A STRONG WILL
"Mr. Stubbs was an obstinate man and generally walloped any man who stood in his way," said Dring, with a reminiscent air. "He fell in love with Polly Savory, but she would have none of him and told him that she preferred some one else. Then she turned her back on him and marched away without saying another word. "That made him show his teeth. "Now, look here, Polly," he says, "I'm one of the sort, I am, who always has his own way. I mean to have you for my wife, and you better be the man that comes between me and my girl! "Next day the news was all over the village. Stubbs was made a laughing stock, though he swore to break any chap's head who made fun. But even he could not trash a whole village. "As for Polly, he treated her shamefully, meeting her whenever he could and threatening murder against her 'gentleman' as soon as ever he found him out and telling her day after day that he'd make her his wife by fair means or foul. I was down in the dumps dreadfully, for I knew this gentleman as Polly said she had a fancy for couldn't be me. "Well, what I'm coming to is this Polly went to see a married sister living at Ambrose. Instead of going by the bridge, which is a mile away she borrowed old Garston's boat and scuttled herself across. She started back just as it was getting dusk, for there wasn't any moon that night, and down she comes to the bank where she had moored the boat. She got in, unlit the light and was just about to get up when, all on a sudden, Stubbs was standing on the bank above her. He takes off his hat, and says he: "Susan is that bad that I've been over to Marpleton to get her some doctor's stuff. I'll save a sight of time and be a real blessing to her if you'll let me cross to the boat with you." "Polly hadn't the heart to say 'No,' so she says very short: "If it's to do Susan good you can come." "And she sat down in the stern and let him shove off and take the scull. Then she saw that he was a pulling her out, and she knew she was done. "What are you a-doing?" she cries out. "I know what I'm a-doing right enough," says he. "Below Polly could hear the splashing and roaring of the weir, and right ahead she could see where the river divided, and she knew some folks of it would lead them on to certain death. Which was he going? "Polly," he says, "you're going to marry me." "Never," she answered him. "Never, you poor thing!" "Then we'll die together this night!" he says, scowling at her like the black devil he was. "Over the weir we'll go. He pulled sharp around with his left as he spoke. She looked behind, and he gave a laugh. "The rudder's in the bows," he says. "I put it there out of harm's way. We'll let her drift now, and in just about three minutes we shall be in kingdom come. Polly, will you have me?" "Never," she tells him again. "Then it's death," he cries out, shipping his sculls, "and a long kiss, sweet heart, before it comes!" "He jumped up and moved toward her, with his arms out, when, quicker than I'm a-telling you, Polly swings herself with a big jerk over to port and with her right hand she reaches and gives him a push to help him, and, slap, over he went into the river. The boat righted and Polly was in his seat and had the sculls out in less than a quarter of a minute. She was only just in time, for the boat weren't fifty yards from the weir, and hard work it was sculling round against stream, but somehow she managed it, and back she came safe to old Garston's. All of a tremble she was with rage when she landed, for I happened to be there quite promiscuous, and she told us all about it. "I hope he's drowned," says old Garston. "No fear of that," says his wife. "He swims too well, and ain't afraid of drowning. You have the law on him, my dear," she says to Polly. "'No,'" says Polly, just a-looking at me, "that ain't the sort of punishment I want him to have." "So," says I, "if you'll kindly excuse me, I must be going." "And with that I goes straight off to call on Dick Stubbs. He was at home, but a-changing his things, his sister said. So I waited till he come down and then I says, very polite, "Could I have a little word with you outside, Mr. Stubbs?" He come out, and I give him a clasp on the head that just astonish'd him. "With Miss Savory's compliments," says I, "and will you come round to the Bull yard? There's a light there, and one or two mates to see fair play." "It was a good fight, sir," Dring went on, rubbing his hands at the recollection, "and a hard one to wallop he was, but I walloped him till he couldn't stand, and he's never forgive me." "And Polly?" I asked. "Come on to supper, Bill," cried a pleasant woman's voice from within. "You'll find me and peek a bit I hope, sir," said he, pleased at the dramatic finish. "That's Polly a-calling."

FACTS IN FEW LINES
The deficit on account of the British postal telegraph is $4,500,000 for the year.
Chewing gum is regularly supplied to inmates of insane asylums by the Minnesota state board of control.
Of the strikes in Great Britain last year 93,217 were successful, 35,515 unsuccessful and 41,645 accepted compromise.
On the baby's third birthday it should weigh thirty-one pounds if a boy and thirty if a girl. It should measure nineteen and a half inches around the head and twenty inches around the chest.
The Atlantic Transport line recently had four similar ships built, two in Belfast and two in Philadelphia. The American built ships cost $1,575,000, while the Belfast ones cost $1,450,000.
In telephoning between Paris and London during a storm conversation in English is impossible, but French is easily understood because it has not so many sibilant sounds and unequally accented syllables.
States having less than one-sixth of the population choose a majority of the entire senate.
American imports from Sheffield, England, last year were worth $2,242,000, an increase of $415,000 over the year previous, but only $811,000 of this was for manufactured goods, the bulk being steel sheets, bars and plates.
Railway wrecking cranes are now constructed as high as fifty tons capacity. Such a crane will swing a loaded freight car from any place within reach or raise a locomotive after its easily detachable parts are removed.
Few people know that Baron Munchausen, hero of so many extraordinary adventures, was a real person, a member of an ancient Hesse-Rhodes family. He served in the Russo-Turkish wars of the latter half of the eighteenth century.
Of the $1,039,274 worth of bananas which went into New York city within the last year 2,362,000 bunches were from the British West Indies, 1,152,000 from Costa Rica, $7,000 from Colombia and 456 from Cuba. They pay no duty.
Scotsmen claim St. Patrick as a countryman, but it is not so well known that the erstwhile rebel ditty, "The Wearing o' the Green," is claimed in behalf of a Scottish composer, James Oswald. The song is 150 years old if it is a day.
It is calculated that the number of timber sleepers on the railways of the world does not fall far short of 1,450,000,000, and a low estimate of their value is $900,000,000. This alone constituted a serious drain on the timber supplies of the world.
The greater number of the clergy of the Church of England have not enough to eat and drink, hundreds of them are clothed in secondhand garments sent to a charitable society, and many of them have no fuel by means of which to keep themselves warm.
In Australia, under a new law, no contract can be made for the carrying of mails by any steamship line which allows a colored man to work on any of the ships. The mail steamers hitherto have been largely manned by dark skinned British subjects from India.
The weather bureau collects its information by telegraph, and for a short time twice a day the whole telegraphic system of the country is at its service to the exclusion of all other business whatsoever. The telegrams are sent in cipher to secure their correct, careful transmission and to lessen tolls.

According to statistics recently gathered, about 30,000,000 people are living in prohibition territory in this country. This is more than one-third of the entire population. In Maine, Kansas and North Dakota they have prohibition by state law, and in thirty-eight other states they have it by local option.
"The question of labor is really assuming a serious aspect," says Lord Alfred Milner, governor of the British South African colonies, in urging the importation of 100,000 coolies from India to be placed upon public works in the Transvaal. British labor unions will probably prevent this use of alien labor.
The ship Terra Nova has now sailed from England to relieve the Discovery. The British government, which has appropriated $200,000 for the expedition, is acting without the advice of the Royal Geographical Society, and the Royal Society, which originally sent the expedition, assisted by a grant from the government.
The growing use of electric light signs has caused legislation on the subject. In London some time ago in regard to "flashers," which were restricted. The owners of the electric signs above the sidewalk in Chicago have been officially notified that their signs must be kept alight until 11 o'clock p. m., or the licenses will be revoked.
Austrian cotton mills use 318,000,000 pounds of cotton a year, two-thirds of which is American. The cotton is shipped from the United States direct to Bremen or Hamburg and thence forwarded by rail or on the river Elbe to its place of destination. The highest wage in the mills of Austria is $1.02 per day, and weavers get 41 to 61 cents for an eleven hour day.
The mosquito which injects yellow fever with its promissive tones of may as well as by night and is called the day or striped mosquito. It is found chiefly in cities, where it breeds in any chance receptacle of water. The eggs are laid in standing water, and although the receptacle may dry up, the eggs do not desiccate, but will hatch as soon as it rains contains water. There are resemble those of other mosquito toos and are readily killed by a kerosene film on the surface of the water.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS
THE JEWEL WEEDS.
Snow and Freezing Rain are Notters to These Hardy Plants.
In early spring, before all the old snow has gone and only the hardest plants are beginning to appear—wild leeks, adder tongue, claytonias and the like—while you see that the grass is growing in some places, you may find in damp, rich soil along spring runs or near the larger brooks many broad leaved seedlings with smooth, rounded seed leaves very numerous and conspicuous. They are jewel weeds, probably Impatiens fulva, for this species is more common than L. pallida, though the latter may be plenty where it grows at all.
The garden balsam and the "every day flower" (Impatiens sulcata) are of the same genus, and there are others in southern Asia, but only one of the fulva and pallida. I, noli tangere is found in Europe, and John Burroughs states that our fulva is naturalized in Scotland and is spreading fast along certain rivers.
The snow and freezing rain may cover these sections again and again, but it may be covered with lovely and curious flowers, budding and blooming month after month. The young leaves put into water show a quicksilver reflection and form one of the diversions of childhood. Silver leaves we call them. To expedite the ripe pods were

Ayer's Hair Vigor
Feed your hair; nourish it; give it something to live on. Then it will stop falling, and will grow long and heavy. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the only hair food you can buy. For 60 years it has been doing just what we claim it will do. It will not disappoint you.
My hair used to be very short. But after using Ayer's Hair Vigor a short time it began to grow, and now it is fourteen inches long. This seems a wonderful result to me after being almost bald without any hair.

Grading and Packing Fruit.
When one looks at the intelligence shown by the Californians and the Floridians in the matter of grading and packing of their fruits as well as in the inviting packages they use, he is forced to admit the comparative lack of intelligence or of interest on the part of growers of fruit in New England and the middle states, says a Boston apple exporter in American Cultivator.
When to Water the Palm.
If a palm plant be dry the tips can be coiled round the finger with ease. A little wilting does no harm. Warm water should always be used for palms kept in rooms and hothouses, as warm indeed as 68 degrees F.—Mechan's.
Fruit Items.
Cult. bushes can be cut back any time till March, taking off about two-thirds of the new wood of the last season's growth.
For the berry patch nothing surpasses good stable manure applied in fall or early winter.
Very early varieties of peanuts are reported to have done well on sandy loam soils in the warmer regions of Ontario.
Red raspberry growing in on the increase in New Jersey fruit sections, with the Miller a leading variety.
At the recent apple congress it was claimed that western growers lead in the production of this fruit, and for commercial purposes Ben Davis forms a large percentage of the apples grown.
Pears stored in open packages for a long time wilt considerably. Closed packages are therefore recommended by good authorities.
It is often less expensive to plant out a new strawberry bed than to clean out an old one.
St. Louis is to have an Apple day during which every person attending the fair will receive an apple.
Greatest Clock Ever Made.
Before next spring the greatest clock in the world will have the finishing touches put upon it in Milwaukee, Wis. It is being constructed for the St. Louis exposition. The dial will be 120 feet in diameter. It is unique in other ways, for it is to consist of a bed of flowers. The numerals marking the various hours will be fifteen feet in length and made of light colored, dense foliage plant with red leaves. In a broad circle surrounding the dial will be twelve flower beds, one open to each hour. These will be of various flowers, each selected so that the blossoms will open at the particular hour it represents and at no other. In this way both the hands of the clock and the flowers will tell the time of day. At night the timepiece will be illuminated, with 2,000 incandescent lamps. To florists, if not to the general public, this will be one of the most interesting features of the exposition.
Sweet Good Dinners.

GIRLHOOD WOMANHOOD MOTHERHOOD
The first lesson that the young girl has in womanhood is usually a painful one. She learns to know what headache means, and backache, and sometimes is sadly borne down by this new experience of life. All the pain and misery which young girls commonly experience at such a time may, in almost every instance, be entirely removed or cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity. It tones up the general health, and cures headache, backache, nervousness and other consequences of womanly weakness or disease.
The anxious mother of the family often carries the whole burden of responsibility so far as the home medication of common ailments of the girls or boys are concerned. The rest of the doctor's visits is very often much too great. At such times the mother is invited to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for medical advice, which is given free. Correspondence is held strictly confidential.
Bucked up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to new sufferers of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Profluvium, or Falling of the Womb, the most complete cure. All the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, of Buffalo, N. Y., ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.
"Your wonderful medicine," "Favorite Prescription," has helped me greatly in time of suffering. Mrs. Minnie Wright, of Edward, Ind. "Last winter I was unable to do my work. I used three bottles of Favorite Prescription, and will say I had the easiest and quickest cure I ever had. Had three children before, and would suffer from twelve to thirty-six hours before birth, but this time only two hours. Have a fine baby and she is the most healthy one of all. I am still using the Favorite Prescription as a tonic."

another resource of our younger days. Touching the capsule tip carefully with the finger, the pod would split and the pieces coil up so suddenly that capsule and seed would fly some distance. Some expert hybridizer should try his hand on the Jewel weeds. Once started on a career of variation, white, crimson, tiger spotted and other sorts of flowers of many sizes and forms might be ours.—American Botanist.

Hothed Shutter.
Among inside work for the winter is the getting of hothed mats and shutters in readiness and sash mended. As to the making of the former an Ohio Farmer writer has given the following instructions:
For the mats a supply of long, dry straw, tarred string or strong linen twine is necessary. There are various ways of making the mats, the simplest being upon a frame of 2 by 4 inches scantling of the same size as the mats. With long straw a mat six feet square can be made. The tarred rope is stretched lengthwise of the frame so as to bring the strands one foot apart and six inches from each side and fastened to eight penny nails driven into the 2 by 4 pieces. Bundles of straw of large size can be inclosed by the thumb and middle finger are placed on the frame, with the butts even with the sides, placing the butts alternately to the right and left, and are tied in place by strong lemp twine. If the mats are kept covered and are stored where mice cannot destroy them they can be used for many years.

The shutters for covering the mats should be six and one-half feet long and three feet to three feet six inches wide, made of one-half inch matched lumber, with cleats across the end and middle and with handles. They form a very useful addition to one's equipment.
Dog's Keen Scent.
A sensitive dog will follow the track of a man who is wearing his master's boots and will reject the track of his master if he has on strange boots.
A New Milk Tester.
Milk varies in viscosity with composition and temperature, and a new apparatus called the "lacto viscosimeter" is regarded by French physicists as solving the problem of a simple test for milk. It consists of a tinned copper reservoir mounted on a tripod, with a fine glass tube as outlet. When the reservoir is filled with a sample of the milk the stopcock is opened, and the time required for the escape of the liquid is noted in seconds, with the temperature, and reference to a table shows the exact character of milk corresponding to these data.
A Case in Point.
"I wonder what is meant by the statement that 'nature equalizes things'?"
"Well, if nature endows a woman with small feet it gives her a big head."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Orator, Entre Neurs Club.
178 Warren Avenue,
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disinclined as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a desolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised me to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he told me I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was rapid. With this in evidence I got a second bottle being.
Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is made by female weakness and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.
