Shia Humours, Scalp Humours, Hair Humours.

Whether Simple Scrofulous or Hereditary

Speedily Cured by Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills,

When All Other Remedies and Best Physicians Fail. COMPLETE TREATMENT, $1.00.

In the treatment of torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly, crusted, pimply, blotchy and scrofulous humours of the blotchy and scrofulous humours of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills have been wonderfully successful. Even the most obstinate of constitutional humours, such as bad blood, scrofula, inherited and contagious humours, with loss of hair, glandular swellings, ulcerous patches in the throat and mouth, sore eyes, copper-colored blotches, as well as boils, carbuncles, scurvy, sties, ulcers and sores arising from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, yield to the Cuticura Treatment, when all other remedies and methods when all other remedies and methods fail.

And greater still, if possible, is the wonderful record of cures of torturing, disfiguring humours among infants and children. The suffering which Cuticura Soap and Ointment have alleviated among the young, and the comfort they have afforded worn-out and worried parents, have led to their adoption in countless homes as priceless curatives for the skin and blood. Infantile and birth humours, milk crust, seall and birth humours, milk crust, scall head, eczema, rashes and every form of head, eczena, rashes and every form of itching, scaly, pimply skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infancy and childhood, are speedily, perma-nently and economically cured when all other remedies suitable for children, and even the best physicians, fail.

In searching for the cause of admitted faults in market and particularly in breeding stock the investigator nust go to the feed coffers as well as the herdbook or flock register, says Breeder's Gazette. Much of the inferiority in either class ascribed to the use of mediocre sires is attributable to the feeder's unwise omission of juicy foods and too extravagant use of the materials at hand. The effort for better breeding steck should not be abandoned, but it should include an emphatic plea for more intelligent feeding, and the principles of the latter should be inculcated by educational agencies with impartial zeal. The relation of feeding to breeding is intimate, and the two processes should be co-operative. if rational feeding were given the attention which fashionable breeding receives the constitution, fecundity and general welfare of herds and flocks would be materially improved.

Timothy is considered by most horsemen as the best of all hays for horses. It is the standard hay. The recent comparison n ade at the Utah experiment station between timothy and lucerne or alfalfa for ordinary work horses is of interest to all horsemen. Six different trials were made. The horses were fed the same grain rations, but one horse of each team re ceived alfaifa bay while the other was fed timothy. The results of the tests show that it is not as difficult to maintain the weights of horses on alfalfa as on timothy. Besides this, it cost ess to feed them on alfalfa than on timothy, and the appearance of the horses was much better in every comparison on the alfalfa. They were sieeker and plumper, though the flesh did not appear quite so firm as on timothy. The teamsters did not note any difference in the willingness of the orses to work on the different rations, but the horses are the alfalfa with greater avidity, and they much preferred to feed the alfalfa.-C. B. Smith in Breeder's Gazette,

The Horse Shortage.

Notwithstanding the incursions of the bicycle, the automobile and the trolley cars there is a shortage of work horses. There is a big demand for heavy draft horses both in this conn try and Europe. Across the ocean the lemand is far ahead of the supply because of a lack of feed on the farms Farms are heavily taxed in producing food for human beings, and the best that can be done is to raise on the farm colt from the plaw and cart mare. For this reason the duty devolves upon this country to supply the horse short age both at home and abroad. On ac count of our inexhaustible resources for the production of forage and grain American farmers are equal to the task. The cities and towns of smaller ize are heavy consumers of draft horses and always will be, despite tteam, gas and el tricity.

Requirement For Bussers. The horse designed for the omnibus trade must be compact, with short legs and plenty of bone. He should weigh from 1,200 to 1,400 pounds and be a little over fifteen hands high. As these horses trot most of the time they should show plenty of activity and have a quick, elastic movement. Is some demand for this class of horses in America, but the greatest call comes from the old country cities where omnibuses are still the chief means of Doctors' Incomes in England. The British Medical Journal ventured an estimate of the average income that might be expected by the general practitioner in England and put it at $400 to $500. The estimate was copied into several daily papers and has produced a large crop of correspondence toeming with ridicule and indignation. The general practitioners, who ought to know, declare that only a small proportion of their number earn so much even after years of arduous work. The competition brought about by the overcrowded state of the profession is, they declare, so great that it is a cruelty to induce men by inflated estimates to enter it.

After the lalsors and toils of the summer time, and harvesting of crops in the early autumn, many of our farmers, their wives, daughters, and sons, find themselves in a condition of health demanding careful attention if suffering is to be avoided later on. Many experience kidney trouble in some form; with some the liver is torpid; there is biliousness, nausea, and womiting, with loss of appetite and depression of spirits. Thousands who have been exposed to cold, damp winds and rains while toiling in the harvest fields, now feel the twinges of terrible rheumatism; others run down by worry, overwork, and irregular dieting, are tormented with the pangs of dyspepsia.

To the thousands of run down, sickly, and half dead men and women in farm homes we recommend with all honesty and confidence the worker's friend, Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine that can quickly and fully restore strength to the weak body and vigor to the muscles. Paine's Celery Compound tones the stomach; it removes poisonous acids from the blood which cause theumatism; it feeds the weak and diseased nerves and banishes celery Compound in autumn means the establishing of a perfect physical vigor to withstand the rigors of a severe winter.

Sea Elephant Leather.

A New England sea captain named Cleveland has created a sensation by bringing home a few hides of the sea elephant, a giant seal thus far hunted for oil alone. The hides are said to be more flexible and tougher than those of cattle, and a process has been invented which produces from them a grade of leather superior to anything hitherto known. The elephants have increased rapidly in numbers during the last score of years on account of their comparative immunity from slaughter. Captain Cleveland's ship is the first vessel to sail after sea elephant bides.

Ripans Tabules are a common sense, effectual cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, heartburn, he dache, constipation, dizziness and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. They are intended for the use of men, women and children everywhere, and have proved beneficial in the majority of cases. It is not claimed that they will perform miracles, but some of the cures which they have effected amount almost to that. Easy to take and prompt in action, they have no rival as the best remedy for the every-day ills of humanity.

And New Year's eve was come again, and the people of the neighborhood were wild with excitement, for the ringing of the chimes in the church tower was an event that annually rejuvenated everybody. Thither on this bitter night, as the hands of the old clock ascended to the hour of 12, thousands wended their way. There were acres of fur cloaks and blue noses, and the frozen snow crunched with a metallic ring beneath a myriad of gum shoes. At last the great bells in the tower pealed out and told that another year had been born. And simultaneously the blare of trumpets, arising from the crowd, almost shut out their music. Suddenly a cry went up-a cry that some one had swooned. The horns ceased, the bells rang on, and everybody gathered around the prostrate form of young Willie Van Bussom, who lay upon the snow white and listless. "Is there a medical man in the Strong arms gladly obeyed, and Willie Van Bussom was borne away and deposited on a lounge in the physician's office. Then the crowd withdrew, the doors closed, and between her clinched teeth Dr. Prudence Wickham, alone with her victim, muttered:

"At last! At last!" For a time she surveyed the motioness form before her in glad triumph. Then, walking to her surgical case, she took out an assortment of knives and saws. Depositing them upon a small table near her patient's head, she took a strong cord from a wall closet and bound him hand and foot to the sofa, This accomplished, she held a vial of ammonia water to his nose and shook
