Mrs. Chloe Butz, Editress.

The Pioneer towns in the Imperial valley in lower California, have several unique features besides that of being considerably below the level of the sea. One of these is the depth of the soil, all alluvial, which is said to be not less than 700 feet and another is the fact that there is not a saloon or gambling place in the whole valley with its present population of 10,000. This happy condition is owing to the fact that when the valley was opened for settlement about 6 years ago the original owners of the land ran a clause in all their deeds forbidding the manufacture of liquor on any and all property sold. Thus a prohibition law of the most iron clad kind has been fastened on the country. The natural result has been remarkably free from the evil elements that too often dominate frontier communities, and especially crimes of violence, have been exceedingly rare. On the other hand, the condition named has attracted a temperate, thrifty and progressive class of settlers who have placed emphasis upon the building up of schools, churches and industrial establishments rather than upon agencies of evil.—Leslies Weekly.

What of the Night.

"The time has come when men with hearts and brains
Must rise and take the misdirected reins
Of government, too long left in the hands
Of aliens and lackeys. He who stands
And sees the mighty vehicle of state
Hauled through the mire to some ignoble fate
And makes not such bold protest as he can,
Is no American."

This sentiment has "struck fire" in the hearts of many public officials, noticeably govenors. The year just closed is full of victories. Governer Hanley of Indianna, refuses to appoint drinking men to office. The Civic federation secured a cancellation of 170 saloon licenses in Omaha in January 1906. Governor Folk, of Missouri, has enforced the Sunday closing law in Missouri's three great cities. Governor Mickey, Nebraska, recently refused to appoint an applicant to office because he was profane and a drinking man. Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, has expressed a willingness to canvass every county in the state for prohibition. Through Sunday closing and local option the profits of the Texas breweries fell off the past year over 40 per cent. Major Howard, of Rochester, N. Y, says: "I do not invite death by violence, but if by my death the kingdom of God can be better served than by my life, and if my blood crying to God from the ground would send an earthquake and awaken the conscience of the of church of God in Rochester, and if my death would mean the death of the saloon, I am ready to die."

ANOTHER SPECIAL PRIZE.

A 56-Piece China Dinner Set Given for First 20 New Subscribers Secured After January 25th.

The second special prize to be offered in our Subscription contest will be a 56-piece China dinner set, now on display in the window of Meiser & Meiser, Dallas. The first person to send in 20 new subscriptions, obtained after January 25th, will be awarded this handsome set. Coupons will not count in this contest, but votes secured in getting new subscribers can be applied on the piano contest, if so desired. Anyone can get out and work for this chinaware—you do not have to be a contestant in the piano contest. Sample copies sent to prospective subscribers. A few hours earnest work ought to land this prize in any section of the county, as there is lots of new residents in every vicinity.

Dallas vs. Salem Y. M. C. A.

In the third game of the regular State Basket ball league series, the Dallas college team defeated Salem Y. M. C. A. on the local court last night by a score of 27 to 18. Dallas played two second team men and this probably accounts for the closeness of the score, although the Salem boys played a plucky game. Dallas started off with a rush, and while fumbles were frequent, at the end of the first half the score stood 10 to 3 in favor of the collegians. Salem displayed better team work and passing in the last half and by some accurate goal shooting on the part of Allen the score was lifted fifteen more points. Dallas made eleven points in this half. Neither collectively nor individually did the Dallas team play their usual game, and fumbles were frequent on their part. For Salem, Simonton at guard, Brasher at forward and Allen, center, played a good game. The lineup:

Y. M. C. A.	Position	Dallas.
Rhodes	Forward	Launer
Bashor	Forward	Craven
Allen	Center	Fenton
Simonton	Guard	Arnold
Steinbach	Guard	Morton

BIDS FOR BUSINESS.

What Our Merchants have to Offer the Buying Public.

Mr. C. Risser is prepared to sell you a new umbrella or repair your old one. He has ammunition and fire arms of all kinds for sale. If you get your shells loaded there, you can be certain of getting what you shoot at.

For some time it has been recognized by all that the Stafrin drug store was forging far ahead in the matter of popularity and patronage. In fact this store has long enjoyed the major portion of the trade tributary to this city. Their courtesy to all, carefullness in preparing perscriptions, excellent goods and fair prices, have aided materially in bringing this about.

SALEM MEN TALK.

When in the Capital City do not Fail to Call on Them.

The Barnes Cash Store people are closing out broken lines of dress good at very attractive figures, for instance a fifty cent article for 35 cents and $1.25 goods at 75 cents. Your neighbor will thank you for telling them about it. All they have is good and cheaper than at most other stores.

Once again we call the attention of those who need boys and mens clothing to the fact that one of the very best selections in the city is carried by Oscar Johnson on State street. His patrons are mainly the great middle class, who want substantial things at moderate prices. No other clothier in town can come nearer pleasing you and your friends.

Among the Real Home Comforts

Electricity Stands at the head of the list. It cannot be excelled for its cheapness, convenience nor its brilliancy. There are many homes in Dallas that can be lighted for One Dollar a Month. That saves you time, trouble and annoyance in handling coal oil and also lessens the risk you take of being burned out.

Try Some of Our Electric Conveniences:

Electric motor power is the best and cheapest. It occupies but little floor space, is always ready, and all danger of blowups or fire is entirely eliminated. Let us give you an estimate.

An electric sad iron is always hot and ready to use. No waits, no broiling over a hot stove, no scorched garments, Always just right. Have one put in on 10 days trial, free of charge.

An electric radiator in your bedroom would make very comfortable to arise by. Turn it on and there you are; no bother, no smell, no litter—just warmth. Not so costly either.

Reading the Milestone.

I stepped to read the milestone here,
A laggard schoolboy, long ago.
I came not far; my home was near,
But, ah, how far I longed to go!

Behold a number and a name,
A finger, westward, cut in stone;
The vision of a city came,
Across the dust and distance shown.

Around me lay the farms asleep
In hazes of autumnal air,
And sounds that quiet loves to keep
Were heard, and heard not, everywhere.

I read the milestone day by day;
I yearned to cross the barren bound,
To know the golden Faraway,
To walk the new Enchanted Ground!
—John James Platt.

Castle Yesterday.

In the Valley of Contentment, just beyond the Hills of Old,
Where the streams are always silver and the sunshine always gold,
Where the hour is ever morning and the skies are never gray,
In the yellow haze of springtime stands the Castle Yesterday.

Oh, the seasons that we spent there when the whole wide world was young,
The friends we've had as maid and lad, the songs that we have sung!
The echoes of their music cannot quite have died away,
But still must thrill the rooftree of the Castle Yesterday.

And the loving hearts we knew there in the time of trust and truth,
Surely still they wait behind us in the Pantheon of youth!
But the angel of the valley at the portal bars our way,
And a flaming sword forbids us from the Castle Yesterday.

When the pilgrimage is ended, may we turn then, may we change
To the vanished and familiar from the present and the strange?
Whoso chooses to his heaven, I shall be content to stay
Where the ghosts of dead years wander through the halls of Yesterday.
—Reginald Wright Kauffman.

The Call of the City.

Do you hear the call of the city?
Do you mark how the men reply?
Thousands and hundreds of thousands
The crowds are hurrying by.
And those who have failed are many,
And many are those who have won,
But the most of all the thousands
Are the men who have just begun.

For "youth" is the call of the city,
And the strong young men come forth
From the cheer of the southern plantations,
From the desolate farms of the north,
From the old New England homestead,
From the lonely ranch in the west;
They bring their strength to the struggle,
They offer the city their best.

They give their youth and vigor
In eager sacrifice,
And out of the stress of their toiling
Shall the City of Beauty arise.
They are worn and spent with labor,
They are tossed aside again,
And the city is calling, calling,
For the lives of other men.
—Anna Louise Strong.

The Unrepentant.

Now my time has come to die,
Good my masters, hear;
This a sinner's litany
Daring to your ear:
Life hath played for me to dance
Up and down the line,
(Eh, I paid the fiddler, sirs,
But the dance was fine!)

Love came swinging to my call—
Black eyed love and bold;
Give me scarlet lips to kiss,
Both her hands to hold.
Fast and faster fell our feet
To the music's beat.
(Eh, I paid the fiddler, sirs,
But the dance was sweet!)

I have danced it through the world—
Ah, the merry tune!
Danced the red sun down the west,
Danced away the moon.
Could I cavil at the price?
Out on souls so mean!
(Eh, I paid the fiddler, sirs,
But the dance was keen!)

Beggared now, my masters all,
Cry your cold dispraise;
Raise your eyes and count your gold;
Trudge your dreary ways.
I, the pauper, richer far,
Envy not nor pine,
(Eh, I paid the fiddler, sirs,
But the dance—was mine!)
—Theodosia Garrison.

A Nation's Strength.

What builds the nation's pillars high
And its foundations strong?
What makes it mighty to defy
The foes that round it throng?

It is not gold. Its kingdoms grand
Go down in battle's shock;
Its shafts are laid on sinking sand,
Not on abiding rock.

Is it the sword? Ask the red dust
Of empires passed away;
The blood has turned their stones to rust,
Their glory to decay.

And is it pride? Ah, that bright crown
Has seemed to nations sweet,
But God has struck its luster down
In ashes at his feet!

Not gold, but only man, can make
A people great and strong;
Men who, for truth and honor's sake,
Stand fast and suffer long.

Brave men who work while others sleep,
Who dare while others fly—
They build a nation's pillars deep
And lift them to the sky.
—Emerson.

The Wanderer.

Have I finished my life? Am I done?
Is my heart blood thin and cold
That I gnaw the bones of the town?
Am I empty and old?

My flags are the chimney's grime,
Tossed on a languid breeze.
Have I dreamed of the roaring rhyme,
A storm through the trees?

The snow in the streets is black,
Profaned with the city's sin,
I know of a starlit track
Where God's hand has been.

Have I finished with snow and sun,
With the wind on the open plain,
That I starve in the barren town—
Is my life in vain?
—Mrs. Whitney.

Govern the lips
As they were palace doors, the king within
Tranquil and fair and courteous be all words
Which from that presence win.
—Sir Edwin Arnold.

Possibilities.

"But," protested the first dear girl, "I haven't got the face to ask a favor of him."

"Well," rejoined dear girl No. 2, "you might visit a complexion specialist and have your face remodeled."—Chicago News.
