AROUND PEEDEE.

On a recent foggy morning the writer dropped down into McTim-monds Valley headed south. Grandma McTimmonds and son Frastus live where the family settled so many years ago and a next school house graces the center of the valley. Joe Brown lives on the tarm formerly owned by Clay McTimmonds, who lives at Sodaville. Just across a canyon is the home of John Waters, and the Hannum's live further down the stream. Striking across toward Pedee we found Colombus Tetherow on the Atwater farm and W. I. Morrison at the old Nelson place. The country is rough but attractive and fine for stock. Descending a steep grade over a winding road we struck the sure enough Pedee tate. valley at the Bert Simpson ranch now owned by the R. C. Brown family, the count accepted and approved, subject Ronco mill being up stream not far to final secounting. Real property from there. Most of the year he finds a local demand for all the butter he can make. He has some fine Chester White hogs. Taking the book track toward Lewisville we found Ira Hooker and Walker Bevens living across the Luckiamute from the old Ander son Taylor place, the county having recently bridged the stream near the old cemetery there. A new road rune from there to just south of Airlie, Mr. Bevens is thinking of planting about ity acres in young chittem tree b I eving they will flourish there. Pass ing the homes of Mrs. P. A.
