granite monument. Less than 1 per cent of the land in Norway is in use for grainfields. Wages in Spain hardly incline to be excessive in amount. A man who works on a farm receives about 25 cents a day. In the vineyards wages range from 14 cents for women and boys to 21 cents for unskilled men and to 42 or 66 cents for those upon whose skill the whole responsibility of the crop rests. One-fifth of the population of Germany is engaged in industries concerned in the export trade. The Turks. At the bottom of the wonderful physical vitality of the Turkish race is the universal abstinence of the common people. They are the most abstemious race on the earth and the healthiest. The soldiers, peasants, merchants and members of the learned professions never touch alcohol. Potatoes. Potatoes form the world's greatest staple crop, 4,000,000,000 bushels being produced annually, equal in bulk to the entire wheat and corn crop. Hamburg Pupils. A teacher in a Hamburg school questioned his pupils and found that among 129 there were 58 who had never seen a flock of sheep, 99 who had never heard a nightingale, 89 who had never seen a sunrise and 33 who had not seen a sunset. Scotch Deer Forests. Deer forests are much more expensive in Scotland than grouse moors. They range from $1,000 to $4,000 or even $5,000 for the season, according to the sport obtained and whether the place gives salmon fishing and grouse shooting as well as deerstalking.

THE TROUBLESOME CORN.

How to Treat This Painful Growth on the Foot.
A corn is an overgrowth of the horny layer of some portion of the skin of the foot induced by friction or under pressure in one spot by the shoe, says Youth's Companion. It is situated generally on a prominent portion of one of the toes, more commonly the little toe, but may be on the sole of the foot or even on the ankle bone. The first thing to do for a corn is to get new shoes that are so snug as not to rub the foot anywhere and so loose as not to make pressure in one spot more than in another. The top of the corn may be pared with a sharp knife, extreme care being taken, especially in the case of the aged, not to cut the sound skin, or it may be filed down to the level of the surrounding skin, or the entire corn may sometimes be loosened with a dull knife blade or by the finger nail and extracted from its bed. When this cannot be done, removal may be facilitated by moistening the corn every other day with glacial acetic acid, the softened part being subsequently scraped away with a dull knife or a small file. A salve containing salicylic acid applied every night will also frequently loosen the corn so that it can be pulled out. This is the basis of many of the popular corn plasters. A soft corn, which is merely a corn that is always moist on account of its location on the inner surface of one of the toes, should be treated by keeping a piece of absorbent cotton between the toes so as to prevent maceration and by bathing it frequently with strong alum water.

How to Buy Oilcloth.
In buying an oilcloth for a floor endeavor to obtain one that was manufactured several years before, as the longer it has been made previous to use the better it will wear, from the paint becoming hard and durable. An oilcloth that has been made within the year is scarcely worth buying, as the paint will be defaced in a very little time, it requiring a long while to season. An oilcloth should never be scrubbed with a brush, but after being first swept it should be cleaned by washing with a large soft cloth and lukewarm or cold water. On no account use soap or take water that is hot, as either of them will certainly bring off the paint. When it has dried, you may sponge it with milk, which will brighten and preserve the colors, and then wipe it with a soft, dry cloth.

How to Make Hash.
Vegetable hash as usually made uses the vegetables left from a boiled dinner, such as cabbage, potatoes, beets, carrots and parsnips. For one quart of the vegetables about half a cupful of stock and one tablespoonful of butter should be used. Meat hash is sometimes varied by the addition of rice. Often to a beef and potato hash Spanish sweet peppers are added, together with chopped onion. A beef hash is much improved by tomato sauce.

How to Boil Vegetables.
A cooking teacher's directions for boiling vegetables, even onion, cabbage or cauliflower, without filling the house with an unpleasant smell are to cover the vegetables with boiling salted water and stand the kettle aside, where they cannot boil rapidly again, until tender. It is the steam, according to this authority, that is driven off by rapid boiling that carries away not only the odor, but the flavor of vegetables.

How to Clean Silver.
Save the water in which your potatoes have been boiled and as you clean the table lay the silver knives, forks and spoons in the kettle of potato water until ready to wash them. Wash in hot soap and rub thoroughly on a dry, soft towel. If this custom is followed, the weekly silver cleaning may be extended to a month, the silver meanwhile remaining in good condition.

How to Make Dark Fruit Cake.
One cupful of butter, two cupfuls of brown sugar, one cupful of molasses, six cupfuls of flour, one cupful of nuts, three eggs, one teaspoonful of soda, one pound of raisins, one pound of currants, two ounces of citron or lemon peel, three nutmegs and one teaspoonful of all kinds of spices. Bake one hour in a slow oven.

BLACK TURKEYS.

Their Present Standing With Reference to Size and Color.
Could the writer impress upon the minds of farmers in general the importance of this branch of farm life there would be more homes made beautiful and tasty where now the means to do this are lacking. There is no branch of poultry raising in which one can realize more from the capital invested. To raise turkeys successfully and for profit they must be hatched early. It is best to use turkey hens, as they invariably make better mothers, caring for the young poults much more carefully than domestic hens. One of the most promising varieties, the blacks, are being bred in large numbers in some sections at the present time. The modern black turkey is nearly equal to the bronze in size. The old style blacks were not only inferior in size, but poor in quality. However, by careful breeding and handling and with an infusion of new blood they have been greatly improved in size and general makeup. To attain their present weights and general characteristics there is no question whatever, but more or less bronze blood has been judiciously used. From a market standpoint there is no question but the blacks will dress lower and even plumper than any other standard variety. The standard weights of black turkeys are: Cocks, 27 pounds; hens, 18 pounds; cockerels, 20 to 24 pounds and cock birds 30 or over. The standard requires males and females to be lustrous black throughout, but it is a difficult matter to secure young birds with solid colored plumage, as more or less feathers in wings will invariably be tipped with white. This will usually disappear at maturity. Good strains of blacks are strictly hardy, their eggs hatch well, and they are fully as good layers as the bronze or white. They are very docile in their habits and are not inclined to ramble as much as other varieties. The young grow rapidly from the start, and at selling time always command the top of the market. The head and neck should be long and broad and of good shape; eyes bright and hazel; neck of medium length and well curved; back broad, of good length and highest in the center and curved the shape of an egg. The breast should be broad, deep and full; body of good length and round in outline; wings of good length and snugly folded against the sides; tail of medium length and when folded comparatively small. Thighs, shanks and toes should be of good length, with strong bone and perfectly straight.—Charles McClave in Reliable Poultry Journal.

Ransoms.
In medieval times not only were living prisoners ransomed by their friends, but a ransom was demanded even for the bodies of those slain in action.

Punta Arenas.
Punta Arenas, the capital of Tierra del Fuego, owes its rapid development to sheep raising and gold washing. The sheep of this region appear to be native to it. The wool is longer, more silky and tougher than Argentine wool and is not greasy. It finds a ready sale.

Tangier.
Most of Morocco is "more oriental than the orient itself," but Tangier has become modernized so much and so many Christians live there that it is regarded as "unclean" by the Moors.

Long Armed.
Edward I. was 6-feet 2 inches high, and it is said that the tips of his middle fingers extended below his knees.

Quacks in Germany.
Besides about 24,000 legitimate physicians there are in the German empire nearly 6,000 individuals who are allowed to carry on the nefarious business of quacks. As they appeal to the ignorant, who are everywhere in a majority, they constitute a serious menace to the medical profession.

Beehives.
The hives of bees should not be set on high benches, but close to the ground.
