A FARMER'S POINT OF VIEW
Why He Considers Good Roads Absolutely Necessary.
A farmer of Dubuque township, Ia., recently stated the case for good roads from the agricultural standpoint as follows:
"I consider them absolutely necessary. Farmers are very often compelled to come to the city to sell produce for the purpose of getting money with which to purchase necessities. I have known them to come to town for this purpose when the wheels of their wagons were so bad that they had to be replaced in the city. I have been a

PAIN'S CELERY COMPOUND
Does a Wondrous Work for a Lady Who Was Almost Crazed with Pain and Suffering.
It is well known that terrible rheumatism, sciatica, and neuralgia cause more helpless, acute suffering, and agony, than any of the other diseases that afflict humanity. The great medicinal virtues of Paine's Celery Compound make it the only trustworthy specific for the cure of all forms of rheumatism and neuralgia. Thousands of suffering testimonial letters from the most prominent people of the land, prove that Paine's Celery Compound has banished these terrible fatal troubles when all other treatment failed. Mrs. Margaret Bethel, of Brainerd, Minn., after thirty years of agonizing tortures had a desire to end her life, if it was the will of Heaven; she almost prayed for the time to lay it down. Heaven-directed, she made use of Paine's Celery Compound, and is enjoying true life once more. She says:
"For thirty years I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia in the head, and also with rheumatism in the whole body. I began taking Paine's Celery Compound and soon found it was doing me good. I am now cured. My life was such a burden that I almost prayed to lay it down. I was laid up every two weeks with horrible pain in the head, back, and limbs. I was almost crazed. I am able to do harder work and more of it today than for twenty-five years. I am really enjoying life again, thanks to Paine's Celery Compound. I am satisfied that my life has been prolonged many years by its use."

ORCHARD CULTIVATION.
Late Cultivation to Prevent Winter Killing in the Northwest.
Late cultivation or abundant moisture tends to a late, sappy growth of wood that is likely to winter kill. In the dry portions of the northwest, however, as Professor C. R. Wadsworth of the North Dakota experiment station has shown, the winter killing of fruit trees is "due to the drying up of the twigs so that in spring there is not enough moisture left in the plant to resume the life processes." Professor Wadsworth recommends, therefore, that orchards in that region be planted in deep soil, naturally mellow and moist, and cultivated from the beginning to the end of the season in order to retain as much moisture in the soil as possible. To further prevent the evaporation of the moisture from the ground in winter it is recommended that a light layer of straw or similar material be spread on the ground about the 1st of November. "This covering prevents the escape of moisture, as the drying winds cannot come in contact with the soil, and also the escape of the heat, thus delaying freezing for a considerable time and shortening the period in which the plant is losing moisture without means of supplying the loss." The application of this mulch has been found of the greatest importance in the northwest, "saving whole plantations in regions where unexpected trees were practically all killed."

King Billy's Decoration.
A story told by the late Commander Edward Barrett, U. S. N., shows that plated ware when no longer useful for domestic purposes on war ships can be devoted to the service of diplomacy. According to this story, some American navy officers, wishing to conciliate an African potentate named King Billy, presented him with a discarded soup ladle and a lot of gey ribbons. This so delighted the dusky sovereign that when he came aboard the ship to make a visit in state he wore the ladle tied on the front of his ample person with the variegated ribbons and also wore a dilapidated stovepipe hat.

ROAD REPAIRING.
Some Points by Connecticut's State Highway Commissioner.
In a letter to all selectmen of towns throughout Connecticut, State Highway Commissioner MacDonald gave some valuable points on road repairing. He said:
"All culverts and gutters should be cleaned out and all shoulders on the roads should be pared down so that they shall be level with the traveled portion of the road. This will prevent the water running off into the gutter. Gravel roads should have a little gravel placed on the toe marks in the center of the road and in the ruts. If this is not done at this season no good will result. All loose stones should be removed from macadam roads with the back of a rake, not the teeth. Loose stones injure a road as much as any one thing, because they are driven into the surface and break the bond.
"Where the stone is beginning to show through a little splinters or chips of stone should be applied to form a cushion. This cushion should not be more than three-fourths of an inch thick. No sprinkling or rolling is necessary. A ton of splinters will suffice for from 250 to 300 square feet. An ordinary farm roller, weighted down and run over the road after loose stones are removed, will improve it. It is not necessary to use screenings on a stone road, as they only furnish dust in dry weather. If the road is watched, a new surface will not be necessary, as it will not have the chance to get in bad condition."
He congratulates the selectmen on the fact that the roads have been so well looked after by them in accordance with the wishes of their disposal, and this fact will greatly aid in securing to the towns the state aid they are present enjoy.

Elephant Ears.
"Did you ever taste elephant ears?" asked an amateur botanist of his companion as they passed a forist's where one of the plants was displayed.
"No," replied his companion, "I never did."
"It's a good thing for you," said the botanist, "although it is an experience that will remain in your memory for a long time to come. I remember—oh, it seems like a hundred years back, yet the incident is fresh in my mind and as clear as crystal—when three boys were leaning across a wall looking at the plant in a garden. "I was one of the boys and the other two were telling me what a sweet treat elephant leaves had. At first I refused to taste the plant, but one of the boys put a piece in his mouth—at least he pretended to—and I agreed to cheer him up. Well, permission was a sugar compared to the drawing and biting of the elephant leaf and I had an hour after I had put the bit of leaf into my mouth I drank enough water to float a ship."

FOR THE CHILDREN
Obedient Edwin.
In the days when Edwin A. Abbey was a small boy he had the habit of critically scrutinizing every dish that was set before him at the table, much to the embarrassment of his family. His frequent disquisitions from the table were ineffectual, and something had to be done to work a cure, says the Ladies' Home Journal.
"Eddie" said his mother one day, "I heard thee speak about going to cousin Martha's for dinner next Sunday, and I am afraid we will have to make thee stay at home until thee learns politeness at the table. Thy picking at food would mortify me."
This threatened deprivation reduced the boy to tears, and after he had sobbingly promised not to look at everything according to his habit he was told that he might go.
The day came, and a large and merry family gathered to do justice to a tempting meal. Each of the little folks had a glass of delicious rich country milk at his place.
Noticing that Edwin was surreptitiously gazing at his glass, Mrs. Abbey observed with a well-understood meaning, "Edwin, why is thee not drinking thy milk?"
"With a determined air the boy hastily picked up the glass and, shutting his eyes as tight as possible, gulped its contents down.
"This sudden procedure attracted the attention of all the guests, and, fearing at least a severe scolding, the boy exclaimed: "I did it, mother. I—I swallowed it."
"Swallowed what?" hurriedly asked Mrs. Abbey, now more alarmed than amused.
"Those two files that got in my milk, but I swallowed them, mother! I swallowed them."
A Trick With Figures.
Ask a friend to put down four figures which you are not supposed to see. Let him add these up and subtract the sum from the original figure. Then let him strike out any figure in the result and tell you the sum of the remaining figures. You can instantly tell him what figure he struck out. The modulus operation is easy and depends on the esoteric qualities of 9. He puts down, say, 7,428. Add up the figures—21, which subtract and get 7,407. Cross out, say, 7. This leaves the sum of the remaining figures 11, which he announces. Mentally subtract 11 from the next highest multiple of 9, which is 18, and you get 7, which was the figure crossed out.

Why Rest is Necessary.
A belief lives strong in the hearts and minds of the majority of mankind, including persons of weak digestion, that a quick, brisk walk taken before a meal gets up an appetite and helps the stomach to digest the food. Now this is exactly what it doesn't do. Exercise spreads the blood throughout the body. For the proper digestion of food the blood is needed in the stomach. Few realize this important fact. After a long, exhausting walk, bicycle spin or any severe physical or mental strain take a good half hour's rest in a comfortable armchair or lying on a soft before you eat a substantial meal.
The Bergamot Tree.
There is but one spot in the world where the bergamot tree can be cultivated with profit, a fact of some importance, since its essence is indispensable in the manufacture of numerous perfumes and medical preparations. The spot referred to is Reggio, in Calabria, that extremity of the Italian peninsula which is familiarly known as "the toe of the boot."
His Fate.
Casey-O'Rafferty is a sick man. He has heart complaint and consumption. Murphy—Sure, consumption's a bad disease. Casey—It is that same; but it's slow. He'll die at the heart trouble a year or he'll die at the lung trouble.—Kansas City Journal.
People talk a great deal about the swiftness of true love, but admit that you are in love and they will laugh at you.—Atchison Globe.
For Over Sixty Years.
An old and well tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over sixty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gummy allays all the pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. 25 cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

Good Road Notes
Wide tires are road makers, narrow tires are road destroyers. In each state that does not already have one a wide tire law should be passed, simple in its requirements, positive in its enforcement.
In Erie county, N. Y., convict labor is used in turning out crushed stone for highway building. It is said the plan has proved very successful and is favored by the prisoners.
Owing to the few convicts available for road work in Wilkes county, Ga., some $300 worth of steel road workers were purchased, which are said to do the work of twenty-five men.
A deep foundation and a good water shed surface are the essentials to a perfect road. With these and the use of wide tires the stone roads will last for years.
Annual repairing is too seldom for a dirt road. It should be looked after whenever it gets out of shape.
It costs considerable money to build first class roads, but it costs very much more to get along without them.

The Wise Man Does Not Allow His Self to Run in a Hat.
The wise man keeps out of ruts. To be certain, however, that he will not completely miss his mark in early in life. He must not begin his life worth by restricting himself absolutely to a single channel. This does not mean that he should scatter his forces and attempt everything or should not become a specialist. But the more strictly he specializes the more carefully should he see to it that he does not become narrow and bigoted. The young man should early begin the habit of reading a newspaper. He will thus get a general education that he can obtain from no other source. But he cannot get all the education he requires, even of public affairs, from the newspapers. Let him not make this error. Their news is necessarily fragmentary. He should read regularly one or two good magazines of the class devoted to the discussion of questions of public interest. He should read a little good fiction.

Friday's child is loving and giving,

"Build thoughtful John, in a think voice."

"And what will my Charley be?" I said.
"He'll climb to the judge's bench, I know."
"Build be my mother's boy," he cried.
And I pray, as all shall take their place. On land or sea, 'till I see a great prize. That their loyal hearts may still rejoice. Though near or far, to the mother's boys.

SCROFULA
I bequeath to my children Scrofula with all its attendant horrors, humiliation and suffering. This is a strange legacy to leave to posterity; a heavy burden to place upon the shoulders of the young.
This treacherous disease dwarfs the body and hinders the growth and development of the faculties, and the child born of blood poison, or scrofula-tainted parentage, is poorly equipped for life's duties.
Scrofula is a disease with numerous and varied symptoms; enlarged glands or tumors about the neck and armpits, catarrh of the head, weak eyes and dreadful skin eruptions upon different parts of the body show the presence of tubercular or scrofulous matter in the blood. This dangerous and stealthy disease entrenches itself securely in the system and attacks the bones and tissues, destroys the red corpuscles of the blood, resulting in white swelling, a pallid, waxy appearance of the skin, loss of strength and a gradual wasting away of the body.
S. S. S. combines both purifying and tonic properties, and is guaranteed entirely vegetable, making it the ideal remedy in all scrofulous affections. It purifies the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and strong and a complete and permanent cure is soon effected. S. S. S. improves the digestion and assimilation of food, restores the lost properties to the blood and quickens the circulation, bringing a healthy color to the skin and vigor to the weak and emaciated body.
Write us about your case and our physicians will cheerfully advise and help you in every possible way to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.
