

ITCHING ECZEMA

And Other Itching, Burning and Scaly Eruptions.

Instant Relief and Speedy Cure Afforded by

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills When All Else Fails.

COMPLETE TREATMENT, $1.00.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalded head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures and humors remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe the heat, and, lastly, in the severer forms, take Cuticura Resolvent Pills, to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring and humilating skin, scalp and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails.

Poison in Terebinth.
Numerous official persons in Terebinth have recently fallen victims to poison. It is believed some secret society is at work. The drinking water has been poisoned, but in most instances the poison has been conveyed in the sweets that every one eats so freely in Persia.

For Over Sixty Years.
An old and well tried remedy. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over sixty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. 25 cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

Sought Bargain in War.
Edward III. had just announced his intention of beginning the Hundred Years' war.
"But," sobbed Queen Philippa, "can't you reduce it to ninety-eight?"
Maddened, however, by this request for a bargain, he rushed out at once and pursued the crovns to pay the troops.—New York Tribune.

The scratch of a pin may cause the loss of a limb or even death when blood poisoning results from the injury. All danger of this may be avoided, however, by promptly applying Chamberlain's Pain-Expeller. It is an antiseptic and quick healing liniment for cuts, bruises and burns. For sale by Wilson Drug Co.

Caged birds are frequently much troubled with insects in their eyes. It will be found that hanging a small bag of sulphur in the cage will prevent these insects worrying the birds and will also improve their health in other ways.

When you feel blue and that every thing goes wrong, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse and invigorate your stomach, regulate your bowels, give you a relish for your food and make you feel that in this old world is a good place to live. For sale by Wilson Drug Co.

WHAT SHE WEARS.

Pine Fur—Red Cloth—New Silky Velveteens—Long Skirts.

Ermine takes the lead in furs for full dress wear upon wraps, coats of all lengths, the trimming of hats, as well as those separate fur set additions, as muffs, capes and stoles. The quantity of fur used in such long, wide stoles, as well as upon large muffs, makes the cost in expensive furs beyond all former ermine wear. Miniver shares the prestige of ermine in a less degree, but will no doubt rise in favor, since white fur is so much in demand.

Red has much chic this season not only in many of the novelty suitings, but in surface cloth itself, broken by white and black, all black or all white flecks. Then come emplacements, pings, straps or tails of red velvet or cloth to assist in emphasizing this color, which is a most becoming feature. Red zibeline is conspicuous for a walking suit, but it has won favor in that line and will be worn with black fox furs and black beaver hats and plumes. Pictorialism is in vogue, and for a driving suit holds its first place.

New silky velveteens carry the day. Mingled with smooth or shaggy cloths or without any such additions such suits promise no end of smartness. This new velveteen is so pliable that the skirts plait admirably. All silk velveteens have their appointed full dress elegance, and emplacements of fur and passementerie ornaments will combine to make their smartest trimming effects, together with chenille and silk short fringes and passementerie drops. Besides all this variety are the lovely laces in black and white, in cream and pearl tones, which are used for velvet coats.

As an example of velveteen and cloth is a lovely myrtle green two piece suit. A broad squirrel stole and huge muff, both lined with white satin, insure the extremely modish air of this suit.

Aprons of stoles, the cut shows a beautiful stole box of blue lynx with a cluster of tails at the waist line and across the ends and a large, soft muf.

STOLE AND SHAWL BOAS.

to match. The other soft, but different, called a shawl boa, is of sable lined with ermine and finished across the ends with wide tails, the muf to match being of the fashionable large, flat or tier.

Long broadcloth skirts, if without muf, are not by fashion with the tier.

Long broadcloth skirts, if without muf, are not by fashion with the tier.

There has never been a remedy that actually cured piles until this one was discovered by Dr. Perrin. There is not a person who suffers from this distressing disease who is not willing to pay $1 to have the cause removed permanently. Immediate results, and you take it—that's all.

inches wide, have a simple grace that is charming. With such a skirt, recently encountered, its color a warm bright wood shade, was a charming blouse bodice, slightly so in the back and with more of a pouch in the front. Stitches at the top of the skirt defined a yoke, while punched tucks gave this blouse the proper bolero line. Stitches also were the double capes, in two rows, above a black and white velvet in narrow stripes, being piped on the edges in narrow folds and continued down the fronts, which merely rolled over with cloth facings and with piped edging. The belt was bordered in the same way, with an inset black velvet in front. Collar band and wrist and wrist attachments carried out the same black and white effect, velvet and cloth mingling in the prettiest way with the addition of small buttons covered to match. The sleeves, by the way, were otherwise untrammelled and of the modified bishop model.—Vogue.

Little Tips For the Toilet.

One part beeswax to two parts turpentine, dissolved in heating, makes a good paste for polishing hardwood floors.

Dry oatmeal, cornmeal or bran rubbed on the hands after washing with warm water and soap will gradually soften and whiten them.

Try boiling potatoes half done before putting them to bake in the oven.

Those who do not go out of the house often breathe over and over again the lifeless air with which the rooms are filled.

Naked plating should be kept quite dry and polished. For this purpose use a camellia leaf.

To make meat and fowl tender put a spoonful of vinegar into the boiling water.

Do not be afraid to burn up trash. It is astonishing how rubbish will accumulate.

CONCERNING PUNCTUALITY.

Being Mostly a Complaint About People Who Are "Too Previous."

Time as the guests are who spoil a dinner and keep all their fellow guests waiting twenty minutes longer than necessary, thus prolonging the dreary dinner interval, I think one feels even more exasperated, from a hostess' point of view, with those who come too early. While the anxious giver of the feast is hurrying into her dinner dress, perhaps mindful of one or two small items yet undone, it is trying even to the most placid temperament to hear a peal from the hall door bell a quarter of an hour before the earliest expectation, announcing the advent of the first arrival, who must be admitted and smiled upon and conversed with in spite of aggrieved feelings.

Who does not know also those painfully early risers who get up long before breakfast, to the annoyance of housemaids and their own discomfort, who greet their host and hostess with a reproachful "We have been down some time."

Then there is the fussy host, who speeds his parting guests half an hour too soon to catch a train, thus inflicting on his victims a long wait at a dull, drab station till they are bored and tired before they commence their journey.

Life is too short to spend so much of it in unnecessary waiting as is done by these "too previous" spirits and the unfortunate they drag in their train. Punctuality does not consist in always being too soon for everything, as those householders seem to think who keep their clocks habitually ten minutes too fast. The happy knack of real punctuality is a royal gift, the outcome of forethought and kindly consideration for the feelings of those with whom we have to do.

As it has often been remarked that it is never safe to count upon our deaf friends being always dull of hearing, in the same way it is not wise on all occasions to reckon even on the most confirmed habit of procrastination. Dilatory people can and will sometimes unexpectedly bestir themselves, like a bride whose relatives so impressed upon her the necessity of being in good time on her wedding day that she arrived at the church before even the officiating clergy had put in an appearance.—Lady Omslow.

STORY OF A WORKSTAND.

An Easily Removable, Quickly Adjustable Folding Bag and Stand.
One day in the winter year, when for the first time the mercury was seeking the small figures in the neighborhood of zero, I was sitting by the window sewing, by the window principally because of the rather heavy work, with all its conveniences, stood there. As my blood congealed from weather and inaction united, the "too faraway" fire looked very inviting. But every woman knows what it is to gather up a big pile of work and all the tools of her trade and move from one location to another, even if that location be a more comfortable one. Just then I came Sally Sharp, under whose feet the grass never grows. She took in the situation at a glance. First she assisted in "the moving," then she said firmly, "What you need is a combined easily removable quickly adjustable bag stand for needlework of every description, and you shall have it!" And here it is as it appeared on Christmas morning—a nicely stained wood frame and a beautiful bag of mercerized cotton with rows of handy inside pockets that do not show in the design. The moral of this tale lies in the application of it.—Florence Gray.

You Will Be Happy if Well.

Paine's Celery Compound

Bestows that Health and Vigor that Makes Living a Pleasure.

If you are sick and out-of-sorts, it is in your power to make yourself healthy, strong, and happy.

There is not the slightest reason why you should go through life feeling sickly, miserable, languid, and melancholic. To be well and strong, means happiness and true joy.

If you are sleepless, rheumatic, neuralgic, dyspeptic, or have the shadows of disease hovering over you; if you are not as bright, energetic, and strong as you were some weeks ago, the use of Paine's Celery Compound will tone up and fortify your whole system, cleanse the blood, correct digestion, sharpen the appetite, and conduce to restful sleep. Thousands once in a half-dead condition owe their present good health to the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mr. Wm. S. Gibson, of Pleasantville, Ky., who, through sickness and suffering, was brought near the dark grave, writes as follows, regarding his marvelous cure:—

"I have been broken down in health and strength, nervous system shattered, kidneys out of order, had nervous and trembling spells off and on for the last ten years. I have taken three bottles of your Paine's Celery Compound and all of the above-mentioned troubles have left me, and I can now do a good day's work. I go about my business all day long and I don't worry me, and I now feel better than I have in ten years. I have a good appetite, can eat and get around on foot as active as when I was a boy. My age is 65 years."

GEMS IN VERSE

Motherhood.
So little a soul; scarce a cry
Or a name that is left to fly
To the heaven whence it came,
For the soul knows its wing,
And earth's night,
May fright the small thing!
So little a soul, scarce a breath;
Lost its way, drifted far,
Like a rose petal whirled
To the world
From a star
On the crest of a wave balancing
Between life and death, night and dawn
(Heaven's fingers so near)
Lost it tremble with fear,
Lost it open its wings
And be gone!
—Nelly H. Wordworth in Boston Journal.

The Prayers of the Little Ones.
How sorely pressed the Lord must be
With all the tearful people's woes!
The wearying for mastery
Above their strong, relentless foes;
The poor cry out against the rich,
The slave against his cruel master;
And of their cries must be unheard,
But God, I know, hears every word
When little children kneel to pray.
The grave-faced hypocrite who reads
The word the Master gave to men
And loudly prays and then proceeds
To crush the weak for gain and sin
May be so little that the Lord,
Attending to immense affairs,
In silence, but oh, how,
God still has time to heed, I know;
When little children say their prayers.

The Timid Kitten.
There was a little kitten once
Who was of dogs afraid,
And being by no means a dance,
His plans he boldly made.
He said: "It's only on the land
That dogs run after me,
So I will buy a catboat, and I'll sail away to sea."
"Out there from dogs I'll be secure,
And each night, ere I sleep,
To make assurance doubly sure
A dog watch I will keep."
He bought a catboat, hired a crew,
And on one fine summer day
Triumphantly his flag he flew
And gayly sailed away.
But in mid-ocean one midnight—
"Twice very, very dark—
The pilot screamed in sudden fright,
"I hear a passing bark!"
"Oh, what is that?" the kitten said.
The pilot said, "I fear
An ocean greyhound's just ahead
And drawing very near!"

Home For Inebriate Women.
The Canadian government has been petitioned to establish cottage homes in Ottawa for inebriate women. The petition states that in the city of Ottawa there are many women who are inebriate, and that the government should provide for them a home where they can be reformed and where they can find employment.

Keep on Fighting.
Napoleon once said that if a man did not attack the foe, push his flag into the thick of the enemy's ranks, he would soon be obliged to pull down his flag. In the temperance warfare if you are not fighting the saloon forces actively it will not be long before you will pull down your temperance banner.

Parents' Responsibility.
It is the right of every child to be well born, and to the parents it must look for health and happiness. How inconceivably great is the parents' responsibility, and how important that no taint of disease is left in the blood to be transmitted to the helpless child, entailing the most pitiable suffering, and marking its little body with offensive sores and eruptions, catarrh of the nose and throat, weak eyes, glandular swellings, brittle bones, white swelling and deformity.

How can parents look upon such little sufferers and not reproach themselves for bringing so much misery into the world? If you have any disease lurking in your system, how can you expect well developed, healthy children? Cleanse your own blood and build up your health, and you have not only enlarged your capacity for the enjoyment of the pleasures of life but have discharged a duty all parents owe to posterity, and made mankind healthier and happier.

There is no remedy that so surely reaches deep-seated, stubborn blood troubles as S. S. S. It searches out even hereditary poisons, and removes every taint from the blood, and builds up the general health. If weaklings are growing up around you, right the wrong by putting them on a course of S. S. S. at once. It is a purely vegetable medicine, harmless in its effects, and can be taken by both old and young without fear of any bad results.

Write us about your case, and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will also send our book on blood and skin diseases.

The Modern Church.
The holy church was once a thing apart—A thing of venerated petals and chanting choirs.
Of mystic language and symbolic art—Condemning life and all its warm desires.
The modern church is made for human need; Its ministers by men are understood; They preach an open book, an honest creed.
And every day a day for doing good; And no cathedral, with its climbing spire, Filter for worship than your grove, whose blue arched roof is higher.

And God was once a King upon a throne, A being far removed from sinful men, Velling his face in deep displeasure shown, With zealous fever shining forth again, But neither hope of heaven nor fear of hell Nor league awe of One who dwells above In starry realms, remote, invisible, Can cleanse the soul or kindle saving love! Eternity is now: today the judgment doth begin, And God is nearer than ourselves; his kingdom is within!
—Elaime G. Eastman in Independent.

The Inevitable.
I like the man who faces what he must With step triumphant and a heart of cheer.
Who fights the daily battle without fear, Sees his hopes fail, yet keeps unflinching true.
That God is God; that somehow true and just His plans work out for mortals; not a loss.
Is shed upon fortune which the world holds dear Falls from his grasp; better with love a crust Than living in dishonor; envies not Nor needs false in man, but does his best.
Nor murmurs at his humble lot, But, with a smile and words of hope, gives zest To every hour. He alone is great Who by a life heroic conquers fate.
—Sarah K. Bolton.

At Life's Close.
Oh, what a glory this world put on For him who, with a fervent heart, goes forth Under the bright and glorious sky and looms On duties well performed and days well spent!
For him the wind, ay, and the yellow leaves, Shall have a voice and give him eloquent teachings.
He shall so hear the solemn hymn that Death Has lifted up for all that he shall go To his long resting place without a tear.
—Longfellow.

Satisfied.
Love wore a threadbare dress of gray And toiled upon the road all day.
Love picked and carried pack And bent to heavy loads the back.
Though meager fed and sorely tasked, One only word Love ever said:
A child's white face to kiss at night, A woman's smile by candlelight.
—Margaret E. Sangster.

Fashion's Echoes.
The Irish laces are first in favor. The popularity of plaid fabrics increases. Shaded tulle are lovely new material for evening gowns. Two piece costumes are a prevailing mode. Much ribbon embroidery is used on evening gowns. The cape is the evening wrap par excellence. The plaid waist correctly accompanies the tailored skirt. Separate waists present a host of attractive modes. Norfolk jackets are stylish and popular this winter. Winter skirt waist costumes are almost as well liked as were the summer ones. The Monte Carlo coat or the kimono suggests the lines for the smartest of toppers.

The very plain skirt is relegated to the past and is supplanted by the plaited, skirted and skirted model. Velvets include metallic dots, color stripes, printed Persian effects, brocades, plaids and minor effects. The plain gored skirt appears this season, but the gored are many—six, seven or eight—and give the right flare.

GREAT SACRIFICES NEEDED.

Strong Note Sound by a Canadian Religious Journal.
The Christian Guardian of Toronto speaks upon certain things in connection with the campaign for prohibition in Canada as follows:

"We have received a rather strange letter touching on the referendum issue. Our correspondent, though a Prohibitionist, thinks that the effort to poll a respectable vote in December is a vain and foolish one and that the making of it means disaster to the Prohibition cause. One illustration of the soundness of his view he gives: A business man in his own city, who is a Prohibitionist and an official in the church, enjoys a considerable share of the patronage of the liquor dealers. His competitor for that trade along a certain line is neither favorable to the church nor the temperance cause. If the former votes in December, he stands to lose the custom referred to, and the less worthy man will gain it. Our correspondent thinks it is unfair and unjust to place a man in such a position.

"We believe that our day has become too enlightened for the successful working of the boycott and that liquor dealers will in the long run, as every one else does, deal where they think they can to the best advantage. But the temperance crusade will never win its holy sepulcher until men and women by the thousands are ready to count great sacrifice a joy for its sake. We are only really in earnest when that is the case, and it were better that the man who says, 'I am with you only so far as I run no financial or social risk,' should be counted against us than that we should strive to lower our standard to his Christless policy of expedience."

Novel Plan to Help on the Work of Temperance.
One of the planks in the Prohibition party platform of Vermont county, N. Y., and one which they hope to have made general throughout the state, reads:

Bright's Disease.
The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco August 30th, 1901. The transaction involved a coin and stock $115,500 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's disease and diabetes, hitherto incurable diseases. They commenced the serious investigation of the specific November 15th, 1900. They interviewed some of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to examine chronic Bright's disease, and administered it with the physicians or judges. Up to August 25th, eighty-seven per cent of the cases were either well or progressing favorably. There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be made free on application. Address John J. Eriton Company, 420 Montgomery street, San Francisco, California.

DON'T DO IT.

Don't overdo or underdo. Don't leer at anybody's religious belief. Don't be rude to your inferiors in social position. Don't contradict people, even if you are sure you're right. Don't underrate anything because you don't possess it. Don't go untidy on the plea that everybody knows you. Don't believe that everybody else in the world is happier than you. Don't be inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate friend.

quires every man who drinks liquor to take out a license, costing not less than $5 a year, every six months. The names of the holders of such licenses to be published in the official newspapers of the county, so that all any know who has a legal right to drink.

Plans for having a measure to this effect introduced in the legislature have been formulated. The promoters of the movement will try to secure the co-operation of church and temperance people throughout the state. A leader in the movement says:

"We admit that a large number of people who declare themselves as temperance advocates are working the side and back doors for quiet drinks, but it is also believed that many people would refrain from drink rather than have their names published as licensed toppers. The women throughout the state will welcome the movement, and if the measure can be brought before the legislature, with their influence and that of the churches, it is not believed that it can fail of favorable action."

OLD TOPER CURE.

Beneficial Effects of a Law of Iowa Prohibiting Habitual Drunkards.
Iowa has a law which provides for the confinement of habitual drunkards in insane asylums. It is popularly known as "the old toper law," and its enforcement is reported to be having a wonderful effect, says a writer in the Chicago Record-Herald. Many men who for years clung to the habit of getting drunk regularly have reformed and become more or less useful as citizens.

If such a law has the desired effect in Iowa, it might well be tried in other states. The insane asylum is the proper place anyway for people who are habitual drunkards. Surely no sane man ever is an habitual drunkard, though drunkards, like all other insane people, always get very indignant when they are accused of being mentally unbalanced.

If a sojourn of a few months in an insane asylum will cure a drunkard, it will be well to enlarge the asylums at once and have "old toper" laws adopted everywhere.

After a systematic exploration of the different strata of the Forum, Professor Boni, the Italian archaeologist, believes that he has discovered the Necropolis of primitive Rome, dating as far as the eighth century before Christ.

THE GOLDEN RULE.
Do as you would be done by.—Percival.

Do not that to a neighbor which you would take ill from him.—Grecian.

What you would not wish done to yourself do not unto others.—Chinese.

One should seek for others the happiness one desires for oneself.—Buddhist.

He sought for others the good he desired for himself. Let him pass on.—Egyptian.

All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you ye do even so to them.—Christian.

The true rule in business is to guard and do by the things of others as they do by their own.—Hindoo.

Let none of you treat his brother in a way he himself would dislike to be treated.—Mohammedanism.

The law imprinted on the hearts of all men is to love the members of society as themselves.—Roman.

Whatsoever you do not wish your neighbor to do to you do not him. This is the whole law; the rest is a mere exposition of it.—Jewish.

THE FASHIONS.
The majority of the zibeline, camel's hair and similar costumes of rough surfaced fabric are made with the jacket either in box or Monte Carlo shape.

An appropriate costume for morning wear has a skirt of nut brown faced cloth, with a tucked waist of tussore silk. Tussore wears remarkably well and is stylish in effect.
