Something for Mothers to Think About.

Lives of Suffering and Sorrow Averted

And Happiness and Prosperity Assured by Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills When All Else Fails.

Every child born into the world with an inherited or early developed tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, scalp and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering, but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of perity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest and most effective treatment available, viz., The Cuticura Treatment. Warm baths with Cuticura Soap to cleanse the skin and scale of crusts and scales, gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent Pills, to cool the blood in the severer cases, are all that can be desired for the cases, are all that can be desired for the alleviation of the suffering of skin tor-tured infants and children, and the comtured infants and children, and the comfort of worn-out parents.

Millions of women use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of failing hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands,
for baby rashes, itchings and chafings,
in the form of washes for annoying irritations and inflammations, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves.

BABY'S FUTURE THE DOCTOR WHO LEFT

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.] In the old days there were a couple of hundred of us at Turkey Bend and no doctor within thirty miles of the camp. Now and then a miner fell sick and died, but we argued that his time had come and he couldn't have been saved anyhow. There was a pot of tar for cuts, a pot of grease for sprains and bruises, and if any one felt that his internal economy needed bracing up be went out and dug bearwood or gathered bark from a tree. If a miner was really ill, his tent mate nursed him as well as possible, which consisted in washing his feet, cutting his hair and asking him whether he wanted to be buried on the hillside or in the valley. but it was considered a point of honor not to fall sick. Now and then a stray doctor passed through the Bend and left a few doses of calomel or quinine behind, but we were not prepared for the surprise when a stranger sat down among us one day and announced that was "Jim Ford, phys, surg and

We accepted the explanation, and he was next called in to see a miner named Dobbs. As near Yale. as we could learn, the dose was made up of rosin. black pepper and bacon grease, and perhaps the fever killed Dobbs instead of the medicine. At any rate, he died in a couple of weeks, and the doctor could not have saved him important professorship in the country, a the doctor could not have saved him. Two other miners were taken ill, treated and sent to their long homes within the next fortnight, and then we began to have doubts of the skill of Dr. Ford, He was treating Tom Holden for what he diagnosed as a "redundant consideration of the liver" and Tom was growing stendily worse when old Joe Hurly put up a job. He was as healthy as a whale and as hard as flints, but he went to bed and sent for the doctor, and the doctor said to him;

"I can save you, but it will be a close call. I find that the nuricle has a tendency to crowd the cartilage, and the cerebellum is moving over to replace the sciatic plexus. It will be a month before you can be out again."

But it wasn't. It wasn't more than minute before he was up and out and his boot was striking the "phys. surg and doe" where it would do the most good. The fellow went without protest, and he went at his best speed, and when we came to overhaul his traps we found his remaining stock of medicines to consist of two ounces of epsom salts and a bottle of hair dye." CATARRH

The treatment of Catarrh with antiseptic and astringent washes, lotions, salves, medicated tobacco and cigarettes or any external or local application, is just as senseless as would be kindling a fire on top of the pot to make it boil. True, these give temporary relief, but the cavities and passages of the head and the bronchial tubes soon fill up again with mucus.

Taking cold is the first step towards Catarrh, for it checks perspiration, and the poisonous acids and vapors which should pass off through the skin, are thrown back upon the mucous membrane or inner skin, producing inflammation and excessive flow of mucus, much of which is absorbed into the blood, and through the circulation reaches every part of the system, involving the Stomach, Kidneys and other parts of the body. When the disease assumes the dry form, the breath ecomes exceedingly foul, blinding headaches are frequent, the eyes red, hearing affected and a constant ringing in the ears. No remedy that does not reach the polluted blood can cure Catarrh. S. S. S. expels from the circulation all offensive matter, and when rich, pure mucous membranes become healthy and the skin circulation all offensive matter, and when rich, pure blood is again coursing through the body the mucous membranes become healthy and the skin active, all the disagreeable, painful symptoms disappear, and a permanent, thorough cure is effected. pear, and a permanent, thorough cure is effected. Compass That Steers by Stars. One of the most important and farreaching inventions to the maritime world ever recorded, says the San Francisco Call, has been patented by Captain Robert T. Lawless of the steamship Australia of the Oceanic Steamship company. The Lawless invention is called a "stellar compass" and "great circle course projector." By this invention Captain Lawless asserts it is possible to steer a ship after dusk by fixing the compass on a particular star, thereby insuring the straight course of the vessel throughout the night. When once fixed on a certain star, the new invention will hold to it until shifted to another point. Great things are expected by the maritime captain says: "In my compass simplicity and usefulness are the strongest recommendations to the sentaring community. THIS VERY FAST AGE. Still Dissatisfied In Spite of Our Tremendous Speed Development. The more civilized men become the more restless. The aboriginal brother was never in a hurry, but he managed to get around to his last resting place on time.

It is said that the old Dutch galleyman of the last century was always satisfied if he got to the West Indies in his slow moving "yacht" in a year. We now cross the ocean in less than six days, but are no better satisfied than the mariner of old. Recently the Kronprinz Wilhelm made the voyage from Cherbourg to New York in five days, eleven hours and fifty-seven minutes, making an average gait of 23.09 knots. Her owners are no better satisfied than though she had not beaten her own best previous performance by three hours. They are still looking for another record. We now have a running horse that does a mile in 1:37 4-5. A great trotter has been nearly blowing its lungs out to make a mile within two minutes f r some time past. Vanderbilt's automo-bile has been driven a mile in 43 3-5 seconds. Great locomotives now will pull heavy express trains a mile a min-

Not less wonderful are our records of speed on the water. A short time ago the Arrow steamed a mile in less than 1m. 20s. Other rivals had formerly crept up to nearly the speed, but the Arrow now bears the champion's record. Her record means that she can travel forty-five miles an hour, which is the speed of an ordinary locomotive, and if it could be made more continuous would send her to Europe in three

On the strength of the Arrow's performances they are now figuring on three day ship to Europe and say that the plan is very feasible. It is a mere question of mathematics to lay out a ship after the pattern of the Arrow 700 feet long and with a proportional driving power that would send her across from New York to Liverpool in three days. On paper we already have it.-Detroit Free Press.
