Built up Big Industry.

The shipping of cream to Portland has come to be an important industry in various parts of the northwest. Cream stations for the Hazelwood Cream Co. (the big Portland creamery) have been established in over forty localities in the northwest, and to each of these stations a number of cream routes deliver their loads of cream for Hazelwood butter. The rapid growth of the Hazelwood creamery is regarded as being due to their system of paying for the cream. They get a higher price for Hazelwood butter than is obtained for any other brand of butter made in the United States, it is said, and they pay the producer on the basis of this high selling price. Whenever the price of Hazelwood butter changes, the price paid for cream always changes exactly in the same proportion, so no matter how high the market price may be, the farmer gets the full benefit. These cream stations mean a great deal to a dairy community, as the checks are sent in monthly from Portland, and it keeps a good deal of Portland money in circulation in all those localities.

Al Baxter, of Salt Creek, was auctioneer and made the baskets bring from $1 to $3.50 that of Miss Sadie Gordin going at the highest figure. The shed to protect teams from bad weather will cost about $100 all of which has been raised.

High Pressure Days.

Men and women alike have to work incessantly with brain and hand to hold their own nowadays. Never were the demands of business, the wants of the family, the requirements of society, more numerous. The first effect of the pressure was to keep up with all these demands, and in a weakened or debilitated condition of the nervous system, which results in dyspepsia, defective nutrition of both body and brain, and in extreme cases in complete nervous prostration. It is clearly seen that what is needed is what will sustain the system, give vigor and tone to the nerves, and keep the digestive and assimilative functions healthy and active, from personal knowledge, we can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla for this purpose, it acts on all the vital organs builds up the whole system, and fits men and women for these high-pressure days.

From Independence.

The Itemizer has several times, in the interest of decency, morality, and the general welfare of the town and community, called attention to a vile house and its degraded inmates in this midst. A majority of our citizens and part of the city council do not uphold such places and are bitterly opposed to having anything so disgraceful and so demoralizing in the city. All who are really interested in the moral welfare of our young people are earnestly wishing and working for the time when public sentiment will demand that the city authorities shall enforce the law and compel the suppression of the demoralizing place which is now upholding in the city. Who claim to be on the side of decency and better things.

Pooling Their Hops.

There has been a row on in Portland this week between hop growers and hop buyers. About sixty of the leading growers in the state met Tuesday. A conference showed almost 17,000 bales unsold and 14,000 of them were withdrawn from the market, the holders agreeing to not sell before the first of August unless they can get over 30 cents. They believe the intrinsic value of hops to range between 30 and 40 cents and that interested parties have manipulated and kept down prices. A small buyer supposed to be acting for eastern persons applied for a restraining injunction against the pool on the ground that it would prevent the market from taking its natural course. J. W. Myer, T. A. Riggs, Henry Claffield, E. C. Kirkpatrick and R. E. Williams of this county were present.
