Save the Children.

Statistics will prove that a large percentage of deaths among children may be traced to complications arising from the early souring of milk by bacteria. Cholera Infantum is the most fatal disease of infancy, and common, especially with bottle fed infants. Perry Davis' Painkiller in the emergency is the best remedy and saves many a child's life while the doctor is coming. 25 and 50 cent bottles.

His Bad Record.

"There goes a man with a mighty bad record."
"You don't say! He doesn't look criminal."
"Who said criminal? He's a bicycle racer who has never done better than a mile in 2:47."—Baltimore News.

Breakers Ahead.

Antule anxiously—Do you think you have and the proper training for a postman's wife?
Sweet girl—Yes, indeed. Papa hasn't given me any spending money worth mentioning for years. I always get things myself.—Exchange.

Income.

Doesn't make properly if the expense are greater. Did you ever figure out what sickness costs you per year? doctor's bills, medicine bills, etc., etc., to say nothing of the suffering. Rheumatism strikes like a knife in the back if left alone; with Perry Davis' Painkiller the terrores of this disease are headed off. Painkiller relieves muscular cramps, lumbago, neuralgia and rheumatism. 25 and 50 cent bottles.

Final Settlement.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE UNDERSIGNED, administrator of the estate of Malena V. Wagner, deceased, has filed his final account as such administrator in the county clerk's office in this county, Oregon, and that said account has been audited and approved by the court on the 28th day of June, 1922, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day and all persons having objections to the same are notified to present them to said court on or before said day.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Choose the Way,
There's a way to the right and a way to the wrong,
A way for the weak and a way for the strong,
Two ways that forever at each day's dawn
Are present for men to go treading on.
One way is the way where, in many a cow,
Stand the trees upon which the forbidden
fruits grow,
And one leads along through the cares of the day
Where duty goes calling and calling away.
The way to the right and the way to the wrong
Diverge at the start, nor the weak nor the strong,
Nor the pitiful slave nor the monarch sublime
May travel both ways at the same time.
—S. E. Kiser.

Heroes and Heroics.
We give unstinted praise to the man
Who is brave enough to die,
But the man who struggles unflinchingly
Against the currents of destiny
And bears the storm of adversity
We pass unnoticed by.

We've plaudits and tears for him who falls,
Borne down in the shock of strife,
But a word of cheer we neglect to say
To him who plods on his dreary way
And fights in silence from day to day
The unseen battles of life.

There's courage, I grant, required to face
Grim death on the gory field;
There's also courage required to meet
Life's burden and sorrow, to brave defeat,
To strive with evil and not retreat,
To suffer and not to yield.

Some moments are there in every life
When the spirit longs for rest,
When the heart is filled with a bleak despair,
When the weight of trouble, remorse and care
Seems really greater than we can bear
And death were a welcome guest.

But we crush it down and we go our way
To the duties that lie in wait,
From day to day we renew the fight,
To resist the wrong and to seek the right,
To climb at last to the sun crowned height
And to climb o'er time and fate.

And thus—for my heart goes out to them—
My mood of praise I would give
To those who struggle life's path along,
The host of toil, who are patient, strong,
The unwearyed, unnumbered throng
Who brave enough to live.
—Denver News.

The Opulence of Content.

I am not rich in leaps of yellow gold,
But when the bubbling bobolink has told
His dreaming of the twilight in the morn,
My heart o'ertows, so much of joy I hold,
I am not clothed in scarlet robes of kings,
But when the crimson cardinal so sings
That song and raiment flash at once on me,
I have the emine sweet without the stings.

Not mine the learning of some men that are,
But when I hear a lamkin from the pit my joy
Is great as I had found an unknown star,
I have not essies, lands nor gems of art;
But not for these would I my treasure part,
Content enough to fill my soul with peace,
An overflow of gladness for my heart.
—Alysius Colt in Success.

Love's Choice.

Though it were given to me to choose domains,
On any of a thousand spheres designed
Of splendors unimagined by the mind,
Where might be known of poverty or pain,
But pure and pangless pleasures did obtain,
And there did dwell the fairest woman-kind,
Mid sweetest odors wafted on the wind
With music of a soft and soothing strain,
Yet would I hold such surely proffered bliss,
But lightly as a dream's delusive rave
And turn to this dull earth without repine.
If, as I tolled obscurely to the grave
Along the verge of ruin's precipice,
I held one loving hand—and it were thine!
—St. James Gazette.

The Last Inn.

Some day I'll come to that still place
And bid the winter smooth my bed,
No hurry of departure there,
No waking when the morn is red.
The same kind trees will sing to me
Day after day, night after night;
The wind that wanders in the grass
Will bring no tidings of the light.
From that still history of rest
I'll think the seasons pass along
And clean forget the things unwon,
The pain of the unfinished song.
No man will come when dawn is chill
(The false hopes of my dreams to break);
To tell me that the horses wait
Of some post that I must take.
Night will not find me journeying
(Where pallid roads in dusk are set)
On some fool's errand down the world,
Hag ridden by an old regret.
Noon will not find me blustering
About the anterooms of kings,
A mediator, caring not what comes,
But junketing with many things.
Some day I'll turn my horse's head
To that still history of rest
And vex no more the south and north
With matters of the east and west.
—Theodore Roberts in Independent.

A Sternuous Life.

"I suppose a public man has to read a great deal," said the thoughtful man.
"Yes," answered Senator Sorensen; "the demand for anecdotes is so great now that a man has to keep digging in the library all the time in order to keep up the supply of stories about himself."
—Washington Star.

Scotch Consolation.

A story is told of a canny Scot who went in old horses, alternating his spells of labor with heavy sleeps. During the period of depression which followed each overindulgence John habitually took to bed and there diligently studied the family Bible. During one of these fits of attempted reformation his condition prompted his wife to call in the Rev. Mr. Wallace, the parish minister, who at the time happened to be passing.
"Oh, Minister Wallace, come in and see our John. He's real bad."
"What's wrong with him?"
"He's feart to meet his Makker," said Mrs. John.
Quick as fire came the crushing reply:
"Humph! Tell'm he needna be feart for that. He'll never see'm!"

The Home of the Kindergarten.

The Japanese have the most perfect kindergarten system in the world. In fact, they originated this method of instructing by entertainment instead of by punishment. Their play apparatus for such purposes is elaborate, but all of it is adapted to the infant mind, which it is designed at once to amuse and to instruct. The little ones of Japan even become somewhat interested in mathematics by seeing and feeling what a pretty thing a cone, a sphere or a cylinder is when cut out of wood.

Sheriff of Palk County Oregon.

ACKNOWLEDGED THE CORN

A Popular Expression That Had Its Origin in Congress.
The following is the origin of "I acknowledge the corn," which is used in the sense of admitting failure or having been outwitted: In 1828 Andrew Stewart was in congress discussing the principles of protection and said in the course of his remarks that Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana sent their haystacks, cornfields and fodder to New York and Philadelphia markets to sell. Charles A. Wickliffe jumped up and said: "Why, that is absurd, Mr. Speaker. I call the gentleman to order. He is stating an absurdity. We never send haystacks or cornfields to New York or Philadelphia."
"Well, what do you say?" asked Stewart.
"We send," replied Wickliffe, "horses, cattle, hogs and mules."
"Well," continued Stewart, "what makes your horses, cattle, hogs and mules? You feed $100 worth of hay to a horse; you get on top of your haystack and ride off to market. How about your cattle? You make every one carry $50 worth of hay or grass to an eastern market. You send a hog worth $10 to market. How much corn at 33 cents a bushel does it take to fatten it? Why, thirty bushels. Then you put thirty bushels of corn into the shape of a hog and make it walk to an eastern market."
Before Stewart could proceed further Wickliffe arose and said, "Mr. Speaker, I acknowledge the corn."
—Theodore Roberts in Independent.

Parents' Responsibility

It is the right of every child to be well born, and to the parents it must look for health and happiness. How inconceivably great is the parents' responsibility, and how important that no taint of disease is left in the blood to be transmitted to the helpless child, entailing the most painful suffering, and marking its little body with offensive sores and eruptions, catarrh of the nose and throat, weak eyes, glandular swellings, brittle bones, white swelling and deformity.

SSS

There is no remedy that so surely reaches deep-seated, stubborn blood troubles as S. S. S. It searches out even hereditary poisons, and removes every taint from the blood, and builds up the general health. If weaklings are growing up around you, right the wrong by putting them on a course of S. S. S. at once. It is a purely vegetable medicine, harmless in its effects, and can be taken by both old and young without fear of any bad results.

RIPANS

Ripans Tabules are a common sense, effectual cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, heartburn, headache, constipation, dizziness and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. They are intended for the use of men, women and children everywhere, and have proved beneficial in the majority of cases. It is not claimed that they will perform miracles, but some of the cures which they have effected amount almost to that. Easy to take and prompt in action, they have no rival as the best remedy for the every-day ills of humanity.

A MEDICINE WHICH PROLONGS LIFE.

"I have used Ripans Tabules for a number of years and would not be without them. I was troubled with indigestion and constipation, and have noticed since I have been using them that I am getting rid of those terrible bilious attacks which used to bedevil me on account of the disease. Of late I have not had any. I had just got over a bad spell of bilious fever and was sitting on the sofa, when a neighbor came to me and remarked how well I looked. I told him I had just got over the fever and that I was afraid to eat anything on account of indigestion, from which I had suffered since I was quite young. He advised me to take Ripans Tabules, and I would try them, and when I haven't been without them, I can eat anything, providing I finish with a Tabule instead of dessert. I feel very thankful that I have found something that will bring me life."

MAKING A CHICK THINK.

Contrary to the General Belief, It Seems to Have Some Sense.
In 1896 I made a great many experiments with young chicks, testing their ability to learn a variety of performances, such as getting out of a box by pecking at a certain spot on a door or by pulling down a string with their necks, escaping from a pen by going up a ladder or by following an intricate path through a maze, etc., writes Professor Edward L. Thorndike of Columbia University in The International Monthly for February. They learn readily to abandon those acts which bring discomfort and to emphasize those which are successful in securing them food, shelter, warmth and the companionship of their fellows.

Their learning, like that of the fishes, is essentially a process of selection. For instance, a chick is confined in a cage from which it can escape only by pecking at a certain spot and so opening the door. It sees the other chicks and food outside and reacts to the situation (confinement) according to its inborn organization by running about, peeping, jumping at the walls, trying to squeeze through any of the openings and pecking at the barriers confining it. The chick feels a score or more of impulses to a score or more acts. If its reactions include one particular act—namely, a peck at a certain spot—it of course escapes.

This one act is followed by freedom, food and general comfort. The other acts resulted only in a continuance of the unpleasant solitary confinement. If after the chick has enjoyed freedom while we put it into the cage again, we have a repetition of the first event, except that the chick is likely to run and peep and jump and squeeze less and to peck at the door sooner. If we continue this process, so that the chick is again and again confronted by the situation—"confinement in a box of such and such appearance"—it constantly decreases the useless acts and performs the suitable one sooner and sooner until finally it pecks at the spot immediately whenever put into that box. It has learned, we say, to get out of the box by pecking at a certain spot.

The Farmer's Flock.

Any farmer who will improve his chickens to almost any attainable degree of productiveness, if productiveness is what he wants, by using always a pure bred cock of the same breed and by careful culling of the hens. As the farmer has no particular use for standard markings, these may be disregarded except to secure uniformity in coloring and size to suit in selling live fowls. The farmer wants eggs and flesh, consequently he should retain as breeders the best layers and the full breasted, broad backed ones. There can be no question as to the possibility of greatly increasing the laying capacity of fowls by selecting for that purpose. By this method a yard of common hens can be reduced to a sufficient degree of uniformity for all practical purposes and a degree of productiveness that cannot be obtained by breeding and selecting for standard markings only. It is better, however, to begin with all pure bred, both male and female, for then the desired uniformity is already attained, but if eggs and table fowls are the things desired then cull and mate and breed for them and let the standard points alone. Standard points are for breeders' use and are all right for them, but standard points don't bring the mouse on the retail market. Breed for what is wanted. That is the only sensible plan.

Clothing a Hen.

An old hen belonging to Mrs. M. A. Stormont began laying late in the fall and was so persistent that she laid twenty-six eggs before she concluded to stop. During all this time she had neglected her molting, and when she finally got ready to shed her feathers it was in the middle of winter, but the old ones had lost their life and were dry and harsh, consequently there was no other way but to make the change. In a short time she was almost bare and suffering from the cold. The Misses Stormont, seeing her predicament and appreciating the value of her service rendered, determined to come to her rescue. They accordingly took the old hen into the house, took her measurements, made her a suit of flannels to fit and then released her. Her ladyship took the matter philosophically and insisted off to her companions, apparently very comfortable in her new suit.—Kirkwood (Ill.) Leader.

For Chicken Cholera.

A correspondent in the Ohio Farmer claims that grated chalks root mixed with yeast crumbs and made into small boluses is a sure cure for chicken cholera. Force the boluses down the throat of the sick fowl.

He proposes establishing offices in Pittsburgh. The Industrial Federation of America was formed some time ago, with a capitalization of $500,000. It has acquired 4,000 acres of land lying between Brooklyn and Rockaway Beach, and the intention is to establish there a vast industrial community.
