MCCOY AND PERRYDALE.

We spent Monday at those places. The towns around hold their own, but the country around is being made more productive, especially in the matter of stock. At McCoy we all ways find John Hill on deck. He is buying and selling some grain and the farmers still have some in his warehouse, holding it for better prices. They could now get 70 cents for their wheat. Last fall Mr. Hill brought home from Missouri two Red Duroc hogs. They are beauties and fully equal to Berkshires and Poland Chins. While there six hogs were brought in for shipment to Portland. The largest of the three brought in by Fred Rohde weighed 470 pounds and Mr. Bly, living on the old Dave Holmes place, had three that averaged 220 pounds. J. K. Sears was away looking after his farming interests in Spring Valley. J. D. Kivie came in for his mail and reported his 50 goats and 275 sheep in good condition. A wire fence has protected them from the coyote wolves of which there were about a dozen in the hills around last fall, but most of them have been killed. He says that said creature never leave a given neighborhood but if chased away are liable to come back the very next night. Charlie Post is in Eastern Oregon, El in poor health near Portland and Frank is employed at the insane asylum. V. Mackin has been postmaster there for 11 years and was selling groceries for several years before that. He showed us through the Odd Fellows lodge hall over Tozier's there. They have a membership of 45, owe nothing and have $1,000 in their treasury. They all feel a pride in their lodge room, which is one of the best in the valley. Thirty years ago that lodge, also a Masonic lodge, were located at McCoy, the latter having been moved to Amity some 20 years ago. Rev. Walker preaches there twice a month and has charge of the Sunday school. When he is away Miss Eloise Phillips, the popular teacher of the public school, takes charge of it. He boards with W. B. Duncan near Zona. The Merritts still run the hotel and Mrs. M. A. Post conducts a boarding house. Her brother Bud Friz, lives in the Lake Frizzell place. A. R. F. is an excellent stock of general merchandise in the El-tel store, and has everything in extra nice shape. J. M. Hamill carries a small stock of general merchandise in the Beveler store building and Mrs. Floyd Miller has a small stock of groceries. The blacksmith shop is closed for the present, and W. L. Strong is running a portable sawmill in a body of fir timber a few miles northeast. At the El-tel we saw four 10-cub foot cans of oil to be shipped by express to a Portland cannery. At 32¢ each a pair of butter fat, the contents of each can was worth between $7 and $8. One can belonged to Ira White, one to Albert Dumas and the others to Lawrence Keyt. Alex. Holmes and Ed Keyt ship from there about two carloads a week of hogs, sheep and cattle and about the same amount shipped weekly by L. P. Reese and C. H. Farmer. Miss Jennie McCanna has charge of the railroad business and no man could fill the position of agent better than she does. Miss Miller has bought and moved into the Mike McNulty property. Mr. McNulty has bought a small farm near Polk near his wife and children live near her father, Mr. Reddekopp, while he is away working near Portland. We found C. J. Strong scripping around with a lame back. Ed Keyt is feeding a large number of cattle and sheep for the Portland market and on the neighboring dairy ranch of J. M. Wis. are over 200 of each cattle and hogs. Five men are employed looking after things there. Mr. Snyder being foreman. They still have untouched one of the four big silos filled last summer. The silage is still green and all the stock on the place of it they can get. Mr. Wis and wife are in Boise City, Idaho, selling pianos and organs. Last week 37 fat cattle were shipped from their ranch and several 10 gallon cans of cream go to Portland each week. Across country to the north George Townsend is milking a dozen cows and ships four cars of butter fat every week. Since last fall he has sold $75 worth of fine Barred Plymouth Rock chickens and has one of the finest registered Jersey bulls in the county. We found the Perrydale pigs greatly improved by being freshly painted inside and out. The section crew were covering the mud around the building with several carloads of stone brought from south of Eugene. Mr. Clodfelter is station agent and his wife keeps a boarding house. H. B. Tingle, who used to be an important personage there, is now in Ohio. A. B. Strong, the village blacksmith, says there is not half so much work in his line as a few years ago. Asked why, he said it was because the farmers were turning their attention more to stock raising, grass and fruit than grain. Field Hedding still keeps the surrounding country supplied with furniture, hardware and agricultural implements, and Dr. H. H. Hanks looks after the sick. E. J. Keyt is not very strong but generally on the go and always on the look out. Henry Keyt had just sold a carload of fat sheep at over $4 each. Miss Rosa Smith is teaching the young idea how to shoot and A. J. Wise is taking life easy. D. L. Keyt has more iron in the fire than anybody. Besides an extensive general merchandise store there he has another at St. Helens, say nothing of several farms of which he has a general oversight. Dick Turner has a moderate charge at the Perrydale store and Mr. Morris at Sheridan. Then he has a flouring mill that runs all the year, consuming some 30,000 bushels of wheat. It has been a three roll, 50 barrel mill, but a millwright is now putting in a fourth roll, which will increase its capacity to 60 barrels a day. Next is that all, for he has bought out a milling and commission business in Portland and put A. J. McDaniel in charge of it. He has a big home demand for the product of his mill but will send all the surplus, as well as much secured through the trade of the two stores to the city. He expects many other merchants and farmers to gradually make commitments to his Portland house, the experience of himself and other merchants with city commission houses has led them to desire a change for the better. He related to us many instances of unfair dealing when some of said commission men had everything in their own hands.

Tendency of the Times.
The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with perfect confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is pain and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted. It always cures. For sale by Wilson Drug Co.
