Considerable interest was manifested at our telephone meeting last week B. F. Smith, James Withrow, Henry Berry, C. E. Staats and J. H. Hawley were made a committee to interview the farmers in regard to the constructing of a telephone line from Suver, via Lewisville to Monmouth, they to report next Wednesday. Everybody invited to be present then.

Mrs. C. E. Staats is at Corvallis attending their daughter, Eva, who was severely injured by an explosion in laboratory at the college recently.

Rev. Lindsay has gone to Kings Valley to assist in conducting a series of meetings there.

We have church here every Sunday—Rev. Hains preaches the second and fourth; and Rev. Lindsay the first and third Sundays.

Rough winter weather causes many animals to get sick and they need doctors the same as persons. Veterinary Surgeon Keeler has had much successful experience in such cases.

At the close of the fall and winter season G. W. Johnson & Co. find themselves with broken lots of men's, boys and children's clothing of which they must and should get rid at any price. Ten dollar suits for $7, and $8 suits for $6. Their low prices are magnetic and sure to draw customers.

Whoever has lived in or around Dallas for many years knows that Paul's hardware store ranks among the very best in the valley. By keeping superior goods in all lines and selling them at fair prices, he has gradually increased and extended his trade until now it embraces every neighborhood in the county and many patrons from beyond. Trade there and you will never regret it.

Wedding, birthday and other occasions frequently call for the bestowal of gifts. It is doubtful what to give to the Morris jewelry store and you will see many appropriate articles.

Campbell & Robinson, the popular livermen, would like for you to give them a chance to prove what satisfactory service they can and will give. Many teams from the country put up there.

There is but one exclusive shoe store in town, it being owned by Mrs. J. C. Gaynor. As would naturally be supposed, she carries larger and more varied assortments than other stores can afford.

For the greatest variety of vegetables, either green or canned, go to Dunn's grocery. They receive fresh cracker every few days. Pure cider vinegar and a variety of syrups.

The stage from Salem always comes loaded with things for Dallas people.

Mr. Chace is selling trimmed hats at greatly reduced prices to clear them out and give room for spring goods. He is selling coats to very cheap and has a variety of furnishing goods for women and children.

You should buy Dallas flour because no better comes from anywhere else. Order your feed for cows and horses from the Dallas flouring mill. Buck wheat and rye flour.

At Quinn's meat market, they always have poultry and fresh meat. Try their sausage for a change. They are very particular in filling meat orders. Everything clean.

No matter what kind of a book you want, Wilson's drug store has it or will procure it in short order. Physicians' prescriptions, carefully filled and exorbitant charges, never made. Pens, ink, paper and envelopes of different kinds. Cough medicines that will give you relief.

Now while eggs are high your hens should be laying and at Ulrey's feed store they have stuff guaranteed to make them do it. He carries all sorts of stock feed.

Across the street from the postoffice is a sale and feed stable of which all speak in praise. The proprietors conduct their business in an up-to-date manner and never give patrons any cause to grumble.

Dallas never had a better gunsmith than Mr. Riser around on Mill street. He puts up ammunition in the most effective proportions and manner. He can mend almost anything.

Promptness, courtesy and liberality are cardinal virtues in the grocery business which in part are shown by Dunn Bros., being so popular. No customer is ever slighted.

W. R. Craven and Dunn Bros. purchased 10,000 pounds of apples that were nicely covered at Rickard's.

A KEEPSAKE

If ever your thoughts turn to buying a keepsake for some loved one—mother, sister, wife or sweetheart—we hope your thoughts will turn also to this store, for no place in town is so richly stored with keepsakes of the true sort—those that are pretty and charming and will always remain so. We sell no gift wares that in after years will reflect discredit to the giver. So called "cheap jewelry" is not to be found in this store. Only the worthy kind is truly cheap, and only the worthy kind is here for sale.

BARR'S JEWELRY STORE

Corner State and Liberty streets, Salem. Leaders in Low Prices.

INVITATIONS FROM SALEM.

Strong's restaurant will be headquarters for many during this session of the legislature.

Ostrander's drug store next to Dunn's grocery is a good place for all Polk county people to trade. Everything fresh and good and prices low enough.

The New York Backet store is the most strictly cash store in town. They trust nobody and make no bad debts, hence they always have ready cash to buy at a discount, and can do all cheaper than the average store. Their business is continually increasing as they become better known.

Many members of the legislature say that the George lunch counter meals are good enough for them.

It never pays to have a poor picture taken because it don't cost much. The Cronise gallery over Dalrymple's store is noted for always taking photographs of which the owners and their friends can feel proud.

Rough winter weather causes many animals to get sick and they need doctors the same as persons. Veterinary Surgeon Keeler has had much successful experience in such cases.

County Poultry Association.

Their exhibition was in connection with the goat and sheep show, they occupying the second story of the woolen mill building. There were Silver Gray Dorkings shown by C. D. Nairn, D. C. Crider and L. V. Lynch, while John Shaw, A. G. Rempel, J. D. Smith, L. V. Lynch and M. B. Grant had Brown Leghorns, and Jas. Boydston R. C. Comb Brown Leghorns, barred Plymouth Rocks were on exhibition by J. W. Robinson, O. E. Dennis, Arant Ebbert, James Elliott, John Shaw and M. B. Grant. Mr. Moore had Buff Cochins and C. C. Jacobs Black Langshans. Rocks were shown by Harry Butz and John Farley, and White Rocks by Jas. Boydston, J. J. Wiseman had White Minorcas and Mr. Haskins brought Black Minorcas. There were White Leghorns from the pens of H. L. Crider and Walter Muir and both Red and White Games were on exhibition by Dunn Bros. Blue Andalusians came from the homes of D. M. Calbreath, Zim Hinshaw and John Wiseman, and J. S. Macomber had some White Bantams. The White Wyandottes belonged to H. L. Fenton and J. C. Adams. The Silver Hamburgs to Mr. Boydston and the Golden Spangled Bantams to Ralph Digby. L. D. Mulkey, of Amity, passed judgment on the merits of the different birds. While some of them were commonplace, nearly all were of a high grade, proving that this county has laid the foundation for great excellence in the matter of poultry. There were several coops of very fine Bronze turkeys, but we failed to get the names of the owners. At the close of the exhibition a county Poultry Association was formed with L. V. Lynch for president, H. L. Crider secretary and J. D. Smith treasurer. There are many fine birds in different parts of the county that were not on exhibition. The number of fine chickens and turkeys in the county is constantly increasing, and this association will create an additional spirit of progress along the poultry line.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Last Friday night's basketball game with McMinnville was won by Dallas by a score of 30 to 3, and both sides judged it the fairest, fastest and most brilliant game they had ever seen.

The drama given last week for the benefit of the basket ball team was a success in every respect.

Prof. Meisger has had a severe cold for several weeks.

Death of Alonzo Brown.

He was born in 1854 at the home of his father, W. C. Brown, near Dallas, and died last Monday at the Salem Sanitarium, where he had gone for a surgical operation. With the exception of a few years in Eastern Oregon in the stock business, his life had been spent here. For some years he had the mail contract between here and Salem, and for six years he was a member of the Dallas public school board. He had been in the mercantile business, first with his father and more recently with M. M. Ellis, and was one of the trustees of the South Methodist church. As a business man he stood high and was the enemy of all shams in business, politics or religion. Some 25 years ago he married Miss Jane Shaw, with her daughter Maud, aged 19, survives him, also his father, his brothers John, Joe and Henry, and sister Mrs. Ann Kersey. Wednesday afternoon the college, public school and all business houses were closed during the funeral, which was conducted by the Odd Fellows, the sermon being preached by Rev. A. A. Winter. Perhaps a hundred persons were turned away from the church for lack of seating or even standing room. A motor took three carloads of friends to the Brown cemetery north of town. The family felt most grateful for the many tokens of tender kindness.
